SENATE STOPS CLOCK; LIQUOR BILL SPEEDED UP

Redraft Is Advanced to Third Reading.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 10 [Wednesday].—[Special.]—By the old expedient of stopping the hands of the official clock the Illinois senate at 1 o'clock this morning advanced the proposed liquor control bill to third reading, the stage upon which it is ready for final action in that house.

All evening long there was a steady flow of amendments even on top of an administration amendment, No. 204, which itself was a complete revision of the entire text of the long pending measure.

There were no major changes effected from the floor, but the senators were determined to finish their second reading job by acting on amendments even after the midnight hour.

What Constitution Requires.

The constitution requires the consideration of a bill in each house on three separate legislative days. By stopping the clock the senators saved a day. To do so they were compelled to take up forty amendments, nearly all of which had been considered earlier in this special session.

The warmest tilt of the night came over a demand from James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville] and other downstaters that the Horner-Kelly agreement concerning the composition of the Chicago appeal commission be extended to the other cities of the state. The feature under debate was the provision that a state commission be in control except for Chicago, where the city council would name one commissioner to sit with the chairman of the state commission and the secretary of state. The Monroe amendment was defeated on roll call by a vote of 24 to 8.

The senate also voted down an amendment which would have permitted the sale of beer only over bars. The bill eliminates bars in the state.

Speculate on Final Vote.

There was no decision last night whether the final senate vote will be attempted today. Because of a large number of absences there is considerable doubt on the question.

There had been 112 amendments adopted when the senate started business yesterday. These now are eliminated except so far as they are incorporated in amendment No. 204, but in addition there was another miscellany of amendments tacked on following No. 204. Therefore even the experts of the two houses are at a loss as to the exact situation.

Gov. Horner remained confined to the executive mansion with the severe cold with which he has been afflicted this week, but Senator Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton] asserted repeatedly that the plan of the procedure followed was the governor's.

In general, the rewritten bill follows the lines of the agreement existing between Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly of Chicago as a result of their second negotiations aimed to take Illinois out of the "lawless" class.

Landlord Has Close Call.

Of the amendments, the most attention went to one by Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], chairman of the liquor commission. Under his vigorous protest the chamber struck out a provision of the rewritten bill to make the purchaser of illicit liquor equally guilty with the seller.

Another controversy was caused by a second Ward amendment to strike out a provision that once a retailer's license has been revoked a new license could not be issued for the same premises for a year. This one was defeated on roll call by a vote of 15 yeas to 16 nays.

The house has been called to convene Thursday morning to resume consideration of the liquor law. It undoubtedly will have to go to a conference committee before some of the radical changes made by the senate can be made acceptable to the lower house.

STUDY LIQUOR ZONING PLAN

The city council committee on license yesterday discussed an amendment to the city zoning ordinance which would require any one who wished to open a liquor dispensing place near a residential neighborhood to obtain consent of 51 per cent of the frontage holders in the block where the tavern would be located.

The amendment has been recommended to the city council by the zoning committee and probably will come before the council in the form of an ordinance for a vote today. It was not formally before the license committee yesterday but several aldermen

NAME CUMMINGS AS CONTINENTAL BANK CHAIRMAN

RFC Also Picks New Director Slate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—A secret agreement on the membership of the new board of directors which is to be installed in the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago next Friday was reached today by the Reconstruction Finance corporation and a committee from the bank. Previously the committee had agreed with the RFC to elect Walter J. Cummings, now head of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, to the chairmanship of the bank.

The selection of Mr. Cummings to head the bank was forecast in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on Dec. 12, last. On the following day Chairman Jones of the RFC, then in Chicago, announced that no change in the Continental management was contemplated, adding that he knew nothing about the Cummings report. Subsequently the Cummings selection was denied in other papers and the election of George A. Ranney forecast. THE TRIBUNE'S original announcement of the Cummings selection is now confirmed.

With Jones' Approval.

Since the RFC holds a controlling share of the bank's stock through the purchase some time ago of fifty million dollars' worth of preferred stock, it was explained, both Mr. Cummings and the new directors had to be approved by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, before action could be taken.

The secret agreement on the future personnel of the board of directors was in Mr. Cummings' pocket when he told the committee of bank directors this afternoon that he would accept the chairmanship of their institution, it was learned.

Sixteen men who are now on the Continental board of directors will be dropped under the terms of the agreement. Seventeen will be retained and eight new directors elected, leaving the board with 25 members, the maximum allowed by the new banking laws.

Names to be Dropped Secret.

Names which the RFC and the committee agreed to scratch off the directorate as well as the identity of the members to be retained and those to be elected were a closely guarded secret tonight as the committee, headed by James R. Leavell, president of the bank, started back for Chicago.

Both the agreement to elect Mr Cummings head of the bank and to put in the 25 men bearing the RFC's approval as directors will be ratified when the stockholders meet in Chicago on Friday. At that time the RFC will put the rubber stamp on its own arrangements, using the control in the bank which it secured by its purchase of preferred stock. This controlling interest, Chairman Jones said today, would be voted at the meeting by F. D. Gallagher, the RFC's Chicago representative.

After accepting the chairmanship of the bank Mr. Cummings announced that he expected to be present at the stockholders' meeting on Friday. Forced to return here to clear up his work as head of the Deposit Insurance corporation, he said he expected to take active command of the bank about Feb. 1. The bank's chairmanship has been vacant since the resignation of Stanley Field some months ago.

Will Be Executive Manager.

Cummings made it clear that he expects to be the "bank's chief executive officer," a phrase used by Col. A. A. Sprague, head of the committee which tendered the chairmanship to Cummings after two days of conferences with Mr. Jones.

In taking over the active direction of the bank, Mr. Cummings will supplant Mr. Leavell, who as president has carried most of the work. Mr. Leavell, however, expects to remain with the bank.

Mr. Jones, in a statement announcing the RFC's approval of Mr. Cummings' selection, said that further changes in the bank's management would be up to the directors and Mr. Cummings.

He admitted, however, that "the RFC felt that some new faces and new ideas in the Continental would be helpful," and that the stipulation had been laid down that no more than 17 of the 25 new directors be chosen from the present board.

Forty Candidates Discussed.

Existence of the secret list of future directors on which the RFC had given its approval was not learned until later when it was revealed by a high

DALAI LAMA IS INCARNATED 14TH TIME IN TIBET

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 9.—Telegrams from Peiping report that an infant found in the outskirts of Lhassa, Tibet, has been officially declared to be the fourteenth incarnation of the Dalai Lama, whose soul the faithful hold was reincarnated on the day when the thirteenth Dalai Lama died.

The baby is remaining at the home of his parents until he is old enough to walk, when he will be formally welcomed to Lhassa under a regency the political complexion of which is not yet determined.

The baby in whom the Dalai Lama is found to be reincarnated is fixed upon generally by the other principal pontiff of Lamaism, the Panchen Lama. He renders a decision after the sacred books and official astrologers have been consulted, and the choice may alight upon a child of even the humblest station.

WOMAN WASHED TO SEA IS SAVED AFTER 24 HOURS

Georgetown, S. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Carried out towards the open ocean by strong currents while swimming, Mrs. Van Wyck Ferris, Wilmington, Del., was found clinging to the south jetty of Winy..h bay today after 24 hours' exposure.

Searchers, believing her drowned, had gone to the jetty expecting the tides to cast the body up there. Dr. F. A. Bell said she apparently had suffered no ill effects.

Mrs. Ferris, in her early thirties, is the mother of four children.

From knowledge of currents, officers estimated Mrs. Ferris must have been in the water approximately eight hours. She swam approximately five miles.

Find M'Guffey Readers Were 2 Men's Work

Oxford, O., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Two men wrote the famous but mostly monosyllabic "McGuffey Readers" so admired by Henry Ford and thousands of others, the curators of a shrine to the authors here pointed out today.

Interest in the "readers" and their history led Ford to a McGuffey homestead near Washington, Pa., not far from Pittsburgh. But it was in Oxford, the seat of Miami university, that much of the work on the readers was done by William H. McGuffey and his younger brother, Alexander.

Establish a Shrine.

As a result a shrine to them has been established in what was the town's only hotel back in the 1830s when the readers first were published. For the most part it is devoted to relics of the elder brother, a teacher in Miami university. Among them are his family Bible, many of his books, his spectacles, the study table at which he worked, and the bed, with its cornhusk mattress, on which he sought his rest.

Primarily the readers were designed to help the younger mind through the complexities of the English language. But the McGuffeys filled them with moral precepts as well. It was as much their duty, they believed, to instill the virtues of honesty, industry, temperance, courage, politeness, and thrift as spelling and pronunciation.

Even kindness to animals had its part.

Six in Series.

There were six "McGuffey Eclectic Readers" and a spelling book in all. William, the elder, wrote the first four, and his younger brother the fifth and sixth, and the speller. The first appeared in 1836.

William McGuffey was born in 1800 and died in 1873, after a teaching career. Alexander, born in 1816, studied under his brother at Miami university, became a professor, then, at 21, a lawyer, and did his share on the readers during lulls in his legal practice. He died in 1896.

ROBBERS PLUG IN THEIR RADIO SET BEFORE HOLDUP

Into the Chicago Home for Incurables, 5535 Ellis avenue, last evening marched four armed robbers.

One carried a small radio receiving set, designed to catch police calls. After this device had been plugged into an electric outlet, the four men proceeded to rob Dr. Leslie E. Parker, superintendent of the institution, three clerks, and a woman visitor, Mrs. Hazel O'Hara, 808 North Lawler avenue.

Dr. Parker was compelled to open the office safe, from which the bandits took $200, checks for $300, and jewelry which had been left in the doctor's charge by inmates. Mrs. O'Hara gave up $8 and a diamond ring and the clerks each surrendered a small sum.

HOUSE WOULD MAKE D. C. ONE OF THE WETTEST

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—While senate leaders prepared today to call up the liquor tax bill in that body tomorrow, the house adopted, without record vote, a beverage control plan for the District of Columbia that would change the national capital from a bone dry city to one of the most "liberal" spots in the United States.

Under complete control of Representative Norton of New Jersey, Black and O'Connor of New York and Palmisano of Maryland, the house turned down all suggestions for a government dispensary system and will permit sale under strictly private licenses.

The measure, as passed, will be sent to the senate tomorrow for action.

BOY, 16, MISSING WITH $2,325, HIS PARENTS' SAVINGS

North Racine avenue police were asked last night to search for Leroy Behnke, 16 years old, a junior at Crane Technical High school, who disappeared from his home at 820 North Marshfield avenue yesterday along with his parents' life savings of $2,325. His father, William Behnke, a foreman in a barrel factory, told police he became worried when his son failed to come home toward nightfall and began looking for reasons to explain his absence. Investigation revealed that his home made bank had been rifled.

Brickmason Is Beheaded for Treason in Germany

LEIPZIG, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Marinus Van Der Lubbe, the young Dutch brickmason convicted of high treason in the German reichstag building fire trial, was beheaded at 7:30 o'clock this morning. The execution took place in Leipzig prison, where Van Der Lubbe had been held since his conviction. At the last moment, President Paul Von Hindenburg refused to grant the young Hollander a pardon.

U. S. Will Act Today; Eight Trains Halted

Farmer milk blockaders invited swift and drastic retaliation by federal authorities last night when they held up the United States mails. District Attorney Dwight H. Green said an investigation of the outrage would be started by United States postal inspectors this morning.

The holdup of the mail train, which took place in Wadsworth, in northern Lake county, was only one incident in a wave of violence which swept the Chicago area at the very moment that leaders of the Pure Milk association, dairy farmers' cooperative, were debating a cessation of the milk strike. Seven other trains were held up during the day by PMA pickets, but none of these carried mail.

Holdup of the Mail Train.

In the mail train holdup members of a mob of PMA pickets forced their way into a tower on the Milwaukee railroad at Wadsworth and compelled the signalman to set the block against the approaching train. The train was held up for about 20 minutes, according to a report made by Lawrence Benson, chief special agent of the railroad, to Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county.

The farmers who stopped the train denied later that they attempted to break into any of the mail cars, which are locked in transit to guard against holdups. They said they permitted the train to proceed as soon as the crew convinced them it carried no milk.

U. S. Attorney to Investigate.

"An investigation of this offense will be opened the first thing in the morning," District Attorney Green said when he was told of the attack. "Federal Judge Barnes issued injunctions today restraining pickets from interfering with shipments of milk in interstate commerce. Interference with the mails is a much more serious offense, since it involves stoppage of one of the services of the government itself."

The federal statutes fix the penalty for interference with the mails at a maximum of five years' imprisonment and a $5,000 fine, said Edward A. Fisher, Mr. Green's assistant in charge of postal cases. Robbery is not an element of this offense, and the fact that the PMA pickets refrained from breaking into the cars or taking any mail would not excuse them from answering the charge, Fisher added.

Cleveland's Action Recalled.

The United States government, it was pointed out, has no peace time function of which it is more jealous than the free and uninterrupted conduct of the mails. In the famous Pullman strike of 1894 President Cleveland waited only a short time for city and state authorities to protect mail cars from strikers. When they failed to do so the President poured troops into Chicago to keep the mail trains running.

More recently Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson based his famous injunction in the "outlaw" railroad shopmen's strike on the contention that the strikers were interfering with the mails.

The milk strike pickets took up their practice of stopping trains yesterday morning and kept at it until the early hours today. One of the most spectacular incidents was the holdup of a Milwaukee road freight train at Rondout, in Lake county, last evening.

Pile Ties on Track.

Some 500 PMA pickets halted this train and nearly wrecked it in doing so. They piled ties on the track and set fire to them. The locomotive struck the blazing mass before the engineer could stop his train.

When the train stopped the pickets

FARMERS STUDY PEACE PLAN IN NIGHT SESSION

Conference Will Be Resumed Today.

After nine hours of debate 300 members of the Pure Milk association's advisory board, unable to agree whether to accept or reject a proposal for the ending of the Chicago area milk strike, adjourned their meeting in the Auditorium hotel at 3 a. m. today. It was announced that the parley will be resumed at 10 a. m.

The strike, through this lack of action, continues. Marked by extreme violence and almost complete stoppage of supplies, it has been in effect since Saturday.

Anxiously waiting and hoping for a vote to end the disorders and call in the federal government again as dictator of the Chicago milk market were four other groups—officials of the Agricultural Adjustment administration in Washington, the Chicago milk dealers, the Chicago board of health, and the health committee of the city council.

Proposal Before Meeting.

Specifically the proposal before the delegates was this: Shall the association members accept a large reduction in the price paid by distributors for milk and in return get the federal dictatorship and a guarantee—as strong as the government can make it—that the price will be enforced by stern licensing of all dealers?

It was understood, although this could not be confirmed at the meeting, that the government is willing to intervene with its great powers only if the PMA members accept $1.70 a hundred pounds [or 3.66 cents per quart] for milk resold to Chicago and suburban consumers as whole fluid. The old price was $2.10 for 46½ quarts.

Means Cut of 20 Per Cent.

This figure, therefore, represents a cut in farmers' income of about 20 per cent, or four-fifths of a cent a quart. There was a large element among the delegates who were strongly against acceptance, asserting they dared not go back to their neighbors and friends and tell them they had agreed to such a contract.

On the other hand, the cooler among them, including the high officials of the association, urged acceptance as the best thing that could be hoped for under present conditions. It was reported that these calmer leaders felt the situation was getting out of hand.

Fail to Table U. S. Plan.

There was a single test vote to show the relative strength of the possible compromisers and the bitter-enders. It came on a motion to table the proposal that the government be asked to intervene. The vote was 48 to table, 65 to keep the question open, indicating that the majority is still open to propositions to halt the strike.

The Washington AAA officials were constantly in communication with the meeting. They announced that they would put the licensing features into effect as soon as the strike was ended. They maintained, however, without stating exactly the amount, that they would step into the situation only if a price "economically justified" were set for the farmers' milk.

Government Shows Stand.

It was made plain that the government had no intention of taking any responsibility for retail prices. This, while unsatisfactory to the PMA, was not such a drawback as the large cut they were asked to take. During the long deliberations, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was criticized by many delegates for his failure to support them more strongly.

It was becoming apparent yesterday, before the meeting to confer on this dictatorship proposal was called, that greater opposition was developing against the strike.

The most serious blow to the strikers was dealt in the federal district court. Judge John P. Barnes, acting on petitions by two cutrate dairy companies, which the PMA management has designated "chiselers," issued injunctions to prevent Pure Milk association members from interfering with shipments of milk to either concern.

U. S. Deputies to Guard Trucks.

Both the petitioning companies, the Economy Dairy and the Meadowmoor Dairies, plan to run in heavy supplies from their collecting points in the country today, under guard of United States deputy marshals. The Meadowmoor company was empowered to have its own guards deputized as marshals.

Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly also took measures to restore order and guarantee that milk supplies sufficient to maintain health are sent into the city. The governor, incensed because strike pickets on the highways have been halting private automobiles as well as milk trucks, ordered the state highway police to stop this practice.

The mayor was just as direct in his statements and orders. Calling in representatives of the milk dealers, he told them that a truce should be called at once if a settlement is not reached.

Ready to Protect Deliveries.

Also, he asserted, he was ready to protect milk deliveries all over Chicago and would see that no violence to prevent free movement of the supply would be tolerated. It was also reported that the mayor, as well as the city council, is prepared to go farther afield to get milk and that new health regulations will be adopted if necessary to this policy.

Last evening a message was sent out on the police teletype stating that deputy sheriffs and state highway policemen would escort milk trucks through Cook county to the city and then turn the convoys over to the nearest police stations. The police are to guard all trucks as requested. To take care of the anticipated necessities all policemen's days off were canceled.

These measures were matched by a new attitude on the part of the Pure Milk association officials. Hitherto confident that they would prevail and vehement in their assurance that the strike would not end until their demands were met, they took a much more conciliatory attitude as they went into conference with the representatives of their locals last evening.

Particularly they seemed anxious to relieve themselves of fighting possible charges that they have violated the anti-trust laws in the conduct of the strike. It was on the ground that there have been such violations that Judge Barnes issued his injunctions.

First, Donald N. Geyer, general manager of the association, tendered his resignation from his $10,000 a year job. This resignation was made retroactive to Monday and it was accepted, according to President Henry A. Pfister of the PMA, as of that day. Both Geyer and Pfister issued statements.

The Statement of Geyer.

"This milk controversy," declared the resigned manager, "is in the hands of individual farmers. The Pure Milk association, its officers, directors and other officials have never countenanced violence, intimidation or boycott. The association stands for true coöperating principles, for lawful and orderly marketing. When this controversy is settled we hope the association will be able to resume its activities and continue its amicable relationships with all elements of the community."

His reason for resigning, Geyer said, was to convince farmers he would fight their battle without salary while their income is cut off. It is estimated that ten million quarts of milk, valued at $400,000, have been kept on the farms in the last four days, milk which normally would have been marketed. Geyer said that at the end of the strike, if the membership wished his services, he could be rehired.

Calls Situation "Deplorable."

Pfister declared that the situation was "deplorable."

"We are sorry for the suffering it is causing the public," he said. "But we, too, are suffering. We have been suffering a long time. We are doing what we can to arrive at a settlement, which will only be when a fair price is paid by all milk distributors to all milk producers."

Reports from the country areas indicated that the strike pickets were meeting with a good deal of criticism on their own hearthstones. Farm wives, it was said, were opposed to their menfolk riding the roads and acting as hoodlums. Also the expenditures of gasoline for patrol purposes, while unsalable milk piled up or was poured out, has convinced the women that the strike should be ended quickly, it was reported.

Wallace Attitude a Blow.

The attitude of Secretary Wallace is said to have been a blow to the farmers. He has not acceded to their request that he make public the audit of the books of the milk distributors, an audit made by the government. However, in announcing yesterday that the audit showed "unusual profits," the secretary is regarded as having disqualified himself as a mediator from the standpoint of the companies.

It was this piling up of unfavorable factors that impelled the Pure Milk association to make overtures for peace yesterday morning. Two representatives of the AAA, Attorney Nathan Witt and C. B. Spofford, met the association officials, and it was agreed then to call the night meeting.

WISCONSIN GOVERNOR ASSERTS MILK TRAINS ARE FEDERAL CONCERN

Madison, Wis., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Holding up milk trains and robbing, dumping and despoiling the contents of their cars is a subject for federal rather than state government concern, Gov. A. G. Schmedeman implied tonight.

"Local public officials have made no report to me," he said. "Interference with interstate commerce is more properly within the federal jurisdiction."

The governor would not elaborate his statement.

His secretary, Theodore G. Lewis, explained that the local officials of Walworth or Racine counties where most of the disturbances in the present strike have taken place have made no report to the governor nor has he had any complaint from farmers or milk plant owners that they have not received protection.

In the second Wisconsin milk strike some time ago the governor mobilized part of the state militia as deputy sheriffs responsible to and under the command of the sheriffs in the counties in which they served. His political opponents tried to concentrate farm sentiment against him as a result of the call.

In most of the counties the guardsmen and the civilian deputies who served in the strike were made to wait for months for their pay.

E. J. Koelzer, assistant United States district attorney in Milwaukee, said tonight he received no reports of the interference with railroad traffic in Wisconsin from officials of the Soo line.

DRIVERS' CHIEFS REFUTE ATTACK ON MAYOR KELLY

Mayor Kelly last night made public two telegrams he received earlier in the day from Steve C. Sumner, secretary of the milk wagon drivers' union, and Leslie G. Goudie, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Joint council No. 25, which emphatically repudiated a published interview purported to have been given by Sumner in which criticism was directed against the mayor for not settling the milk strike.

"I find that the interview I gave out was published in such a way as to show criticism of Mayor Kelly," Sumner's telegram stated. "I had no intention of laying any blame on the mayor, but directed all my remarks at the council committee which is continually being quoted as making statements harmful to our interests."

Goudie stated in his communication that the officers of his joint council went on record as repudiating any criticism of the mayor by Sumner as a misquotation. "We esteem your coöperative spirit of friendliness," said the Goudie telegram. Our 45,000 members are in back of you to the last ditch." The whole council, at a meeting later in the evening, endorsed the action of its officials in sending the telegram.

Argentina Plans to Spend 65 Million on Public Works

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Pursuing a national reconstruction program already under way with refunding of the internal debt and fixing of minimum prices for grain, the government today prepared a public works program to stimulate employment. It was expected that $65,000,000 would be appropriated. In addition there was talk of an $80,000,000 highway construction program to be financed by gasoline and other special taxes.

COUNCIL GROUP BLAMES MILK STRIKE ON U. S.

Aldermen Call for Dairy Audit Made by AAA.

Members of the city council committee on health charged yesterday that the milk strike was caused by the failure of the AAA and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to solve the problems disclosed in the recent federal investigation of conditions in the Chicago milk area.

Although there was no definite statement that the council would take a hand in settling the strike, the health committee dispatched a telegram to Secretary Wallace asking for information obtained by the federal investigators during the AAA hearings here last November and also for the audit of the books of the larger milk companies which was made after the hearings closed.

Renew Collusion Charge.

The committee agreed that the council could take no side in the strike, but the aldermen reiterated a charge that the large distributing companies are in collusion with the PMA in the strike and that the strike's real purpose is to squeeze the independent cut rate dealers out of business to the detriment of the consumer. The aldermen charged that the PMA "wants to be the czar of the Chicago district."

A proposal to increase the legal minimum of butterfat content from 3 to 3.5 per cent for all milk sold in Chicago was adopted by the committee. This will be submitted to the city council in the form of an ordinance today.

Three other proposals were referred to a subcommittee on milk. These are: that the city should charge farmers $12 a year for the four quarterly inspections of their farms by the city board of health; that the city should abolish the 100 mile zone set up as the area within which city inspections may be given, and that the sale of chocolate milk in regular milk bottles be prohibited.

Sutton Backs Increase.

Ald. David L. Sutton [8th], chairman of the milk committee, supported the proposed increase in the butterfat content of all milk sold here.

The idea of the aldermen is that increasing the minimum legal butterfat content will give the consumers a richer milk throughout the year, and also increase the income of the farmers because they are paid on the basis of butterfat content.

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th] asked Paul Donovan, an attorney who was present as a representative of the Wieland and Borden dairies, if such an increase in butterfat requirement would give the dairies cause to represent that they were justified in increasing the cost of milk to the consumer.

"Although I cannot bind any one by my statements," Donovan replied, "I should say no."

Charges a "Chinese Wall."

During the discussion of the proposal to charge farmers for city inspections Ald. Henry J. Wieland [38th] said:

"The distributors, the Milk council [organization of large dealers], the Milk foundation and the PMA are arbitrarily trying to keep a Chinese wall around the city, keeping milk from getting into the Chicago market, and keeping milk away from our women and children. The board of health, under Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, keeps farmers from getting into the Chicago market to the detriment of all consumers."

"That's true," agreed Ald. Sutton. "In setting up a 100 mile zone we are virtually putting ourselves under the control of the PMA."

PICKETS HOLD UP U. S. MAIL TRAIN IN LAKE COUNTY

Violence Flares All Over Chicago Area.

swarmed over it, preventing its proceeding by opening airline cocks. They then broke open the seals of the 80 boxcars comprising the train. They found no milk, but residents of Rondout said that the farmers threw out a number of cases of merchandise which vanished when they drove off in their automobiles.

According to the witnesses, the farmers had been told in advance that the railroad was making no night shipments of milk, but were angered at it because it had hauled milk during the daytime.

A passenger train that drew up behind the halted freight train was stopped for more than an hour and a rear end smashup was narrowly averted.

Stop North Shore Line Trains.

Pickets stopped two trains on the North Shore electric line by building bonfires on the track at the Illinois-Wisconsin state line. The first train, a passenger limited, was allowed to proceed. The second, a merchandise train, was searched but no milk was found, according to the farmers.

In the afternoon pickets stopped a Soo line freight train at High's Crossing, near Grayslake, at the same point where another group robbed a train of a quantity of canned milk Monday night. The pickets yesterday broke the seals on a number of cars, searched them for milk, and when they found none, allowed the train to proceed.

Early this morning another Soo line train was halted at High's Crossing, but was permitted to go on when pickets ascertained there was no milk aboard.

Another Soo Train Seized.

Previously PMA pickets had seized a Soo line milk express at Burlington, Wis., and destroyed seven carloads of milk. The train had proceeded as far south as Mundelein, in Lake county, when railroad officials learned that pickets were waiting to halt it at Leighton, six miles south of Mundelein.

The officials ordered the engineer of the train to back it toward Wisconsin. At Burlington other pickets were waiting, having blocked the rails with ties. In addition to dumping six refrigerator cars loaded with cans of milk, and emptying a tank car, the pickets destroyed several barrels of powdered milk and a number of containers of cheese which they found on the train.

An eighth train was stopped on the North Western railroad at Harvard, in McHenry county. Pickets broke seals on cars and searched them, to discover that one refrigerator car which they thought contained milk was filled with fish.

Gun Battle at Farm Home.

Emil H. Beisner, a farmer living north of Itasca, in western Cook county, fought a shotgun battle last night with some 300 PMA members who raided his farm. Shots from the mob broke windows in the Beisner home, in which the farmer's mother, wife and daughter were seeking shelter. Before county highway police arrived and mounted guard at the farm the pickets searched Beisner's barn for milk which they suspected he had concealed there ready for shipment to market. They found none, but dumped out a quantity of his stock feed.

At Midlothian, in southern Cook county, Chief William Collins of the county highway police, with ten of his own men and ten state highway police, stood off a mob of some 500 pickets who had collected outside the Midlothian dairy.

Mobs Active Elsewhere.

Picket mobs were also reported to be active at Tinley Park and Richton Park, in the same area.

Two hundred PMA pickets raided the Oregon Creamery plant at Oregon, Wis., and poured out the milk on hand there.

Near Antioch in Lake county, pickets destroyed 125 cases of certified milk, which is used mainly by children and hitherto has been allowed to pass.

The Wagner Dairy of Cicero employed planes to transport milk to the Chicago airport from Kankakee. One plane got through with a small load of milk, another was seized at Kankakee and the milk dumped, and a third was forced down by lack of gasoline near Monee, in Will county, where pickets seized and destroyed the milk.

Report Shotguns Coming Out.

Sergt. Arthur Stanton, in charge of the state highway police station at Elgin, said he had received a number of complaints that PMA pickets in Kane and Du Page counties were arming themselves with shotguns. Previously most of the pickets have gone without arms, depending on pure force of numbers to accomplish their raids and truck dumping.

Last night, Sergt. Stanton was informed, they got out the shotguns after they learned that milk trucks, defended by armed deputy United States marshals, will start running into Chicago today.

More Vandalism in Chicago.

In Chicago vandals continued their campaign of violence against independent dealers' trucks and milk stores.

Henry Maher, 1627 North Latrobe avenue, a driver for the Wieland Dairy company, one of the "big three," was wounded by a policeman and arrested on the charge of smashing a window in the Klingberg & Karlstrom milk store at 4405½ Belmont avenue.

Philip Brun, 3757 Eddy street, was sought by the police after they had traced to him the license number of an automobile used by a gang which robbed and wrecked a milk store and burned the truck of an independent milk dealer.

The hoodlums fired several shots at the truck, which was driven by Adolph Kuellmar, a vendor who buys his milk from the Lake View dairy, and forced him to halt on the Lincoln park outer drive near Irving Park boulevard after they had smashed a window of the truck. They forced Kuellmar and a helper out, poured gasoline over the truck, and set fire to it.

JAILED FOR THEFT; HANGS SELF.

Alfred Cardonetti, 36 years old, a cook, hanged himself yesterday in a cell at the Desplaines street police station where he was lodged Sunday night on a charge of having stolen a $10 bill he had been asked to have changed by George Demos, proprietor of a restaurant at 624 West Madison street.

HUNDREDS RUSH TO CITY DAIRIES FOR BABIES' MILK

Not More than a Quart to Each Family.

Hundreds of requests poured into dairy offices by telephone yesterday to be met with the rejoinder, "Yes, ma'am, we have milk here for babies and invalids, but I'm sorry; you will have to call for it." Wagons were lined up in company garages and the drivers enjoyed a forced vacation as the milk strike continued.

Curtailment of the milk supply was so effective that no more than one quart was allowed to those who applied in person at the city dairies, and in some instances no more than a pint.

Women Come with Babies.

At the Union Dairy company, 2621 Wilcox street, women gathered, some with babies in their arms, as if to verify their need. Old men sought "two quarts at least for the daughter-in-law's babies," and youngsters dutifully carried off their quota to the family refrigerator. Each had a different story, but the same need. "Our babies need milk." Some had walked many blocks.

John Lalie, president of the Union dairy, said there is no need for fear on the part of mothers or invalids as to their necessary supply of milk. "Our emergency supplies are being taken care of by the Pure Milk association," he said. "While the hospitals and orphanages were the first consideration, we are also providing for private families, at least to the extent of one quart daily for those with young children or sick people."

One Quart Is Limit.

One young man rushed into a west side dairy, his collar open and minus overcoat or gloves, to burst out before he reached the counter: "Say, I've been trying to get some milk since 7 this morning! Got a baby eight weeks old, and two boys 4 and 6. Aren't you going to give me more than one quart?" He was told he would have get along with a quart a day for one baby.

Mrs. Flora Macdonald, 2431 Jackson street, said she hoped the milk strike will not affect her pet tomcat. "My sick husband needs the milk, but so does Tommy. I do hope this all ends soon."

U. S. Tax Liens of $132,101 Imposed on Lasky's Wife

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Income tax liens totaling $132,101, covering the four years from 1927 to 1930, were imposed against Mrs. Bessie Lasky, wife of Jesse Lasky, a motion picture producer, in federal District court today. Other liens were registered against Owen Moore, Mary Pickford's former husband. Moore is charged with owing $733 for 1925 and 1,458 for 1926.

Arraign Twelve Union Milk Drivers on Vandal Charges

Twelve milk drivers, all members of the milk wagon drivers' union, were arraigned before two judges in the Municipal court yesterday on charges growing out of the milk blockade violence of Monday. Five won their release when complaining witnesses failed to appear against them, and the seven others gained continuances until Friday.

Judge Alfred O. Erickson discharged the five drivers over the protest of Assistant City Prosecutor Maurice Lettel, who asked the court "at least to fine these desperadoes." The judge declared himself unwilling to take sides in the milk war.

Five of Drivers Freed.

Four of these drivers, George Billings, 4850 Irving Park boulevard; Isadore Goldberg, 4948 North Ridgeway avenue; William Theisen, 1615 Bryn Mawr avenue, and Ted Hartman, 907 Wrightwood avenue, are employes of the United Dairy company. They were alleged to have intimidated several drivers of the Edgewater Dairy company, an independent concern.

The fifth driver before Judge Erickson was George Lowery, 6438 Oxford avenue. He was accused of taking part in the dumping of a milk truck.

Bonds totaling $27,000 were posted before Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Felony court for the release of the seven other drivers, who were accused of robbery, assault, and malicious mischief. The robbery charges were placed against those alleged to have taken milk trucks from their drivers. Those accused of dumping trucks and destroying milk were charged with assault and malicious mischief. All these cases were continued to Friday.

The defendants are Robert G. Spaulding, 1465 Winona street, charged with robbery; Charles F. Willistein, 1910 Berteau avenue, two charges of robbery; Daniel Canny, 4431 North Lincoln street, three charges of robbery; Harold Rehder, 2540 Aubert avenue, two charges of robbery; Michael Cox, 4939 North Winchester avenue, robbery, assault, and malicious mischief; Edward Spitzer, 3939 North Spaulding avenue, malicious mischief and assault, and Arthur Wedell 5525 Wilson avenue, robbery.

Four Are Bowman Drivers.

Spitzer, Cox, Spaulding, and Willistein identified themselves as drivers for the Bowman Dairy company.

Judge O'Connell also issued a warrant for the arrest of Raymond Reitzler, 426 Surf street, said to be a driver for the Bowman Dairy company, on the complaint of Winston Yocum, driver for an independent dealer. Yocum said his truck had been stolen by Reitzler.

DOCTORS WARN OF DANGER TO BABES IN STRIKE

The council of the Chicago Medical society last night called attention to the fact that thousands of babies and invalids in Chicago are in danger of illness because of a shortage of milk during the present strike, and demanded that special attention be given the problem of supplying them.

Among the specific suggestions made were: that the "responsible factions" immediately make arrangements for an adequate supply of milk for infants and the sick in both homes and hospitals, and that a workable plan for regular daily supply be made where physicians designate the need for milk as a health safeguard.

SUPPLY OF MILK GONE, CITY TURNS TO SUBSTITUTES

Orders for Evaporated Product Doubled.

The Chicago milk consuming public felt the full impact of the milk strike yesterday.

Most families were without any supply of fresh milk, whatever surplus they might have had in their refrigerators having been exhausted Monday and yesterday. Many of the larger hotels and restaurant chains were serving their customers the last of their milk last night.

Chicago proved, however, that it could get along without fresh milk indefinitely if necessary by almost doubling its normal orders of evaporated milk. The strike served as a boon to the manufacturers of these products. One of the largest wholesalers of evaporated milk reported that retailers were calling in orders yesterday faster than trucks could make the deliveries.

Hospitals Are Supplied.

By sanction of the Pure Milk association, supplies of fresh milk to the city's hospitals, orphanages and other institutions continued uninterrupted. More than 39,000 quarts were pooled yesterday for this purpose and were processed by two dairies designated by the Milk Council, Inc., dealers' organization. Dairies with hospital accounts then were given their portions and they supplied the hospitals and other institutions with sufficient milk.

The county hospital, St. Vincent's orphanage and the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium were among those reporting receipt of all the milk needed. One railroad brought in seven carloads of milk destined for hospitals.

Turn to Evaporated Milk.

While the young and the infirm had all the fresh milk they needed, it was not so with the general public. An official of one of the largest chain groceries reported that none of his company's stores had sold a bottle of fresh milk or cream since Monday afternoon.

"Our customers don't seem to mind though," he said. "They are turning to evaporated milk. Any housewife knows that she can buy a can of evaporated milk, add one and a half parts of water to one part of evaporated milk and get the same nourishing food content as fresh milk."

There appeared to be no possibility of a shortage of evaporated milk and so far as learned there was no attempt to raise its price. The head of one of the largest concerns manufacturing evaporated milk and kindred products said that Chicago could be supplied with milk substitutes for several weeks, if necessary.

Independents Keep Trying.

A number of the larger independent dairies were still trying to supply some of their customers with fresh milk and cream. An official of the Meadowmoor Dairy company said his concern distributed 15,000 pints of cream during the day. The outlets for the distribution were mostly milk depots and a few stores.

Food buyers for several hotels and chains of restaurants dispatched representatives to farms in western Illinois, northern Indiana and southern Wisconsin and cans of milk and cream were brought back in sedans and disguised delivery trucks. A few hotels bought up a week's supply of milk last Saturday and Sunday, it was learned.

Wayfarers in Costume at Annual Stag Dinner

Here are some of the 32 well known Chicagoans who appeared in civil war army costumes last night at the annual dinner of the Wayfarers' club. Standing, left to right, Joseph Ryerson as Gen. Grant, Kellogg Fairbank as Gen. Burnside, Lloyd Lewis as Gen. Sherman, and T. E. Donnelley, Dr. E. E. Irons, and John T. McCutcheon as soldiers. Seated: Kenesaw M. Landis (left) as Gen. INDEPENDENTS BLAME BIG FIRMS FOR MILK STRIKE

Deny Desire for Price Cutting War.

Attorneys representing three large independent milk companies yesterday issued a statement explaining their views of the milk strike. They asserted that the independent dairies are taking no part in the controversy and also declared they did not desire a price war.

Joseph C. Kanak, representing the Wagner Dairy Products; Arthur R. Seelig, counsel for the Edgewater Dairy, and Leo D. Schein, attorney for the Lake View Dairy, signed the statement. It read, in part:

"The independent dairies contend that the milk strike in the Chicago area was called without warrant or justification. Developments which are now apparent to every one indicate collusion and scheming by the milk trust in an effort to put the independent dairies out of business.

Assert Code Price Is Paid.

"Statements which have appeared from time to time in the public press that the independents, who sell their milk at cash and carry stores for less than the delivery price, are paying less to the farmers than other companies, are unqualifiedly false. A recent audit made by the agricultural adjustment administration proved conclusively that the farmers selling to the independent dairies have been receiving the code price set by the department of agriculture.

"The strike cannot, in any sense, be attributed to any action of the independent distributors. They have no grievance with their farmers and they are not participating in the strike.

"Qualified on Demand."

"The independent dairies insist that public demand makes necessary the continuance of the cash and carry milk store. The public is entitled to purchase milk at the lowest possible price when the milk is called for by the consumer rather than delivered. This type of distribution can satisfactorily be coordinated with house to house delivery and there is no excuse for either a price war or a milk strike at this time.

"All the lawlessness and vandalism of the strike have been directed against the property of the independent dealers and the large dairies have been remarkably free from interference. To permit such tactics to continue will certainly result in a great public distruct of all milk distribution which will unquestionably result in less milk consumption."

DROUGHT DRIES UP RIVER THAMES TO 25% OF NORMAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Father Thames is badly shrunken, but 7,000,000 people who depend upon him for their water have nothing to fear yet, according to the guardians on the Thames conservancy board.

After a drought for which there is no precedent the famous river has diminished to a quarter of its normal volume and there is no orospect at the moment of the torrential rains that are needed if it is to recover and wells and springs elsewhere in South England are to function again.

The drought surpasses anything recorded on the tables of the board, which go back 50 years. Only .8 of an inch of rain has fallen since Nov. 19. In some places water cannot be spared for the cattle.

No Gray Uniforms

Thirty-two well known Chicagoans, members of the Wayfarers' club, attended the club's annual stag dinner last night, at the home of Joseph T. Ryerson, 1406 Astor street. They were attired as soldiers of the Union army in the civil war. A costume dinner party is given each year by the club, near Twelfth night.

No gray uniforms of the Confederate army were in evidence. Melvin Traylor, president of the First National bank, originally of Kentucky and later of Texas, tried to obtain a gray uniform without success, it was explained.

The host, Mr. Ryerson, appeared as Gen. Grant. Kenesaw Mountain Landis, former United States district judge, in long skirted coat and martial bearing, played the rôle of Gen. Custer, and Kellogg Fairbank, lawyer, was made up to resemble Gen. Burnside.

Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist for THE TRIBUNE; T. E. Donnelley, president of R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., printers; Barrett Wendell Jr., R. Douglas Stuart, Frank Knox, and John R. Winterbotham were among the assembled veterans.

Others included Clay Judson, William B. Hale, Lloyd Lewis, author of the life of Sherman; George A. Ranney, and Dr. E. E. Irons.

'TOTALITARIAN' STATE DESCRIBED BY LOYOLA HEAD

The centralization of power at Washington is making for a totalitarian state, the Rev. Samuel Knox Wilson, president of Loyola university, declared last night in an address before the National Catholic Alumni Federation forum, which convened at the University club under the auspices of the Loyola Alumni association. He defined the totalitarian state as a government under which all the people ruled shall think alike, at least politically.

"The totalitarian state," he declared, "will not only rigidly control opinion, but the action of individual subjects will be strictly determined and their very existence made dependent upon the will of those in authority.

"But the totalitarian state contains the elements of its own destruction. Human nature cannot be changed by man made mandates. It is inconceivable that any large number of normal men will ever think alike or take pleasure in being dragooned into unanimous thinking. Thus will revolution put an end to the totalitarian state."

SLAIN TRYING TO ROB POLICEMAN AND GIRL IN CAR

Martin Priegnitz, 30 years old, a policeman on the Naperville force for the last five years, early today shot and killed a robber who attempted to hold him up in front of the home of Miss Beulah Burke, 22, 3353 West Monroe street.

Priegnitz and Miss Burke were seated in the policeman's car when the robber approached, threw open the door, and ordered both to remain quiet.

"You drive where I tell you," he commanded Priegnitz.

The man then entered. As he started to sit down in the rear seat of the car, a coach, Priegnitz drew his own pistol and fired three times. Two of his bullets struck the robber in the chest and one in the head. He died almost immediately without being able to shoot in return.

Plea for Pardon Is Made by Dr. Amanti Rongetti

A plea for a pardon for Dr. Amanti Rongetti, facing a one to fourteen year prison term for manslaughter, was filed with the state board of pardons and paroles as it opened its January session at Springfield. Attorney Joseph Piccolo, representing Rongetti, submitted newspaper clippings in an effort to show that the jurors which three times returned guilty verdicts against the doctor were prejudiced by accounts of the case. Rongetti is now in federal prison for illegal selling of narcotics.

UPHOLDS FORD ELIGIBILITY TO SELL TO U. S.

McCarl Refuses to Pay Off Higher Bidders.

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Eligibility of Ford dealers to compete for government business again has been established by J. R. McCarl, the controller general, in refusing to approve payments on another make of automobile ordered for the interior department on the grounds contracts were not awarded to the low bidder.

McCarl wrote Secretary Ickes that "appropriated moneys are not available for payment" on contracts let for nine new units delivered at Casper, Wyo., and Salt Lake City, Utah, and refused to accept the statement that "the Ford Motor company is not a member of the NRA" as a reason for rejecting its bid on the new machines.

Must Conform.

The controller general said it was unnecessary for a bidder to have signed the code for his industry, and that this had been specifically set forth by the President. He added, however, that the products must be manufactured in accordance with the code's provisions.

The action was considered significant in as much as the Northwest Motor company of Bethesda, Md., the Ford dealer which has been engaged in previous controversies with various governmental agencies over the eligibility of Ford products, was low bidder last week on new equipment to be purchased by the interior department.

Much Commotion.

The Northwest company was successful in obtaining a contract for new motor units purchased by the agriculture department for the civilian conservation corps last fall.

On the contention that it was not the issue whether Henry Ford had refused to sign the automobile manufacturers' code, the company filed numerous protests with departments where awards were pending against giving the contracts to any other firm.

CUBAN PRESIDENT OFFERS TO QUIT POST ON FEB. 24

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Jan. 9.—Replying to the opposition's 72 hour ultimatum of last Thursday demanding a complete government change by Feb. 24, President Ramon Grau San Martin today joined Col. Carlos Mendieta, Nationalist leader, in announcing that an "armistice pact" has been signed. Under the proposed plan Grau would retire Feb. 24.

President Grau announced that discussions will begin tomorrow on a plan for establishing on that date a "national reconstruction cabinet" and council of state to choose a provisional president to hold office two years.

Other opposition groups indicated they would refuse the plan.

$85,000 "GIFTS" TRACED IN MALOY INCOME INQUIRY

Contempt Citation Asked Against Jack Miller.

A contempt citation naming E. D. [Jack] Miller, president of the Exhibitors' Association of Chicago, was sought yesterday by Special Assistant Attorney General Leslie Salter, who appeared with members of the federal grand jury before Judge John P. Barnes.

The government charges Miller with "contumacious conduct" while he was a witness before the grand jury last October during the income tax investigation of Thomas Maloy, business agent and "czar" of the strife torn Moving Picture Operators' union.

The investigation involved mysterious "gifts" amounting to $85,000 which the government charges reached Maloy's pockets and therefore are taxable.

Evidence Is Impounded.

On motion of Miller's attorney, Elwood G. Godman, yesterday's hearing was continued until Jan. 16, and the grand jury's evidence supporting the government's request for a contempt citation was impounded by the court.

Nothing was made public, therefore, about Miller's testimony or conduct before the grand jury. It was learned, however, that when he was questioned by agents of the intelligence unit of the internal revenue department last fall he gave statements telling of graft payments to "a member of the union." He declared it was his solemn belief that Maloy did not control the union and insisted the payments were not to Maloy.

More than $85,000 in currency was paid over to a man named John Nichols, who Miller said he was sure did not act as an agent for Maloy.

Miller, who, the government contends, made large payments to Maloy and on which Maloy owed income tax, testified before the grand jury for three days—Oct. 10, 17, and 18. He is understood to have been evasive in his answers to questions by the members of the jury and to have hindered the jury in its attempts to pin down the fact that large payments of money found their way into Maloy's hands.

In Doubt About Name.

Taking up the story of Miller's cash disbursals, it was learned that he professed not to know even the correct name of the recipient. It might be Nicholas instead of Nichols, and Joe instead of John, he said. The payments were made in return for doing away with the services of 100 "faders," men whose employment at about $5,000 a year salaries was forced by the union upon the theaters.

The job of the "faders," ostensibly to handle the sound end of the motion picture apparatus in the projection booths, were said to be unnecessary. For the most part the men employed in this capacity when sound became a factor in the industry were said to be friends of politicians and others whose influence might be useful to the union or some of its members.

Miller is said to have explained an arrangement with "Nichols" whereby the useless jobs were abolished by the union at a huge saving to the theaters.

Payments by Theaters.

For a payment of $1,100 per man, according to the plan, the union would permit the showhouses to discharge the faders. The theaters could, with this payment, save approximately $4,000 a year on the faders' salaries. Thirty-five such payments were made the first week and a total of $85,000 was paid out, presumably to the union, in this manner.

All the payments were made to "Nichols" at the Congress and Stevens hotels, where the two would meet on telephone appointments, according to the reports of Miller's statements. Several times Miller caught the mysterious "Nichols" in a double-cross, it was said, attempting to collect for men who were not laid off.

As to Maloy's connection with all this, Miller told investigators there was none, although he was reminded that Maloy would have to approve the abolition of the "fader" jobs. Still he insisted that the believed Maloy was not the "czar" he is reputed to be.

Nichols informed him, according to Miller's statement, that Maloy did not control the union, but that "certain influential persons, who could get things done, directed the entire policy of the group."

$10,000 to Hoodlums.

Soon after the independent theaters warred against the union in 1931 and many of the show houses were bombed "Nichols" approached him for the first time and offered to sell him the whole union for $500,000, Miller recounted. Although assured that the proposition was profitable, because he could replace the members at fees of his own making, Miller turned the offer down.

Relations of the men were strained at one time, when Miller paid a "Paddy King" $10,000 to gather a force of hoodlums to impress "Nichols," he is reported to have told investigators. He also reported the movement of $50,000 from the large theaters to the small ones, and said this was in the nature of charity.

The government contended that at least a portion of this money was paid to Maloy to induce him to "lay off" the big exhibitors.

Miller revealed that he found it necessary to make it appear to the union members that he was fighting the organization, and that to this end he would go to the offices and complain loudly and demand reductions.

GRANTED DIVORCE

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Marie Gould Riley, 25 years old, 6655 Lafayette avenue, an artists' model, charged yesterday that her husband, James, an investment broker, had made a practice of tearing off her clothing when enraged. She also testified that he had struck her on several occasions prior to their separation on June 30, 1931. Circuit Judge John F. Prystalski granted her a divorce and an injunction to restrain Riley from denuding his wife.

ALICE WYNEKOOP READY FOR TRIAL; DELAY INDICATED

Court Appearance on Stretcher Opposed.

W. W. Smith, attorney for Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, notified the state's attorney's office yesterday that his client would be ready to go to trial tomorrow, as scheduled, for the operating table murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Wynekoop. The case is before Superior Judge Joseph B. David.

Notwithstanding the notification, Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty indicated that the case probably will be continued again, even though Judge David had instructed both sides to reach an agreement on the question in advance. Judge David wishes to leave the city Feb. 1 on his vacation.

Defendant's Health Is Key.

Whether the trial opens tomorrow or is continued and transferred to another judge will depend largely on Dr. Wynekoop's physical condition at that time, Prosecutor Dougherty indicated. The defendant has been suffering from high blood phessure and other ailments.

"We're not going to allow them to bring the defendant before a jury on a cot or in a wheel chair, if we can help it," Mr. Dougherty averred. "If she's strong enough to walk into court and take a chair we'll go ahead. Otherwise we'll ask a continuance."

The prosecutor said Attorney Smith had balked him yesterday in his plan to have the defendant examined as to her physical condition by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, director of the Criminal court behavior clinic. When Dr. Hoffman called at the jail infirmary he was turned away with a statement that Dr. Wynekoop did not wish to see him.

Seeks Physical Examination.

"My only purpose was to have Dr. Hoffman report on her physical strength," said Mr. Dougherty. "It's true that he's an alienist, but I sent him on this mission only as a regular doctor."

"The state can send any regular physician it pleases to examine Dr. Wynekoop," was Attorney Smith's retort. "But we will not have them sending any alienists in to her."

Speculation over the nature of the defense arose when Attorney Smith retained Dr. James Whitney Hall, alienist in the Loeb-Leopold case, to examine Dr. Wynekoop. Following that examination, Mr. Smith announced that the defense would enter a straight denial of the crime and would not raise a question as to Dr. Wynekoop's mental condition.

Mr. Dougherty said yesterday that he has not yet mapped out his strategy. It is assumed, however, that he will offer a double motive: Dr. Wynekoop's sympathy for the unhappy married life of her son, Earle, with his wife, Rheta, and her desire to collect the $12,000 insurance she carried on Rheta's life.

TEACHERS AGREE TO HELP BOARD'S MONEY PROGRAM

Told of Plan to Transfer Building Levy.

Members of the board of education and leaders of Chicago teacher groups sat down together yesterday to map out a legislative program that will pull the school system out of the financial bog. The teachers assured James B. McCahey, president of the board, and other trustees that they would cooperate in a campaign to bring about new revenues.

Aaron Kline, president of the Principals' club, who requested the conference, told the trustees that the teacher organizations had not yet agreed on a program and wanted to hear measures proposed by the board before getting behind them.

Seek Special Session's Aid.

"All our proposals have been made in open board meeting," replied Mr. McCahey. "We are asking Gov. Horner to make his call for the third special session of the legislature broad enough to include any measures that may be needed."

"What about paying operating help in the schools from the building fund instead of the educational fund?" asked Kline.

This scheme, it was explained, would place employés such as school engineers and janitors in the building fund, where there is no deficit. The employés are now included in the appropriations for the educational fund, which has a deficit estimated between 4 and 9 million dollars by various interests.

Answers Questions.

"There were two alternatives," said Trustee Ernst Buehler, vice president of the board. "One was to transfer the employés, which might run us into serious legal difficulties. The other is to transfer 20 cents from the building fund tax rate to the educational fund tax rate. The board has chosen this latter as the more practicable."

In response to questions from Mary Herrick, president of the Federation of Women High School Teachers, Mr. McCahey said the transfer of tax rates would bring the educational fund between 4 and 5 millions of additional revenue this year.

"We're trying to balance the 1934 budget," said McCahey, "without making any drastic cuts in the educational program. We can't expect to look for more revenue from real estate. We're taking in every old shoe we can find."

Liquor Levy Favored.

Kline next broached the question of providing taxes on liquor for the schools. He said the teachers felt that the word "beverage" should be used instead of "liquor" in the proposed bill.

"I'm in favor of that," asserted McCahey. "It would be a bad business if fellows up at the bar would start saying, 'Well, let's buy another drink and educate a child.'"

"What would be an estimate on liquor revenue?" asked Kline.

"You can make an estimate on any market," replied Trustee Joseph J. Salat, "but when it goes down you can't see the steps."

The teachers' delegation left with the promise to submit their ideas on legislation to Frank V. Righeimer, special counsel for the school board. The legislative program will probably be discussed at the board meeting today.

SOVIET ENVOY HITS NATIONS FOR DEBT DEFAULTS

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Nations which have defaulted debt payments were criticized today by Leon Chinchuk, soviet ambassador to Berlin, in an address to the American Chamber of Commerce in Germany.

"Of all countries of the world," Chinchuk said, "the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is the only one which has always met its obligations most promptly, while not only individual firms in the capitalistic world but whole countries declared their bankruptcy."

The speaker said resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia was an important factor for world peace.

William E. Dodd, American ambassador to Berlin, and members of his staff attended the luncheon.

DEFENDANTS IN INSURANCE CASE CHARGE A PLOT

Deny They "Looted" Security Life.

Seven defendants in the alleged $1,900,000 conspiracy to loot the assets of the Security Life Insurance company and its affiliate yesterday charged that they themselves are the victims of a conspiracy. Defense attorneys outlined the case for the seven, who include John H. S. Lee, prominent lawyer, and Machir Dorsey, once millionaire insurance company owner, in Judge Benjamin Epstein's Criminal court.

Attorney Lee was indicted because he refused to help John [Jake the Barber] Factor, victim of the Touhy gang in a kidnaping plot, to settle his difficulties with the British government without criminal proceedings, according to Defense Attorney John E. Northup in his opening statement. Throughout the speech of Attorney Northup, Lee, a tall, slender distinguished looking attorney, sat in the front row of the spectators' benches, visibly overcome with emotion. He did not at the time sit with the other defendants.

Says Lee Was in England.

Attorney Lee represented the British government, and in 1929 was in England getting depositions from British investors to use against Factor in a civil suit, Attorney Northup said.

Factor, who will be extradited to England as soon as he finishes testifying against members of the Touhy gang, was a friend of James H. Benjamin, professional promoter and one of the prosecution's main witnesses in the present trial, Attorney Northup charged. At the same time Attorney Lee was representing the British government in the Factor case he was representing Benjamin in a suit over some property which figures in the present trial. Factor, according to Northup, offered Benjamin $200,000 to get Attorney Lee to settle his troubles outside of court.

Threats Sent to Lee.

"While Lee was in Europe he was bombarded with a series of anonymous cablegrams threatening him with all kinds of things," said Attorney Northup. "One of these telegrams told Lee he had better come right home because things were getting hot in the Waukegan matter."

The Waukegan matter apparently referred to is the tract of land figuring in the present trial, which the state contends was mortgaged for $1,900,000, far above its real value, and the mortgage then dumped into the security portfolios of the Security Life Insurance company and its affiliate, The Northern States Insurance company. The defendants are charged with conspiracy to loot the insurance companies through these mortgages, placed on the land which had been abandoned by a large manufacturing company.

Attorney Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court, told the jury he would show that the property in question was undermortgaged rather than overmortgaged. He would introduce in evidence in behalf of his client Dorsey, he said, an appraisal by the firm of Coats & Burchard, showing the property to have been worth $4,750,000 at the time, providing $500,000 was spent for repairs.

Attorney Ogden W. Smith, in behalf of defendant Edwin Hult, head of the real estate firm of Edwin Hult & Co., told the jurors that the defense would show this to be "the rottenest conspiracy ever concocted against a group of honorable men." He charged the conspiracy was the result of false stories by Benjamin and Charles R. Surface, another important state witness.

Prosecutor Concludes Statement.

Earlier in the day Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright finished the opening statement for the prosecution. He contended the property was split up into twenty-five small parcels of land so that it might be more easily mortgaged and dumped into the portfolio of the insurance companies so as to "loot the insurance companies of their cash assets."

EMMA GOLDMAN GETS PERMISSION TO VISIT IN U. S. NINETY DAYS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Emma Goldman, deported to Russia in 1919 as an anarchist, was given permission today by the labor department to enter the United States for not longer than 90 days.

Miss Goldman made application under her married name—Mrs. James Colton. She asked permission to visit relatives in this country.

She is in Toronto, Ont., where she is reported to be planning a series of lectures.

In making her application, Miss Goldman said that if granted the temporary admission she would not engage in any political activities while here.

Miss Goldman is 64 years old. A quarter of a century ago she was known from one end of the country to the other as an anarchist.

NAB 3 BANDITS, RECOVER LOOT IN STORE HOLDUP

Four hours after they robbed the Edwin F. Sutter Jewelry store, at 1853 West Madison street, of articles valued at $1,750, three Negro bandits, one of them free on parole, were captured by police and the loot recovered.

Sergts. Frank Brady and John Sweeney of the Warren avenue station recognized one of the men from his description as he emerged from a building at 1940 Maypole avenue, where he lives. He is Thomas Jones, 28 years old, an ex-convict.

Jones admitted the holdup and took the detectives to his apartment where the loot and the other two men were found. They identified themselves as Louis Cochran, 26 years old, 2132 Maypole avenue, and Cecil Freeman, 21 years old, 1948 Maypole avenue.

COUNTY BOARD ESTIMATES TAX LOSS AND COST

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $162,302, making a total of $100,145,702 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1933.	1929.
Jan. 9	$ 17,497	$ 23,406
Uncollected	15,706,285	41,958,654
	1930.	1931.
Jan. 9	$ 45,872	$ 75,623
Uncollected	66,386,839	65,431,261

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $6,425.

Seeking methods of balancing the 1934 Cook county budget, a majority of the county commissioners yesterday resorted to estimating the loss and cost in tax collections for 1932, 1933 and 1934 at only 13 per cent. By using this percentage, instead of a 15 per cent factor recommended by dissenting commissioners, the majority of the board convinced themselves that they could increase their revenue by $750,000.

Those voting against the 13 per cent estimate were Commissioners Amelia Sears, George A. Miller, William Busse and Marie Plumb. Eight commissioners voted for the 12 per cent and Commissioner Peter M. Kelly passed his vote, declaring that it was unusual to determine the loss and cost factor before the budget was drafted.

"There's no use kidding ourselves," said Miss Sears. "We will lose more than 12 per cent in collection. Our county controller has estimated our loss and cost at 16⅓ per cent."

The board's tentative budget calls for an appropriation of $19,250,000. The most optimistic revenue estimate, with the 12 per cent loss and cost figure, is $17,250,000.

No Longer a Victim of COLDS

—since he discovered this easy VAPOR-TENT way to clear them up

A MAJORITY of colds start in the nose—and many of them can be stopped right there. Not by inserting oily substances that may ADD to congestion, but with a triple-action VAPOR that clears congested passages, soothes membranes, and strengthens the cold-fighting powers of the nose.

You make an effective vapor-tent this way: In the center of a folded handkerchief put a little VAPEX. Then hold this VAPEXed handkerchief over your nose, and breathe in deeply.

The triple-action vapor is released as you inhale. It reaches far back to the hidden passages, and clears the way for good fresh air to get to the innermost cold-infected area. This alone is a valuable aid in clearing up your cold . . . and a vapor does it BEST.

But the vapor of VAPEX goes further than this to curb your cold. It cools the hot, inflamed tissues. It normalizes the mucus secretion. It helps Nature drive out the cold.

Relief can be yours the instant you inhale VAPEX, but you must be sure you get real VAPEX, and not one of 75 imitations. VAPEX is a famous wartime discovery, now used by MILLIONS of intelligent people who refuse to dose themselves.

An application of VAPEX, which lasts for many hours, costs but half a cent. Get a bottle now and be prepared to end cold suffering before it makes headway. VAPEX is powerful, yet so safe that Parents' Magazine approves its use even for little children.

DRINKING HABITS OF MRS. WILLITS TOLD IN COURT

Liggett Heir's Husband and Maid Testify.

Her former husband, John MacGregor Willits, and a nurse she employed in her home testified yesterday that Mrs. Margaret Liggett Willits of Swampscott, Mass., was intoxicated for eleven consecutive days around last Christmas. The nurse, Miss Lillian Anderson, a primly dressed woman of 40, testified that Mrs. Willits admitted this to her on the twelfth day and confessed that she had "a hangover."

The two witnesses testified before Superior Judge Joseph Sabath who was unsuccessful Monday in his efforts to bring about a reconciliation between the couple. Willits, who was divorced by his former wife last Nov. 21, in the proceeding before Judge Sabath is seeking the permanent custody of his two children, Jane, 6 years old, and Anne, 2 years old, who under the divorce decree were placed in the care of their mother for nine months of the year. Willits was to have them during the three summer months.

Peace Gesture Fails.

In his petition Willits charged that his wife is not a fit custodian of the children. When his charges were made before Judge Sabath on Monday the judge summoned the couple into his chambers and gave them a paternal lecture, sending them out to have dinner together in the hope that they could become reconciled. When they walked into court today the judge asked if there was good news for him.

"Unfortunately no," responded Willits' attorney, Stephen Love. "We are going to have to proceed on this petition."

The judge made a gesture of resignation and directed that Miss Anderson, the first witness for Willits, be called to the witness stand.

The nurse testified that she had been employed by Mrs. Willits for two years, most of the time being at the home of Mrs. Willits' father, John W. Liggett of Brookline, Mass., a member of the wholesale drug company bearing his name. She added that Mrs. Willits had made a practice of staying out late at night since her divorce. She then was asked if she had seen Mrs. Willits intoxicated.

Maid Tells of Drinking.

"Yes, she was drunk every day. I could smell it on her breath. Her conversation was befuddled. Sometimes she could walk, sometimes not. She went to cocktail parties instead of staying home with her children over Christmas. Then on the Thursday following Christmas day she told me, 'I've been drunk for eleven days and I've got a hangover,'" said the nurse.

"On Christmas day Mrs. Willits had promised to help the children open their presents but she went away and said she'd return in 15 minutes. It was several hours later in the morning that she did return. Then she went out during the afternoon with David Crocker, an auto salesman. At 4:30 she telephoned to say she'd be right back. At 8:30 she did the same thing. At 11 o'clock she returned, staggering drunk."

After a brief cross-examination Willits was called to the witness stand and related how he had gone to Swampscott for the Christmas holidays to be with his former wife and children. He testified that in his first conversation with Mrs. Willits he had realized that she was intoxicated.

Tells of Holidays.

"On Dec. 24," said Willits, "Mrs. Willits agreed to stay home with the children but she persuaded me to attend a cocktail party with her. I also found that she was living on the first floor of a two story house. On the second floor lived a divorced man with his children. I told her it wasn't a good arrangement but I also told her I wasn't accusing her."

Willits also related the incident of Christmas day when Mrs. Willits left home and returned home "staggering drunk" hours later.

Mrs. Willits will have an opportunity to deny the charges today.

Going to Japan Alone to Join Her Prince-Husband

ALEXIS MDIVANI TO SAIL TODAY WITHOUT A BRIDE

He Goes from Seattle; She from Frisco.

Seattle, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Prince Alexis Mdivani announced here today he would sail on the Nippon Yuksen Kaisha's liner Hikawa Maru tomorrow to join his bride, the former Barbara Hutton, in Yokohama, Japan. The princess, he said, would sail from San Francisco Thursday on the Tatsuta Maru of the same line. On that ship a suite of state rooms and half a deck was reserved for the bridal party.

The Hikawa Maru is due in Yokohama two days ahead of the Tatsuta Maru.

Referring to his flight from Reno, the prince said he avoided a California process server because he didn't want his honeymoon interrupted.

"If they had asked me in New York about the matter," he said, "I would have given them all the information I was able, but they waited until I was on my way to the orient and I didn't propose to be delayed."

The process server presumably would have given Prince Mdivani a subpoena to appear as a witness in a trial in Los Angeles of his elder brothers, Serge and David, in connection with their oil company.

Prince Alexis said he had some oil business of his own to attend to in the far east.

PISTOL CARRYING YOUTH IS HELD BY NEW AUTO COURT

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 53; recovered, 63; stripped, 13 (from police records for twenty-four hours ending at midnight Monday).

Judge Joseph A. Garber in the new Automobile court yesterday held Joseph DeCarlo, 19 years old, 236 West 23d place, to the grand jury on a charge of possessing an automobile which had been stolen from Henry Kleen, 1850 Roscoe street. Police said they found a loaded revolver in DeCarlo's pocket when they arrested him while he was driving the car on Jan. 7. The judge issued a warning to all second hand automobile accessories dealers to keep an accurate record of their sales and purchases, otherwise they will be liable for a six months' sentence and a $500 fine. Two dealers have been sentenced for failure to comply with this law.

INQUEST TODAY INTO KILLING AT POLICE STATION

An inquest will be held today into the killing of Edward McGriss, 21 years old, 6638 Woodlawn avenue, as he ran from the Woodlawn police station Monday night, seeking to avoid being locked up on a charge of assaulting a girl in a dance hall. Policeman Grover Mulvaney was reporting for duty at the station at the time, and seeing McGriss run out, he shot and fatally wounded him. Miss Marie Schultz, 22 years old, 6821 South Marshfield avenue, had signed a complaint against McGriss. The bureau of identification reported last night that he had no police record.

JAILS LAWYERS AND FINES DEBT COLLECTING FIRM

Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland yesterday held Attorneys Simon Sachs and David Zevin in contempt of court and ordered them to serve one day in jail and pay fines of $500 and $50, respectively, for illegal use of the court. The judge also imposed a contempt fine of $500 on the Securities Discount corporation, of which Sachs is president and Zevin is secretary, for their attempts to use it in violation of the law prohibiting a corporation from practicing law.

The ruling followed an investigation made by Attorney Charles Levitan and Leo Brunhild, chairman and member of the Chicago Bar association's committee on unauthorized practice.

The matter was brought before the court on the corporation's suit against Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bernhardt to collect an account of $193 for Dr. N. R. Snell, 2036 West Madison street. Dr. Snell gave the corporation $30 for court costs in this and three other suits which Judge Holland said, could not have involved more than $16 expense.

BYRD HAILS MESSAGE THAT LITTLE AMERICA IS JUST AS HE LEFT IT

ABOARD ADMIRAL BYRD'S FLAGSHIP EN ROUTE TO LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 9.—[Via Mackay Radio.]—(AP)—A report from Lincoln Ellsworth that Little America remains as Admiral Byrd left it in 1930 aroused great satisfaction today as the flagship of the second Byrd antarctic expedition crawled through the Devil's Graveyard.

Ellsworth, the leader of another expedition, sent the message to Admiral Byrd that "Little America is as you left it, with planes in good condition, except for digging out. Radio masts okay, but tremendous pressure ridges show in front of Versur Mer bay, making it impassable for dog teams."

"That," Byrd said, "answers a question that thousands of people have asked me: Will Little America be found or will the snows have buried it, as they buried Amundsen's camp, Farmheim, in the same place?"

FOUR JURORS ACCEPTED FOR RACKET TRIAL

After five days, during which state and defense exercised scores of challenges, four jurors were finally accepted by both sides yesterday in the cleaners and dyers' racket case before Judge Philip J. Finnegan in Criminal court. There are eighteen defendants, most prominent of whom are Dr. Benjamin M. Squires and Ald. Oscar F. Nelson.

On the panel, as it now stands, are the following jurors: William T. Huensinger, 1357 Hood avenue, machinist; Alvin M. Michaels, 1858 Burling street, vending machine collector; John Sheppard, 2431 78th court, Elmwood Park, printer, and Thomas A. Anderson, 4945 West Ohio street, steamfitter.

With eight more jurors to be chosen, it was estimated that at the present rate of progress another two weeks would be consumed before testimony begins. The state has been striving to keep the panel clear of union men wherever possible, as several of the defendants are union chiefs.

AIR MAIL QUIZ BRINGS STORY OF BURNED RECORDS

To Call Some Chiefs of Hoover Regime.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Senate investigators were told today that Walter F. Brown, postmaster general in the Hoover administration, destroyed official correspondence before leaving office and had awarded air contracts without competitive bidding. This testimony was quickly denied by the former cabinet official in New York.

James Maher, postoffice department stenographer, told the special senate committee investigating ocean and air mail contracts that he had burned volumes of both official and personal papers under instructions of Kenneth MacPherson, Brown's secretary.

Brown Makes Denial.

In New York Brown said before he left office on March 4: "Much personal correspondence was destroyed."

"All official correspondence in my files was left intact at the end of my tenure of office," he added.

Paul Henderson, former second assistant postmaster general under President Coolidge and now an air line official, testified before the committee that Brown had granted air mail contracts for air lines totaling more than 5,000 miles without competitive bidding.

To this Brown replied that he had awarded the contracts in a perfectly legal way.

William W. Howes, assistant postmaster general, told newspaper men it was illegal to burn or destroy government records [that offense carrying a maximum penalty of $2,000 fine, three years in prison], but said he did not know the circumstances of the present case.

There were indications that Brown, close political associate of former President Hoover, would be called before the committee to testify.

The names of other prominent Republicans, including Patrick J. Hurley, former secretary of war; Mabel Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general; W. P. McCracken, former assistant secretary of commerce; Edward T. Clark, former secretary to President Coolidge, and Herbert Hoover, were drawn into the evidence today in one way or another.

Some of Developments.

Some of the developments before the committee included:

An assertion by Henderson that a number of air line officials, as well as Mrs. Willebrandt, McCracken, and himself, aided Brown in drawing up the legislation under which the contracts were granted without competitive bidding, through a clause permitting the postmaster general to extend and consolidate lines, but that he did not realize the extent to which it could be used. Congress later eliminated this provision.

Testimony by Erle Halliburton, former independent air line operator, showed that he and William G. McAdoo, now Democratic senator from California, offered to carry mail for 70 cents a pound for the first thousand miles and 7 cents for each additional 100 miles. The prevailing rates, he said, ran as high as $3 per 1,000 miles, but the McAdoo offer was refused.

Charges Collusive Bidding.

Halliburton testified there was "collusion" in bidding for the central and southern transcontinental air mail and that he warned Secretary Hurley a congressional investigation would result in criticism of President Hoover because of his son's connection with one of the companies.

Maher, stenographer to a long line of postmasters general from Will Hays to Farley, told the committee he personally burned correspondence, both private and official, on instructions from Brown's secretary, MacPherson, a few days before the end of the Republican administration.

All of Brown's correspondence, which he estimated at 24 drawers full, was burned, Maher said, except that which the retiring postmaster general took with him.

Thomas H. McKee, former representative of the Wedell-Williams Air service corporation, testified to vain efforts to obtain a mail contract and charged the business was "sewed up body and soul so that the young but growing aviation trust could get all the gravy."

Testifying in a low, sometimes hardly audible voice, Henderson told of the rapid extension of lines by Brown from 1930 to 1932. He said the total air mail mileage was increased from 14,657 to 26,754 miles, and that only 4,500 miles of the new lines were set up under competitive bidding.

Big Holding Companies.

The witness agreed that in 1930 nearly all of the existing lines were held by companies affiliated with the big holding companies, as contrasted with the independent lines, and told of many of the extensions since that time going to the big companies.

Senator Black listed the companies as United Aircraft and Transport, Inc., with which Henderson is connected; the North American Aviation, Inc., largely controlled by General Motors; and the Aviation Corporation of Delaware, controlled by the Cord interests.

MINERS' SESSION FREED OF WAGE ROW THIS YEAR

NRA Code Swells the Unions' Ranks.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 9. — [Special.]—Two thousand coal miners, representing local unions throughout the United States, are expected to attend the biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America, opening here Jan. 23. Union officials are looking forward to the largest convention ever held. The international headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America are in this city.

In the last year union memberships have increased considerably under the collective bargaining clauses of the NRA. More than a half million miners are now enrolled.

For the first time in many years there are no serious wage disputes or scale questions to be argued. Under the NRA the basic coal code has set a minimum wage scale for miners.

John L. Lewis, international president for the last twelve years, again will preside.

Among the labor leaders who will address the convention are William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, formerly international secretary-treasurer of the miners, and Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor.

Delegate representation to the miners' convention is one delegate from each 100 union miners. With the membership at 500,000, there would be 5,000 eligible to attend.

Estate of Dan Jackson Loses $3,250 Rent Fight

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday ruled that the estate of Daniel M. Jackson, Negro political leader, must pay $3,250 in rent to Harry and Katharyn Strickland, owners of a house at 3139 South Michigan avenue where Jackson once operated a gambling house. The judge's ruling upheld the finding of the Probate court which had been appealed by Charles Jackson, brother of Daniel and executor of his estate.

GREEN TO HEAR U. S. FINDINGS IN CWA JOBS QUIZ

PWA Agents to Report on Any Irregularities.

U. S. District Attorney Dwight Green yesterday revealed that he had been notified from Washington that special investigators representing the public works administration would confer with him at the end of this week and lay before him the results of an inquiry into rumors of irregularities in the handling of civil works administration contracts in the Chicago area.

It became known that a number of the special agents were in Chicago after Louis R. Glavis, chief of the department of investigation of the PWA, had returned to Washington. S. M. Moe, an investigator who remained here, said he could not discuss what evidence, if any, had been uncovered by the government men.

Quiz Is News to Chase.

"I had no knowledge of an investigation," said Frank D. Chase, state director of the CWA, when informed of the investigation. "I met Mr. Glavis recently and other government representatives have dropped in at various times. They were given all the information they wanted and had access to all CWA records."

The investigation was said to have been prompted by the circulation of numerous rumors spread by disgruntled applicants for contracts and jobs from the CWA who were unsuccessful in their quest.

In letters to newspapers and to government officials, the accusation has been frequently made that politics has governed the selection of jobs in the civil works program and the purchase of materials by the governmental bodies in charge of CWA projects.

This prompted Robert J. Dunham, who is chairman of the state CWA administration, to a discussion yesterday of the methods used in filling jobs and the reason why so much dissatisfaction was apparent in the city and county over the distribution of employment by the administration.

The principal reason for the disappointment prevalent among thousands is the fact that the quota of 123,000 jobs allotted to Cook county by the CWA was quickly filled under government regulations, leaving more than a quarter of a million unemployed vainly imploring the government for jobs, Mr. Dunham pointed out. It has been only human, he admitted, for these neglected thousands to complain of "political pull" as the reason for their nonemployment.

Lists Job Allotments.

"Registration of unemployed for possible assignments to civil works projects was discontinued today," he said. "Approximately 372,000 persons were registered. The Washington regulations provided that about 55,000 of the 123,000 jobs available be given to persons on relief. Another 45,000 jobs went to war veterans, under the government rules. There were thus only 23,000 jobs remaining to apportion among about 273,000 jobless, a ratio of about one in twelve.

"I have received letters from men saying: 'I am desperate. I registered for employment, but have not been given a job. What shall I do?' The sad fact is that there was only one job for every twelve of these men.

Defends Method.

"The charge that political or any other influence guided the selection of applicants for jobs is ridiculous. If I myself wanted to see a friend given a job I could not, under the system, get him CWA employment. The registration cards are not sorted alphabetically. Names are picked at lot from the files. If an attempt were made to give a certain John Jones a job, a search might have to be made through the entire 372,000 cards before the right name was located. I can assert firmly that the allotment of jobs was fair and square in every particular and no man was favored above another."

It is probably true, Mr. Dunham said, that certain persons given CWA jobs are not as much in need as others who have not been given assignments and this has contributed to the feeling that the distribution of jobs has been unjust. He pointed out, however, that government regulations call for the granting of jobs without respect to the financial condition of the unemployed. President Roosevelt has insisted that the CWA program is to relieve unemployment and is not a poor relief measure.

As to the purchase of materials, which is under the supervision of the public body in charge of the project, a close check is kept to guard against waste, Mr. Dunham said.

An investigation is under way by Director Chase, it was learned, concerning reports that Michael Carrozzo's street laborers' union is using foremen on CWA projects to collect $1 a head from the workers under them. A report on this angle will probably be made before the end of the week.

Mr. Chase reported progress in catching up with overtime CWA pay rolls. After the end of this week, he predicted, there will be no more pay rolls more than two weeks old. The magnitude of the task of setting up a working organization of 123,000 men has delayed the payment of the workers previously.

BREEZES BLOW AND PART OF A CWA PAY CHECK GOES ALONG

More than half of the check which Walter Dugan, 6565 Yale avenue, received for three weeks of CWA work blew away on the brisk breezes last Saturday evening.

Dugan appeared at the South State street police station last night and told the story of his misfortune to Desk Sergt. Jerry Lynch. Said he:

"It was the first money I got for working in a couple of years: just $45, and I decided to buy my wife a coat with $25 of it. Her old coat was terribly shabby. So we went together and found one that looked swell in a pawnshop on South State street.

"The fellow that had it said it was a genuine gray squirrel. We dickered for it and he finally agreed to take $25 if we would leave her old coat with him. My wife and I started home on a surface car. We sat near the front door and every time somebody opened it a breeze blew in and the gray hair blew off the squirrel coat.

"When we got off the car to walk home the wind was still blowing and by the time we reached the house the whole coat was bald. Mrs. Dugan won't go out in it and the fellow that sold it has her old one."

Sergt. Lynch suggested that Dugan tell the courts about it and try to get his money back from the seller of the disappearing coat.

ROOSEVELT TO URGE SEAWAY PACT O. K. TODAY

Writes Special Message; See Real Test.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will urge the senate, in a special message scheduled for tomorrow, to ratify the treaty with Canada on the building of the St. Lawrence waterway.

Thereupon will ensue a test of the President's strength which is not related to the issues of recovery and monetary policy, and a long and animated struggle is expected.

Advocates of the treaty claim it can be ratified, although a two-thirds vote of the senate is required for passage. Opponents assert with equal assurance that it will be defeated. Spokesmen for the opposition tonight declared various independent polls showed 38 to 48 senators whose minds were made up to vote against ratification.

Compromise Talk Heard.

Meanwhile, the talk of a compromise by which some of the opponents will be converted into proponents continued to be heard. The compromise, according to reports, has been agreed to privately by the Canadian government leaders. It provides for the striking out of Article 8 of the treaty, which limits the diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago to 1,500 cubic feet per second after 1938, in pursuance of a Supreme court decision. It is believed by the sponsors of this compromise that senators from the Mississippi valley states, who have attacked Article 8 as striking the death of the Illinois-Mississippi waterway, could be induced to vote for the treaty if the article were stricken out, and thus obtain sufficient votes for ratification.

The President has not made known his position on Article 8, but last summer he indicated to Robert Isham Randolph of Chicago, president of the Mississippi Valley association, that some means might be found to give assurance to the Mississippi states that a sufficient volume of water to operate the southern waterway route would be obtainable from Lake Michigan.

Spends Day on Message.

Mr. Roosevelt spent most of today working out the details of his message to the senate. Part of the day he conferred with Frank McNinch, chairman of the federal power commission, who has been chairman of a departmental committee obtaining additional information on the economic feasibility of the St. Lawrence waterway.

McNinch was accompanied to the White House by Basil Manly, vice chairman of the power commission. Leland Olds, a New York utility rate expert, and Ralph Sucher.

The President had also before him a lengthy protest against the treaty, submitted by a committee representing 500 delegates from the New England, mid-Atlantic, southern and gulf states who met in Philadelphia last month.

Opponents' Points Cited.

Among arguments made against ratification of the treaty by this conference were the following:

"Lake Michigan is entirely within the American watershed and for 150 years has been recognized as an American lake. The conference is unalterably opposed to surrendering sovereignty, as proposed in the treaty.

"The treaty not only gives Canada control over diversion out of Lake Michigan, but authorizes Canada to divert water from Georgian bay or other points on the Canadian side without limitation and without consulting the United States.

"It is estimated that approximately $55,000,000 of American money will be expended in Canadian territory. The treaty provides that this money shall be used to employ Canadian labor, Canadian engineers and Canadian materials."

FORMER SENATOR'S DAUGHTER INDICTED FOR GOLD HOARDINGS

Denver, Colo., Jan. 9.—(AP)—A federal grand jury indictment on a charge of gold hoarding—the first of its kind ever returned here—was on file tonight against Miss Edith M. Thomas, 45, daughter of former U. S. Senator Charles S. Thomas of Colorado, who last May defied the federal government to seize gold held by him.

Miss Thomas was indicted on two counts. One charged she had $3,000 in gold in her possession last Sept. 18, in violation of President Roosevelt's executive order, and the other charged she failed to report her gold holdings to the internal revenue collector in Denver.

In the executive order the offense is defined as punishable by a maximum fine of $10,000 and a maximum prison sentence of ten years.

Last May former Senator Thomas wrote the U. S. district attorney's office here, stating he had $120 in gold, $20 in excess of the limit fixed in the President's executive order.

He challenged the government to take the gold away from him and said he was "ready to go to the penitentiary in testing the extent of the executive power of the federal government."

His letter was submitted to Attorney General Homer Cummings at Washington, but no action was taken.

BRUNDAGE HEARD IN INVESTIGATION OF STONE & CO.

Investigation of the receivership of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct $30,000,000 real estate concern, continued yesterday before Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel. The Chicago Title and Trust company was receiver for the concern before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward.

Avery Brundage, chairman of the bondholders' protective committee in the case, testified to his belief that cooperation of his committee with the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company was for the best interests of the bondholders. The Continental was one of the largest secured creditors of the Stone company.

Charles Hough, attorney for the receiver and secretary of a company owning theaters in which the Stone concern had an interest, said he could see nothing improper in holding both positions. Abner J. Stilwell, vice president of the Continental bank, offered to tell how his institution acquired obligations previously owed by the Stone group to the First National bank, but was restrained by objections of the Continental bank counsel. The case is before Judge Gentzel on petition of Attorney Mort D. Goldberg, representing holders of $1,500 of Stone bonds.

STEAL CASH AND MONEY ORDERS.

Two gunmen held up Mrs. Margaret Klent, 48 years old, in her store at 4151 West Lake street, early yesterday, and escaped with $18, seventy-one blank money orders, and the rubber stamps used in their issuance, from a postal substation there.

CHARGE TRICKERY IN PROPAGANDA FOR LAKE SEAWAY

Rail Chiefs Asked to Join Fight on Treaty.

The Chicago Association of Commerce has called upon the presidents of the country's railroads to aid in defeating passage of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway treaty which is considered inimical to the interests of Illinois and adjoining states. The treaty is now before the senate for ratification.

In the letters sent to a number of railroad executives, who are asked to communicate with senators representing the states served by the respective lines, attention is called to a recent bulletin of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association. The bulletin quotes excerpts from statements made by the railway heads apparently in favor of the treaty as far back as 1920.

Quoted from Inference.

Interviews yesterday disclosed that some of the brief quotations in the bulletin of the association, which is made up of a number of states supporting the treaty, had been carefully selected to make it appear the authors were entirely in favor of the project. L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central system, who was one of those alluded to in the bulletin, yesterday criticized the deliberate attempt to make it infer he was for the treaty project.

"I never was in favor of the treaty and I stated in the same letter from which the misleading quotations were taken that the Illinois Central was not interested in favor of the waterway," said Mr. Downs.

"In the light of facts which have been developed, there is no prospect of benefits to be derived which would cover in any substantial part the interests which every investment ought to earn from the project."

Sargent Opposes Treaty.

A similar attitude was expressed in a statement issued from the office of Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and Northwestern railway. It stated definitely that Mr. Sargent was wholly opposed to the treaty on the ground of economic principles.

Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad, questioned the benefits that might result from carrying out of the project under the terms of the treaty.

H. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, laconically characterized a thirty-word quotation of a statement he made five years ago, which was cited in the Tidewater association's bulletin, as "incomplete."

Asks United Opposition.

The letter which the association of commerce sent out a few days ago over the signature of James P. Haynes, executive vice president, in part was as follows:

"Our organization is very much opposed to the passage of this measure [the treaty], and is coöperating with other agencies in seeking modification or its complete defeat.

"Doubtless you will wish to communicate with the senators representing the states served by your line, in connection with this highly controversial issue."

OPERATING SYSTEM OF HOLC IS CHANGED TO AID HOME OWNERS

Changes in operation of the Illinois Home Owners' Loan corporation were announced yesterday by William H. McNeal, special representative of the national HOLC, who is in charge of the housecleaning which started following the ouster of William G. Donne as state manager.

Beginning this morning the home owner no longer will be required to present a written consent from the mortgage holder stating that the latter will accept the bonds of the HOLC in exchange for the mortgage.

Instead of this, the consent department, Mr. McNeal said, is to be increased to a point where it will be possible for it to have direct contact with the mortgagees in all cases. This means that expert employés, with a wide knowledge of what the HOLC bonds mean to the mortgagees, will explain to them the advantages of making an exchange. It is expected, according to Mr. McNeal, that this will expedite the making of loans for home owners.

Two new offices for the Illinois HOLC were created yesterday by Mr. McNeal, a director of the loan closing department and a personnel director. Robert M. Thompson, 6959 Pingree street, recently associated with the real estate department of the First National bank, has been put in charge of the loan closing department. Francis M. Widick, 1916 Newcastle avenue, for eleven years personnel director of the Illinois Life Insurance company, has been employed as personnel director.

BRAZILIANS PLAN NEW METHOD TO ELECT PRESIDENT

Direct Vote on 5 Nominees of Congress Proposed.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Nomination of presidential candidates by the Brazilian congress and election by direct vote has been suggested by the Minas Geraes delegation in the constitutional assembly. The proposal was made to reconcile proponents of direct voting and selection of the executive by the assembly.

The suggestion is one of 1,244 amendment proposals presented to the commission of 26, which will present a constitutional project to the assembly.

Under the Minas Geraes plan the national assembly would elect five presidential candidates five days before elections. Voters would ballot directly for the five nominees. This system, Minas Geraes deputies believe, would tend to prevent difficulties of the past.

Blames Illiteracy for Crises.

The proposal was presented with the comment that "because Brazil is an immense country with 80 per cent illiterates, in 40 years [roughly the age of the republic] we have had not a single presidential succession without a grave political crisis, and few without revolutions."

The presidential-federative system, in effect since Brazil overthrew its empire in 1889, is expected to be retained in the new constitution, inasmuch as leaders of the state delegations of Minas Geraes, Sao Paulo, Bahia, and Rio Grande do Sul have declared for it. Pernambuco's assembly leader favors the parliamentary system.

Only 100 of Value.

Deputy Carlos Maximiliano, chairman of the constitution drafting committee, estimates that of the 1,244 proposed amendments to the preliminary draft, only a hundred are "of real value."

The preliminary project, certain to be cut up and pieced together with a new idea, offers the federative presidential system with limitation of state powers, such as the right to levy import and export taxes, incorporation of the eight hour day, and compulsory pension and sickness relief funds as constitutional principles. Most of these measures are already in effect by decree of Provisional President Getulio Vargas, in power since October, 1930.

Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Felony court yesterday held Walter Burns, 27 years old, to the grand jury in bond of $10,000 on a charge of attempting to rob Julius Newhaus, 1552 Komensky avenue, a driver for the Borden Farm Products company.

NEW DEAL HAILS UPHOLDING OF MORTGAGE LAW

Deem It Reinforcement of Recovery Program.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—New dealers at the capitol were jubilant today over yesterday's 5 to 4 decision by the United States Supreme court upholding the constitutionality of the Minnesota mortgage moratorium act.

The Minnesota law giving to the owners of mortgaged property means of relief through the courts is the first emergency measure of the depression to be tested in the country's highest court. With the NIRA and the AAA and other Roosevelt recovery legislation bound to be tested out in the same fashion, the opinion of the court in the Minnesota case is looked on as of particular significance.

Supporters of the President's program were elated that Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justice Roberts had chosen to take the "liberal" side in the closely divided court. The chief justice and Justice Roberts are noted for their middle of the road legal philosophy, which sometimes leads them to side with the so-called "conservative" element of the court, but which has, in many cases with considerable social bearing, caused them to join Justices Brandeis, Stone, and Butler, the court's most confirmed "liberals."

"It will convince everybody," Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska Radical, declared, 'including the Supreme court itself, that we are trying to save this country. It wil ltend to back up those who are seeking to reënforce legislation by amendment."

Senator Hiram Johnson of California, another pro-Roosevelt Republican, said that the "far-reaching opinion will have a tremendous effect in strengthening the recovery program."

Senator Alva B. Adams [Dem., Colo], observed:

"The decision stretches the constitution, but it has long been recognized that the Supreme court is not only judicial but legislative."

Old guard Republican commentators, while disappointed at the outcome of the Minnesota case, were unwilling to admit that the decision pointed the way to a similar liberal interpretation of federal emergency statutes. It was far different, they declared, to hold that a state might exercise certain powers in an emergency in favor of its people as a whole, and to assert that the national congress, strictly limited as it is by the constitution, might impose emergency laws upon the whole nation.

Senator Henry D. Hatfield [Rep., W. Va.], who has been one of the most outspoken among the Republican critics of the NRA and other new deal agencies, pointed out this distinction. As former governor of his state he had advocated what were then considered radical social measures.

"There is a grave danger," he said, "that it will establish a precedent and give rise to innumerable unconstitutional laws under the pretext of an emergency which would wreck the constitution—the very cornerstone upon which rest American rights and liberties.

"This decision serves notice upon the individual who heretofore had trusted in the constitution for protection and believed in the sanctity of contract that the constitution is no longer a guarantee nor security against the abrogation of a proper and legal contract, under the majority of opinion of the court of last resort."

FEDERAL PAY CUT EFFECTIVE TO JULY 1 ON WASHINGTON JOBS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today by executive order continued the 15 per cent reduction of pay of federal employés for another six months.

In his budget message the President asked that the authority to cut be changed from 15 to 10 per cent, thus—congress willing—assuring restoration of one-third of the pay cut beginning July 1, the start of the new fiscal year.

The President acted today upon the findings of the department of labor on the local cost of living, as provided by law.

Two sets of findings were given. The first, based on the cost of living for families of wage earners and lower salaried workers in 32 cities, showed the average cost of living for this group in the last half of 1923 was 21.1 below the average of the base period of December, 1927, to June, 1928.

The second set of findings, based on a special study of the cost of living of government employés in Washington, showed a decline in the cost of living during the last three months of 14.6 per cent.

CITES HOLSTEIN COWS' RECORD OF PRODUCTION

While many Chicagoans were fuming over the difficulty of getting a single bottle of milk yesterday, H. W. Norton Jr., superintendent of the "Advanced Registry" of the Holstein-Friesian Record association, was expressing satisfaction here over the showing of 32,000 Holsteins on the fregister in averaging 7,795 quarts of whole milk a year. The association, which has headquarters at Madison, was meeting at the Palmer house.

The milk produced by the 32,000 Holsteins averaged 569.9 pounds of fat for each cow during a year, Mr. Norton said. Holstein breeders claim that the breed is the only one to exreed an average of 30,000 pounds of milk a year.

Seeks Reconciliation; Shot by Father-in-Law

Harry Brown, 544 West 41st street, was shot in the left cheek last night by his father-in-law, Charles Bartholomew, 57 years old, 4145 Wentworth avenue, an unemployed carpenter, during a family quarrel. Brown had visited the Bartholomew home to induce his wife, Helen Brown, and their two children to return home. He had chased them out of the house Monday night during a quarrel. The shooting climaxed Brown's altercation with Bartholomew after attempts at a reconciliation had failed. Brown was taken to the Bridewell hospital and Bartholomew was locked up at the Stockyards police station.

ILLINOIS SENATE STOPS CLOCK TO RUSH LIQUOR BILL

Redraft Is Advanced to Third Reading.

on the license committe, who also are members of the zoning committee, opened its discussion. Most of the license committee members indicated that they would oppose the measure when it is submitted to the council.

The zoning amendment, it was explained by Ald. Dorsey Crowe [22d], will merely classify liquor retailing establishments as other business places are classified in the city zoning law.

There were groans from one corner of the committee room and rumblings of disapproval from the others over the proposed act. Thereupon Ald. James J. Cusack [5th] rose to defend the amendment.

"We talk about home rule, but this is merely the application of the home rule principal in the smallest unit—the square block. Who knows better than the people who reside in a block whether they want a liquor establishment located there? The amendment is designed to protect property rights and values," he said.

"This is a good law," asserted Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], over a chorus of moans emitted by most of the other committee members.

The license committee then adopted an amendment to the liquor ordinance which would provide: "No liquor shall be sold, offered for sale, kept for sale, displayed, or advertised for sale at retail, or delivered to any person purchasing same at retail except at a location or premises described in a retail liquor dealer's license." The purpose of the proposed amendment is to keep chain stores from operating from a single central store or warehouse, from which all deliveries might be made under one license.

The license committee then deferred for future consideration a proposal to abolish bars, another to provide referendum for local option by square miles; a petition signed by 200 property owners to direct Allman to refuse to recommend the issuance of liquor licenses in the area bounded by 63d street, Stony Island avenue, 67th street, and Maryland avenue; a regulatory amendment for sale of liquor by drug stores, and a resolution to ask the legislature to set up a liquor licensing control commission for Chicago consisting of the corporation counsel, the chief of police, and the city collector.

The adoption of an amendment to the liquor control law which would preserve the right of referendum on local option was urged last night in telegrams sent to Gov. Horner, Lieut. Gov. Thomas Donovan, the speaker of the house, and the chairmen of the house and senate committees to which the liquor bill has been referred, by the All Chicago Kiwanis club, which met at the Hotel Sherman. The communications stated that the right to regulate or prohibit the sale of liquor in any form should be submitted to a referendum not only as it pertains to municipalities but to any geographical subdivision.

COMEBACK URGED FOR FARM HORSE AS RECOVERY AID

Tractor Critic Cites Value of Animal Power.

Continued increase in the use of horses and mules on the farm was predicted yesterday by Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America. He spoke before the agricultural council of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Great Northern hotel.

Mr. Dinsmore's address was an answer to the advantages claimed for mechanical power by A. P. Yerkes, editor of "Tractor Farmer," who spoke before the council last week. Mr. Yerkes had asserted the way for the American farmer to capture export markets is to produce in the most economical way with the full power of machinery at his hand.

Blames Motorization.

Mr. Dinsmore asserted the increase in tractors from 1920 to 1929, with a resulting decrease in horses and mules brought excess in food supply, low prices and attendant evils now facing the country. In the period, he said, the number of horses and mules decreased by 10,000,000 head from 27,000,000 to 17,000,000, but there has been a slight increase in the past two years.

"Every man, woman, and child in America has been affected by this decrease," Mr. Dinsmore said. "Manufacturers and merchants have seen sales decline, wage earners have seen their salaries reduced, persons living on income producing property has seen returns diminish, and farmers have seen lower prices.

"The connection is direct and inescapable. The decrease in horses has meant a loss for farmers of a market for 40,000,000 acres of farm products, considerably more than his total exports of wheat, corn, oats, rye, and barley in peak years. This has resulted in a surplus of farm products, which affects every industry directly or indirectly."

Calls Animal Consumer.

Mr. Dinsmore pointed out that it has been estimated two acres are sufficient to produce the needs of man for a year and four acres for those of the horse and mule. All other animals are merely food factories converting farm products into food and wool, he said.

"There are but two ultimate consumers," he continued. "These are the man and the horse, including the mule. When either of ultimate consumers decrease, surplus begins to accumulate. With the decline of the horse there has been a greater quantity of perishable food, meat, dairy products, and poultry per capita than in the past, although the country raised less of the five principal grains.

"The only possible answer is that pasture, forage, hay and grain, which formerly fed 16 million head of horses, has gone into cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry. What profit is this, however, when we have more food products than consumers will take at prices which are fair to farmers? This is the real question of today.

Blames Farm and City.

"Farmers and city men are directly responsible for the present situation in agriculture. By failure to use horses and mules wherever practicable and by substituting tractors and trucks on almost a million farms, they not only threw millions of animals out of work in the city and on the farm, but also created fear which caused a decrease in production of the animals.

"Farmers have killed their own markets by decreasing one ultimate consumer—the horse—and business men who encouraged the shift are equally to blame. To break this unfavorable trend, great public expenditures are being made to furnish work to the unemployed and to lift prices by leasing farm land to the government to lie idle till production is reduced. The theory is admirable but whether it will work out is a question."

Mr. Dinsmore listed the economic advantages of the use of horse power as against the cost of machine power. With a life of 15 years the cash cost of a team of horses is about $8 a year, less than the cost of fuel for a tractor without regard to the purchase or upkeep price.

"Conditions favor an increase in the use of horses and mules in the future, because the other ultimate consumer, man, according to estimates will reach the peak of population saturation in 1960, and decline because of modern views on the size of the family," said Mr. Dinsmore.

ITALY ISSUES GUN FOR EACH SOLDIER SLAIN IN WAR TO BOYS 10 TO 14

ROME, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A musket for every Italian soldier who fell during the world war will be placed in the hands of tiny Blackshirts under orders published today. An organization to be known as the "Balilla Musketeers" will be made up of boys ranging from 10 to 14 years. It has been formed in a spirit of carrying on.

Each member will be given a musket bearing the name of a soldier who fell in the war.

The Balilla organization now comprises 800,000 members and is growing rapidly. Italy lost 650,000 men in the war. It was recently announced that a corps of 100,000 officers would be required to train members of the Balilla as well as members of the Avanguardisti, who range from 14 to 18.

OPENS INQUIRY INTO ALLOCATION OF EASY MONEY

2 Billion to U. S. Bureaus Despite Congress Edict.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Representative James P. Buchanan [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, started an investigation today of allocations of public works easy money to bureaus of the federal government for purposes previously disallowed by congress.

Of the 3 billion 300 million dollar public works funds more than 2 billions have been given to federal departments. As early as last September and October THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Washington dispatches called attention to the fact that scores of millions of public works money was being parceled out to federal bureaus to finance activities which congress had decreed should be suspended or curtailed.

Bureau Officials to Be Called.

Pronouncing this proceeding nothing short of scandalous Mr. Buchanan instructed all subcommittees of the appropriations committee to investigate these allocations in connection with the preparation of appropriation bills for the 1935 fiscal year. Bureau officials will be questioned, particularly on what steps they took to obtain from the public works administrations funds previously denied by congress.

Chairman Buchanan said that when further emergency appropriations are sought by the administration he will move a proviso prohibiting allocations for purposes not expressly approved by congress.

Another move to provide a check on the reckless spending of public funds lasted only 72 hours. In his budget message President Roosevelt announced that he would issue executive orders requiring that all proposed expenditures of emergency funds should be passed upon by the bureau of the budget before disbursement and audited afterwards by the controller general. A few days later he issued the orders.

Roosevelt Modifies Order.

Thereupon Public Works Administrator Ickes, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rexford Guy Tugwell and others connected with the disbursement of emergency funds bore down on the White House in hot protest. They argued that submission of expenditures to the budget bureau in advance would seriously delay getting government money into the hands of the people whose purchasing power it is the object of the colossal disbursement to enhance. Dr. Tugwell is said to have presented most forcefully to the President the danger that Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas, who is regarded by the brain trust as a dangerous conservative, would hold up indefinitely many expenditures of which he disapproves.

Thereupon Mr. Roosevelt amended his executive orders. He did not change the provision for auditing expenditures afterwards by the controller general but he did revoke the provision for Director Douglas passing on them in advance. This he modified to provide that all emergency agencies shall make weekly reports of disbursements and contracts to Mr. Douglas, who is authorized to forward comments thereon and recommendations to the President. Chairman Buchanan's complaint is directed at Mr. Ickes and other members of the cabinet board that passed upon the allocations to federal agencies.

2 Million to Kill Mosquitoes.

"We seem to have two appropriation committees operating," said Mr. Buchanan. "The house committee takes up a department request for an appropriation, goes into it exhaustively and refuses to allow it, let us say. Then the department gets the money from the public works board, which gives the proposition little if any scrutiny. I have no objection to public works allocations for public roads and other projects representing a policy approved by congress. But I do object to this circumvention of congress in matters we have expressly disapproved.

"Take this item of $800,000 of public works money given the department of justice for construction of employé houses on prison grounds. Congress specifically rejected that appropriation, deeming it unwise to house employés on prison grounds. Then here is 2 millions allotted the public health service to exterminate mosquitoes. This is just some more bug chasing such as congress has repeatedly refused to spend money on.

"Take this $257,000 for the bureau of agricultural engineering. The fact is this bureau has been spreading out too rapidly. It is several years ahead of the practical development of agriculture. The money congress voted for this bureau was considered adequate for practical purposes. I see the animal industry bureau got $978,000 for cattle tick eradication. We gave them all the money that could be used and I don't understand how it can possibly be spent."

Ickes Replies to Critic.

Answering Mr. Buchanan, Mr. Ickes said:

"In the first place, it was the intention of the program to get men to work as quickly as possible.

"It was federal money in the first place. Federal departments were organized. The army and navy were ready with building programs.

"Departments came in and asked for allocations. We knew they could spend the money wisely, with definite programs, and that there would be no graft about it.

"Against this situation, there were no nonfederal projects ready. It looked as if it would be weeks or months before they could be put into shape. If we had withheld money for nonfederal projects, it might have been months before the funds could have been spent. We might still have been waiting.

Claim Power Given President.

"When the bill was in congress there was no indication that we were not to put money into federal departments. While congress did not feel that it had enough money to put into all departments, it passed the responsibility of spending the public works money to the President under the industrial recovery act, giving him discretion in spending it.

"When congress looks into the expenditure of this fund, I am satisfied it will find a good job done."

Mr. Buchanan snorted when told that Mr. Ickes said it was safe to give the federal bureaus money because it would be spent without graft. He suggested it might be a bit difficult to determine how far short of graft it is for federal bureau chiefs to wrangle money out of the public works fund for their pet activities which congress had forced them to suspend or curtail.

Spanish Village to Be Constructed at the World Fair

Architects' sketch of Spanish village which will cover more than two acres on A Century of Progress grounds. It will resemble the one at the Barcelona exposition in 1929. The buildings will be replicas of ancient seignioral houses of the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries from different parts of Spain.

Will Cost $500,000

A contract for the creation of a Spanish village to cost upwards of $500,000 was signed with World's Fair officials yesterday by Nicolas Arias, head of España Poristica, Inc., a newly organized corporation which will take over the sites formerly occupied by the Spanish pavilion and the Oriental village near 23d street.

Mr. Arias yesterday described some of the features of the village, which will occupy two and one-half acres of ground. It will contain reproductions of seignorials, houses of the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries as shown at the Barcelona exposition in 1929. Six provinces of Spain will thus have typical ancient architecture shown to the public for the first time in this country.

All of the employés and entertainers will be brought here from Spain for the duration of the Fair under a special permit from immigration authorities, Mr. Arias said. Subconcessionnaires have signed contracts totaling $300,000, he declared.

INDIANA FARM CHIEF CALLS AAA "MAGNA CHARTA" OF INDUSTRY

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Optimism for the future of Indiana agriculture was expressed today by William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm bureau, in an address before the general session of the annual agricultural conference at Purdue university.

The record for first day attendance at the conference was shattered with an official registration of 1,572, compared to 1,323 last year.

"The agricultural adjustment act is agriculture's magna charta," Settle said. "It is a promise of economic equality with other groups. Farmers are adjusting production of surplus crops to consumption. Already the program has proved a distinct stimulus to recovery in areas where it has been carried out.

"Farmers have a brighter future today than at any time since I can remember. Only ourselves can prevent us from achieving the economic victory for which we have fought so long. We have not permitted ourselves to be led astray by strikes or other erroneous doctrines by which disaster and disappointment only could be expected."

ILLINOIS BEER REVENUE PASSES $2,000,000 MARK

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Revenue collected by the state under the beer law has passed the $2,000,000 mark, J. M. Braude, assistant to Director Joseph J. Rice of the state department of finance, announced today.

From April 26 until Jan. 8 the total collections have been $2,100,552. Of this amount $998,319 was from gallonage tax and $1,300,200 from licenses and tax on brewers.

The state has issued 18,975 licenses to retailers under the beer law.

At the county hospital he told internes that he had flown daily for eight years and never had an accident. The driver of the car, George Novak, 1827 South 59th avenue, Cicero, was not held.

FARM MARKET IS WIDENED BY CORN DISCOVERY

Chemistry Develops New Sugar Process.

What are America's research laboratories and private industries developing in new and improved products which will create new wants and open new markets, furnishing useful employment? This information, The Tribune believes, should prove of great benefit in stimulating the resourcefulness of private enterprise, which holds the key to substantial re-employment and national recovery. Herewith is the first of a series of articles by Arthur Evans, who is exploring the fields of chemistry, mechanics, electricity, and metallurgy for the new products in sight which may revitalize American industry.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chemistry has taken another step toward solution of the corn surplus problem of the middle west farmer, as indicated yesterday when the Corn Products Refining company made public the establishment and operation of an anhydrous sugar mill—first of its kind—at its Argo plant.

By the industry it is rated as perhaps the most important development in corn derivatives in a decade or more. For the first time, it is announced, pure dextrose in granulated form, anhydrous, meaning devoid of water, is being made that competes with cane and beet sugar on a quality and price basis.

Opens Door to Trade.

The trade regards it as opening the door to a great realm of possibilities in aid of the corn grower through extended industrial use of corn. It is also pointed to as showing what private enterprise is doing to conquer depression by new and improved products and as typical of what is going on in research laboratories of industries of varied types.

The new anhydrous corn sugar at Argo has been developed by W. B. Newkirk. For three years during the depression Mr. Newkirk worked in his chemical engineering laboratory at the job of improving the refined product. Dextrose is the natural sugar of fruits and vegetables and is especially abundant in grapes, often constituting 20 per cent of their total weight, whence it is often called "grape sugar." Dextrose can be crystallized in two ways, one with water, or hydrous, the other free from water, or anhydrous.

Easily Assimilated.

Chemists say corn sugar, while less sweet than cane sugar, is the most readily assimilated of all the sugars and its preserving qualities are equal to those of the sweeter sugar.

The process of crystallization with water was perfected ten or twelve years ago, and now comes the process without water. By the industry, Mr. Newkirk, who early in his career was with the bureau of standards at Washington, is credited with both developments.

Generally speaking, it takes a period of years before a laboratory discovery gets into commercial production. Last year, as a starter, the new process was begun in a small plant at Kansas City, which turned out 150 to 200 bags of 100 pounds each per day.

A larger model mill was built at Argo, and without any blast of trumpets, was put into operation in October. This plant is producing 2,000 bags a day and is equipped for 3,000 bags daily. It started with 500 bags a day some three months ago, but response from the market was such that it immediately went to 1,000 bags daily.

Find Immediate Foreign Demand.

Curiously enough, as an object lesson in what can be done to stimulate foreign trade, the first 2,000 bags of the new anhydrous corn sugar turned out by the new mill at Argo was exported on a rush order from England.

Illinois sugar, made from Illinois corn by Illinois labor, despite trade walls and the fall in foreign trade, it is pointed out, is now being delivered in Great Britain and France.

To compete actively with cane sugar in the home and in manufacturing, the chemical engineers made a fetish of quality. The new plant has filtered air, carbon filtered water, and other modern devices aimed at purity of quality, and the chemists declare the purity of output is one great salesman. The new granulated corn sugar, when poured out, seems of larger grain than the older hydrous corn sugar, while its quality of sweetness is greater.

One of the avowals of the industry is that enough corn sugar should be made to remove the cash corn crop off the market. The argument is that it will displace foreign sugars, instead of American cane and beet sugar, and that it can compete dollar for dollar with cane sugar in the foreign markets.

Corn Invades Other Markets.

In two other new directions the corn industries report they are invading new markets of late. The products of Iowa and Illinois corn have just broken into the glazing and parchment business, while another use of comparatively recent development is the use of products from corn as a lubricant for auto body dies, displacing old lubricants which are washed off the dies with difficulty.

Iowa and Illinois corn, too, may find its way into the motion picture industry. Through a German patent starches may displace the present emulsion used on movie films. The advantage of the new composition is that it is impervious to water. Reels may be washed without injury to film surfaces, which at present have to be guarded against dampness and barometric change.

Eleven Corn Refineries.

At present more than a third of the cash corn surplus is being consumed by corn refining companies. There are eleven leading refining concerns with plants over the corn belt in the middle west. The Corn Products Refining company, which grinds about 40,000,000 bushels a year, represents about 45 per cent of the wet grind of the country.

Most of the corn is consumed on the farm, and the theory of many economists and of the corn refining industry is that the 12 or 15 per cent of the corn crop which enters the terminal markets fixes the value of the entire crop. The eleven firms constituting the corn refining industry, according to the trade statistics, absorb about one-third of the farmers' cash corn.

How Surplus Grows.

With loss of foreign markets for American meat products less corn is being fed on the farm, and corn consumption has been further reduced by the substitution of gasoline engines for horses and mules, and by the pig killing program of the AAA. Through large scale scientific research in their chemical laboratories, however, the corn refiners have found new industrial uses and new food products for corn sugar, syrup, starch, dextrines, oils, and other corn derivatives and have steadily increased their corn grind year by year.

The average corn crop [1926-1930] was about 2½ billion bushels. The refining industries figure that the corn sold for cash instead of being fed on the farm runs between 250 and 300 million bushels. In bumper years it runs higher, and the trade figures that average annual consumption is about 2½ billion bushels, including corn used by millers and refiners.

In 1909 the refiners used 39 million bushels; in 1919 65 million bushels, in 1930 78 million bushels. Last year was the largest in the industry's history. Official figures have not yet been compiled.

Today, according to the trade's statistics, the corn refineries use corn in the making of nearly a billion pounds of corn sugar a year, more than a billion pounds of corn syrup and more than 100 million pounds of dextrin. In addition more than 800 million pounds of corn starch is sold to the textile industries, to adhesive manufacturers, to paper manufacturers, powder makers, and to scores of other industries.

The two most important industries buying the cash corn are the mills which make corn meal, and the corn products industry. Corn sirup is the largest output.

Britain Is Large Market.

The third largest market for the corn sirup is the export trade, especially that of Great Britain, where it goes into jams, marmalades and conserves.

Dextrin, made from pure starch by heat, is an adhesive and is used on the gum on the back of postage stamps. It is used as a core binder for foundries, for sizing in the textile industry to strengthen the fiber, for thickening colors in the printing of calico and other fabrics. It goes into mucilage, ink and into fireworks.

From the cornstalks themselves the laboratory specialists have devised means of making paper, board, cellulose and other products.

TOMMY MANVILLE, MARRIED 3 MONTHS, QUITS FOURTH WIFE

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—If at first you don't succeed—you know the rest and so, fortunately, does Tommy Manville Jr.

The multimillionaire asbestos heir's fourth marriage appeared today to be perilously close to what they call the rocks, but Mr. Manville is not through trying.

Mr. Manville, who lives at the Waldorf in an appropriately elaborate suite, was gloomy as he discussed the reasons for his pending separation from his "dream girl"—more specifically, the 20 year old Marcelle Edwards Manville, blonde, beautiful, and once of the Ziegfeld "Follies." They've been married less than three months.

"It's a permanent separation," he said. "We have been on the verge of a split-up several times in the last month. I'm going to choose another kind of wife. I've been married four times and might be married twenty times more."

GERMAN PRELATE MENACED WITH DEATH AS 'JUDAS'

Nazis Protect Priest Who Denounced Superior.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—Bavarian political police after searching strenuously for the Rev. Father Hartl, a prelate of the church, who disappeared from the Catholic seminary at Freisang after numerous Catholics had branded him as a Judas for helping the Nazi sentence the director of his seminary, the Rev. Father Rossberger, to eight months in prison, found him tonight suffering from nervous prostration. They took him into protective custody.

Hartl had denounced Rossberger, charging him with making anti-Nazi statements. This was denied by Rossberger, but on the strength of Hartl's testimony Rossberger was sentenced to eight months in prison.

The search for Father Hartl was described by the Deutsche, organ of Chancellor Hitler's "German Labor Front," which now numbers 20,000,000 members. It spoke of the search as "a tale reminiscent of the darkest days of the inquisition."

Denounced as Traitor.

The political police learned, according to the Deutsche, that "extremists among the Catholics considered Hartl a traitor to the church who should die as a Judas. Well informed of the abominable activities of certain circles, police started watching Hartl," the Deutsche continued. "They found his mail full of threats and advices to commit suicide. When they tried to reach Hartl at the seminary he was not there and the director in charge was unable to tell his whereabouts.

"It was feared that Hartl was driven to suicide or that this was a case of a murder of a priest."

The Deutsche added threats against Catholic "agitators."

The Voelkische Beobachter, writing of the case, said "people who drive a man to death with threats exclude themselves from society. They must be exterminated."

Church Councillor Joseph Stelzle, the town priest of Traunstein, upper Bavaria, was arrested today "for his own security" because the population is alleged to be angered at a sermon he preached recently.

Protestant Pastor Jailed.

The Rev. Mr. Buellmeier, a Protestant pastor at Dortmund, was arrested for telling school children that they need not adopt the Hitler salute in his classes.

Walter Thomas, a worker, was sentenced to three days' custody for failing to extend the salute in a Berlin court.

Disregarding the storm of protest raised in the ranks of Protestants by the elimination of Protestant youth organizations and their replacement by Nazi organizations, leaders of the Hitler Youth movement continued today to oust the former leaders and appoint their own men in all Prussian districts.

Thuringia elected a new bishop, Dr. Sasse, who belongs to a new Hitlerite group called the "German Christian Church Movement."

Atlantic Liner Wins 3 Day Tilt with Her Worst Storm

GLASGOW, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The S. S. California of the Anchor line arrived today from New York after a successful battle with what her crew described as the worst storm in her history. A few passengers, whose names were not made public, received minor injuries. For three days and nights of the transatlantic crossing all passengers were ordered below decks.

PRUSSIA OUSTS 75 OFFICIALS OF ART INSTITUTES

Noted Leaders Among Names on List.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—The nazification of Prussian art institutes is progressing apace. A list issued by the Prussian ministry of culture contains the names of 75 officials, men and women formerly in the employ of Prussian art institutes, who were sacked because they had Jewish blood or because they were termed "politically suspect."

The list includes many names prominent in the world of art in Germany. Some of them are of international repute.

Franz Schreker, well known composer who is now in America, is among those who displeased the new power holders. He was discharged from the school for musical composition at Berlin. Schreker has written several operas which were performed with great success, among them "Treasure Hunter," "The Stigmatized," and "Singing Devil."

Noted Architect Fired.

Hans Poelzig, who was relieved from his post at the United State Schools of Fine and Applied Arts in Berlin, is an architect of international repute. Among the structures he erected in Berlin are the Radio House, an imposing semi-circular building of glazed tiles, and the Grosse Schauspielhaus, rebuilt from an old circus. In Frankfurt-on-Main Poelzig is responsible for the giant office building of the German dye trust.

Prof. Bruno Paul, one of the best known interior decorators in Germany, was dismissed from the Prussian Academy of Art.

Dr. Max Friedlaender, former director of the Berlin picture galleries, was relieved of his post on racial grounds. He is an expert for old German and Dutch paintings.

Jews who have played a prominent part in the German art trade are to be eliminated from it unless they are veterans of the world war. Whoever wants to deal in art objects must belong to the Association of Art Dealers, which is a branch of the Corporative Chamber of Arts. Only Aryans and a few exceptional Jews can belong. This refers to auctioneers and dealers in antique and modern art, medals, coins, books, and prints.

Aim New Blow at Teachers.

Slowly and systematically Nazi Germany continues to oust Jews from their posts. Private Jewish teachers are the butt of a new Nazi edict. The Prussian minister for culture has ruled that Jews and "nationally unreliable persons," meaning whoever displeases the Nazis, may not give private lessons even if they have all the academic qualifications necessary for this purpose.

This means added hardship for teachers ousted from German schools because they were part Jewish or their mates were Jewish.

Business schools directed by Jews must be closed or placed under the direction of Aryan teachers, under a ruling of the Prussian minister of economics. Only Jews who taught before the world war, or who took part in the world war battles, may continue to teach.

Martin Stern, 65, a Jewish drug store owner, his wife, and her sister, Emma Mueller, carried out a suicide pact here today.

TURKS OPEN DRIVE TO MAKE SELVES SELF-SUSTAINING

Nation to Build Factories and Exploit Resources.

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A five-year Turkish industrialization plan aimed at transforming "an economically backward and primitive agricultural nation into one of the most highly cultured nations of the world" was made public today.

It follows a trail blazed by Turkey's northern neighbor, soviet Russia, and was perfected under the guidance of Americans. It provides for an outlay of $32,000,000 for 15 state factories, the exploitation of coal, copper and oil deposits, and the hydraulic electrification of Anatolia.

Turkey Seeks "Equality."

Cotton, wool, silk and iron industries are among those to which major attention is being directed; a parallel five-year educational plan is being developed for the training of technicians.

American specialists, headed by Walker D. Hines, former United States railroad administrator, have in the past year investigated Anatolia's agricultural, mineral and industrial conditions, and it is on their reports and the investigations of Premier Ismet Pasha and the minister of economy, D. Jelal Bey, that President Mustafa Kemal's young republic is mobilizing for the big economic drive.

This first scheme will be one of a series which was described by a government spokesman, Deputy Mahmud Bey, as one that "expresses Turkey's determination to be outdistanced by no people in the world in capacity, civilization, in activity, and in independence."

Government to Supply Funds.

The government's super bank will supply funds for building the state factories. An $8,000,000 loan granted Turkey last year by Russia will be used for buying machinery.

The new factories are to produce Turkey's first steel, bottles, watches, cellulose and chemicals, and add to the existing number of textile plants.

In the decade since Mustafa Kemal lifted the country out of the ruins of the Ottoman empire, his government has been laying the foundations for this expansion.

It began a war for independence with a high protective tariff in 1929; it built 1,374 miles of railroads and made possible the exploitation of Anatolia's previously inaccessible resources; it created 42 Turkish banks, and created technical and vocational schools to form a nucleus of skilled workers. This year groups of workmen were sent to Russia to learn how to run machines.

Figures Indicate Increase.

In the ten years the number of workshops and factories in Turkey increased from 140 to 2,317.

How much can be expected from Turkish industry when organized on a big scale is indicated by figures showing the progress already made: The manufacture of cotton and woolen goods has tripled, silk manufacture has so increased that importation has almost ceased; Turkey imported 55,000,000 pounds of flour in 1923 but makes all her own now.

CANADIAN JUDGE TO RULE FRIDAY ON INSULL APPEAL

TORONTO, Jan. 9. — (AP) — Justice Charles Garrow announced today that he would deliver his judgment on the appeal of Martin J. Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities operator, who seeks to remain in Canada despite an extradition order, at 10 a. m. Friday.

Insull is wanted in Chicago to stand trial on charges of larceny and embezzlement in connection with the collapse of the Insull utilities empire with a loss of millions of dollars to stockholders.

Turkey May Offer Haven.

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 9.—(AP)—An opportunity for Samuel Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities operator, to seek refuge in Turkey if he is expelled from Greece on Jan. 31 was left open today when parliament adjourned without ratifying an extradition treaty with the United States. The body will not reconvene until March 1.

The Colder it gets, the better you'll like GAS HEAT

Even at Zero you fire your furnace from your easy chair

To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense . . . remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

COLD waves, ups and downs in temperatures never bother you if you have gas heat. The heat is turned on and off automatically to maintain an even, comfortable temperature in every room in your house day and night.

Think of this when a sudden drop in temperature doubles your work of furnace tending. Shoveling coal, setting dampers and other furnace tasks keep you on the jump. And then there are the ashes to haul and kindling to chop when the furnace goes out.

Install gas heat in your home now and fire your furnace from your easy chair. A flick of the finger on the thermostat signals the gas burner for the heat you want. Gas heat brings new revelations in cleanliness, too. Walls and drapes stay clean much longer.

Gas heating rates are down

Every home—even the most modest—can now afford to heat with gas. Over 15,000 families have contracted for gas heat in the Chicago area in the past six months—families from all strata of life. Why?

Now in effect
NEW LOW COST
for Heating Homes with GAS

YOU INVEST NOTHING!

Without ONE CENT of investment by you, we install the most modern burner in your furnace or boiler. If you are satisfied, it stays. If not—and you are the sole judge—out it comes and your former heating system is re-installed—AT OUR EXPENSE. We make this offer because of our confidence in the perfection of gas heat.

Because rates for gas heating are now one-half of what they were during the 1930-31 heating season. Besides you can try gas heat in your home before you buy. We'll install it at our expense for a year's trial. During the nine heating months you pay only $3 a month rental on the equipment in the average home. This charge is included in the bill for the gas you use. If you decide to keep gas heat, the rental you have paid applies on the nominal purchase price of the equipment.

But if you decide you don't like gas heat, just order it out. Out it comes and your former heating equipment is replaced in good workmanlike order. No discussion. No argument. You are the sole judge.

CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS.

The first major political test since the planned society was set going will occur in the general congressional elections this November. The national administration will then be well along into its second year. At the present moment it is not clear whether or not there will be a general political testing of the theories now in operation. There may be a general challenge or the elections may hinge upon the personalities of candidates, without much regard for general political theory. There is a political opposition, but whether it will feel that the issue is ripe this year or not is now a matter of doubt.

It may be that most of the candidates, Republican or Democratic, will avoid the issue of principles, and it may be that a majority in both parties will profess themselves in sympathy at least with the motives and with the hopes of the national administration, but even if this be the case there can be no doubt that there never was a time when an election asked for higher types of individual for the places in congress. Politicians are now casting about for candidates and candidates are considering their own chances.

If the country could be assured that it would make a large haul of men of good character, good mind, and good purpose it would better its prospects in that regard at least. The New Deal requires many things, and none of them is more important than honesty and intelligence in congress. It need not be said that these are no ordinary political times. A government contained within a limited jurisdiction can be one thing, but a government which has gathered all national activity and the whole national welfare and future into its operations must be highly guarded as to its personnel. The disaster which would be the final one would be the placement of men unscrupulously determined to make the New Deal the greatest deal their personal fortunes could expect to find. If the people want the federal government in the operations it is now undertaking they had better take more care in their elections than they ever have before.

A KILLER IN COLORADO.

The desk of Gov. E. C. Johnson of Colorado is stacked high with letters and telegrams from all over the country protesting against the execution of a capital sentence on Walter Reppin and petitioning executive clemency. The governor says there is nothing to warrant his interference. The Supreme court has granted a stay for review of the case.

Reppin murdered Vincent Regan, a Colorado Springs taxi driver. The killer is eighteen years old and had come from Newark, N. J. As is frequently the case, the victim was being left forgotten in the background until his mother added her voice to the arguments with which the governor was beset. The mother said she was not vindictive but her boy had been trapped deliberately by the man who had planned to kill him and he did kill him for his own advantage. It was murder for a purpose, done premeditatedly and coolly. The mother asks for justice not only in expiation of what has caused her the greatest sorrow of her life but in order that there should be no slightest possibility that this killer should ever have the chance of doing to other human beings what he had done to the family of his victim.

Justice is on her side and not on the side of the persons whose sensibilities are shocked by the idea that punishment should follow an atrocious crime and that the punishment should be the final and completely deserved one of death.

YOUTH AND THE MIDDLE GROUND.

Ohio State university has a disciplinary issue presented by ten students objecting to compulsory military training. The university trustees appear to wish not to be too severe with the young people and yet are not inclined to let them make their own rules. The boys, it need not be said, are in a high state of moral purpose and are striking a blow for the emancipation of the human race from wars which so perversely overtake it.

The objectors may be only half conscious of the fact that they like the notoriety which their stand for emancipation brings them. To them this is a particular in which the youth can rebel against the follies of their elders and by putting in a veto make a new world out of an old one.

The middle road seldom seems to be a place where enthusiastic youth finds it intelligent or reasonable to travel. Later on the middle ground appears not only more desirable but more attainable and more tenable. The general purpose of the American people has been to take the middle ground in matters of national defense and pursue the reasonable course which would tend to neither excess, neither the excess of dangerous exposure nor of dangerous provocation. Whatever failure there has been to go evenly along this road has been more on the side of dangerous exposure than of dangerous provocation.

Unfortunately, a nation which gets itself the reputation for weakness often animates another nation to programs and enterprises injurious to everybody's peace and security. We have only to remember that German indifference to what were regarded as the negligible possibilities of American military effort was a prime factor in making it impossible for the United States to stay out of a war which it did not want to enter.

Whatever may be the Japanese intentions, it may be accepted as certain that calculations of American military resources will enter into Japanese deliberations. Middle ground would offer no provocations either of a tempting weakness or of an aggressive force.

COMMON CARRIER COMPETITION.

Possibly the most important query addressed to the public by Mr. Eastman in his search for constructive ideas to guide him in framing transportation legislation was, "Should rail, motor, and water transportation enjoy equal opportunity of competition in so far as federal regulation is concerned?"

A perusal of the somewhat voluminous literature on the subject seems to indicate that the popular public reply will be in the affirmative, with frequent suggestions that equality should be developed through the removal of much archaic railway legislation that is proving detrimental to both the public and the carriers. The railways themselves ask that the same stringent regulation as is now applied to their every act shall be extended to highway and waterway carriers. Automotive interests insist that no further regulation of their methods be added to that imposed by their codes, and waterway operators generally demand freedom of action in the matter of port to port rates.

Should not a negative reply be submitted to Mr. Eastman—that these elements of transportation are not naturally competitive and therefore a policy of "equal opportunity of competition" is unsound? The railways are the only common carriers in the list in the broad sense of the phrase. They are the only ones able and willing to accept all traffic delivered them for any destination at any season of the year. They cross mountain ranges, rivers, lakes, and even parts of the Gulf of Mexico, and their box cars are to be found wherever civilization is established. At the seaboard they provide facilities for freight transfer to foreign ports. Without them the country would face starvation.

Trucks and barges do not traverse the length and breadth of the country, nor will they accept a very wide variety of merchandise. Indeed, it is generally economically if not physically impossible for boats to proceed from one waterway to another. Service is limited even within their own spheres. No, Mr. Eastman, the railways form our only transportation system—the other forms are merely adjuncts.

Examine the prospectus of any waterway project issued when appropriations were being sought and you will find that they were invariably to be constructed to offer water transportation to the "great masses of inert raw materials landlocked because it is not economical to move them by rail." Turn to applications for truck certificates and they will disclaim any effort to duplicate sufficient railway service. These instrumentalities have crept into the common carrier picture as a protest against unnecessarily standardized railway practice.

The equality of opportunity lies in delivering the railways from bondage and permitting each to develop its own sphere by virtue of efficiency instead of regulation. There is bound to be a twilight zone between the efficiency of the barge or boat and the railway trainload, as there is between railway merchandise and truck service, but boats in the less than carload service and trucks in carload business are results of standardized rates. Each situation has its idiosyncrasies and should be developed accordingly and not in conformity with any standardized regulatory pattern.

REFUGE IN THE LAND.

Western real estate dealers say that there is still an observable drift of city dwellers to farms. Some time ago, a year or more ago, the figures revealed a movement of considerable proportions. Presumably the new government operations for the relief of urban indigence would check the will of some people to make a new adventure on their own to better themselves, if possible, or to gain a security they could not find by continuing where they were.

The reasons given for the continuing drift to farmlands are interesting. One is the desire to obtain property in the form regarded as most remote from government expropriation and with a value least exposed to currency uncertainties. Some people evidently believe that in the possession of rural real estate they will be furthest from the front both with respect to excessive federal taxation and also manipulation of the dollar. As other property values become more uncertain, farmland gains attractiveness to people seeking the greatest degree of permanency in a world which is shifting under their feet every day. They don't know what they can hold that will have any assurance of safety. They are trying to protect their future and are casting about for the possessions promising the greatest durability, no matter what happens.

There is also the feeling that come what may the family which has a piece of arable land and any knowledge of how to use it can at least hope for shelter, fuel and something to eat. In old economies it was true that the man who had arable land and stock on it had wealth. Many of the possessors today laugh at the idea, but there was a time when a man looked at his fields and his stock with the feeling that he was looking at his bank account.

NRA AMENDMENT.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

It would be a miracle if the national recovery act, hastily evolved and quickly organized, were now found to be perfect in every respect. And such is not the case, as President Roosevelt appears to recognize. He seems to favor certain alterations which are necessary if the program is not to break down. Congress will be expected to make these amendments.

Especially important is the protection of the small business or industry from powerful competition that threatens to drive it to the wall. One of the biggest flaws in the NRA plan has been its insistence that all units of a given industry must operate under identical standards. Obviously the larger plants with greater man power and greater latitude would have the advantage.

Many restrictions which work no real hardship to the large plant or the large business impose intolerable burdens to the smaller unit. In setting up standards the size of plant should come under consideration as well as the classification of industry.

Danger of failure for the NRA, the administration doubtless realizes, lies more in its threat of inflexibility than in the possibility that it may be changed.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE LADS IN THE ARMY and the CCC when they have a corned beef dinner in this year of grace 1934 are going to be given only real American corned beef, according to a pronouncement of Mr. Woodring, the assistant secretary of war. That's all very well, but it's just as important to cook the corned beef right and to have the cabbage nice and dry and not waterlogged as it is to have genuine American corned beef. We hereby call upon the assistant secretary of war to give us his recipe for cooking corned beef. I've got a recipe for a New England boiled dinner, of which the main attraction is corned beef, that is a lulu, and I challenge the assistant secretary of war or the assistant secretary of anything at all in Washington to give a better one.

OLD BRASS BELL.

She smiled upon him as the sun beams upon a stagnant pool, lighting up the dark and dun to a thing both warm and cool, making him a lesser fool than the fool that he had been, staring at her, envy-green.

She smiled upon him very well considering she loved him not.
He was like an old brass bell or an ancient copper pot, perplexed beneath the rusty rot at giving forth great tone at last, being mute the long years past.

WE'RE A PECULIAR LOT, we humans. Ordinarily we express great fondness for café noir, but when we're told that we've got to drink our coffee black because of the milk strike, my goodness, how we roar!

AND THE MOST INDIGNANT PEOPLE in the middle west during the milk war are the ladies who never touched it, anyhow, because they thought it would make 'em fat. Now they scream to heaven that they can't get milk to drink.

"SCIENTISTS FIND BEES Possess 'Shrewd' Minds."—La Trib. Ah, and do they not? Any one who has read Mr. Maeterlinck's "Life of the Bees" (and every one should have read it) will know that the bees are the smart little devils. But neither Maeterlinck nor the scientists in Toronto, who have just concluded a long series of experiments with bees, tell how really smart the little bees actually are. For instance, neither Maeterlinck nor the Toronto scientists found that the bees ever organized into mobs and lay in wait for other little bees returning with nectar from the flowers for honey and fell upon them, took their nectar away from them, and dumped it in the gutter. Nor are there any distributing honey bees who tell the working bees just where they get off at, nor do the bees have any BBC (Busy Bee Code) or NGA (Nectar Gatherers Authority). No, the bees are mighty clever. And it wouldn't be a bad idea right now for us humans to reread Mr. Maeterlinck and see that in lots of ways the little honey bees have us beat a million miles.

AND I'M LOOKING for milkleggers to bob up any time now. If they could imitate twenty year old bourbon and champagne and Highland Scotch so well there's no reason why they couldn't manufacture genuine cow's milk inside of ten or fifteen minutes. They've still got the old bathtub, haven't they?

AND, ANYHOW, with plenty of beer around, the majority of us are not much excited over the milk strike. But if any of the milk pickets begin pouring beer into the gutters there'll be trouble and again we'll sing:

And have they fixed the where and when?
And shall our good beer die?
Here's thirty thousand thirsty men
Will know the reason why.

"IT'S HARD breaking into society," said the fat lady in the fur coat to her friend yesterday on top of the bus. "Is that so?" asked the friend. "I thought all you had to do was to have plenty of money and a shoffer with a uniform on." "That's the way it used to be," said the fat woman in the fur coat, "but not any more. It's different now, but my daughter Angelyna (spell it with a "y," my dear) has got four kidnaping letters and turned 'em over to the police and she hain't made the front page yet."

A SONG OF MIGHTY MEN.

Of lovely women other bards have sung;
I sing of mighty men: old Homer, young,
Who with his lines still batters barriers down;
Cæsar of Rome—a conquered world his crown,
And Alexander, Asia's lord at last,
With Charlemagne, who built a kingdom vast
Of scattered tribes; Napoleon, who strode
The world till Elba gave him meek abode—
The Iron Duke had drawn his valiant sword;
Bismarck, of popes and emperors the lord;
Bold Washington proclaimed a new world's birth—
For men, not kings, he claimed God's growing earth;
And Lincoln, prince of kindness, saw a gleam,
Brought tyrants down, and lifted freedom's dream.
All mighty men, and great—with how much dross.
Another rules His Kingdom from a Cross!

SOME SOURCES OF POISON.

THE rapid development of chemistry and chemical engineering and the increasing application of chemistry to industry has one disadvantage at least. It is exposing the people to new possibilities of being poisoned. The laws are supposed to give us all the protection we need, but experience has shown that the law does not come until several years of exposure have been experienced, and efficient application follows several years later still.

In most instances the protection given by the manufacturer and dealer, the refusal of these gentlemen to make use of improvements and cheaper methods if they were potentially dangerous, has been the best protection available—better than that of the law.

Industry and commerce are now following the century old method of the medical profession for the protection of the public and of themselves—namely, codes. It is hoped that out of the general application of codes improvement of the protection of the public against poisons now used in industry may result.

The American Chemical society calls the attention of the public to the poisonous qualities of sodium nitrite. Two professors at Davidson college report the death of a child caused by swallowing some sodium nitrite found on a junk pile. They killed rabbits by giving them one grain of this substance. Sodium nitrite is used in quantities around cotton mills and dye plants and it is not labeled poison. They say "the facts presented show the use of sodium nitrite as a meat curing agent might be attended with great danger."

Allied chemicals are used in small quantities in bleaching flours.

From California there comes a report of a considerable number of cases of diarrhea and vomiting caused by eating fruits and vegetables that had been sprayed against insects. Fruit and vegetable growing without spraying cannot be made profitable. Practically all insect sprays are poisonous to people. The problem for the grower, the merchant, and the consuming public is to remove all the spray before having the product come to the table. This can be done by the use of proper dips, washes, and solvents, and by washing, peeling, and cleaning.

A good illustration of the danger is supplied by the outbreaks of jake paralysis a few years ago. Chemists discovered a new solvent. There was no evidence that it was poisonous. It was cheap. At least one manufacturer decided to take a chance and use it. The results were disastrous. However, this case differed from others in that he continued to use the poisonous solvent long after the outbreak of jake paralysis had been traced to the use of his product.

BANKRUPTCY.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there any way a person can enter a "pauper's bankruptcy"? 2. If so, how would one go about it? 3. Does an assignment of wages made to a company which has gone into receivership hold good? 6. Does the company have to acknowledge an assignment of wages that is sent in under its former name and not to the receivers for said company? J. M.

1. By filing a pauper affidavit you can have the court costs postponed.
2. Take the matter up with the clerk of the United States District court.
3. You can examine files of similar proceedings in the clerk's office and make up your mind whether you can dispense with the services of an attorney.

5. Yes, in the sense that a purchaser at receiver's sale would be entitled to enforce the agreement.

PAID NO INTEREST.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What can be done about preferred shares in a manufacturing company on which no interest was paid for three years? My mother and father each own $500 worth of preferred stock in this concern. My father is dead and mother would like to have the interest paid, as she needs the money. This stock was purchased from the company in 1917 and 1918. 2. Please advise if the stock can be bought back by the company or sold? 3. What steps should be taken to get the interest? A. C.

1. Your rights depend on the wording of the resolution under which the preferred stock was issued. Ordinarily the wording merely specifies that no dividends shall be paid on the common stock until a specified rate has been paid on the preferred. On such wording you would have no complaint if no dividends have been paid on the common stock.
2. We see no objection to the company's redeeming the stock if you are willing.
3. The first step would be to ascertain the wording under which the stock was issued.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN.—Gold! Bright, gleaming, yellow—setting the hearts of man aflaming! It soon may be the newest industry in the Irish Free State if operations now in progress in County Wicklow prove successful. Workmen are already washing silt in a Wicklow river valley. A quicksilver sluice has been erected and some traces of the precious metal have been found. The venture is being sponsored by Senator M. Comyn, noted Irish lawyer, and Robert Briscoe, T. D., unofficial financial genius of Eamon de Valera's government.

There always has been a tradition that gold existed in the Wicklow hills and records of placer mining go back through the centuries. The famous book of Clon MacNoise contains in its illuminated pages the statement that gold was first discovered in Ireland during the reign of Tighernmas, 26th king of Ireland and the first monarch to possess golden goblets.

It is also matter of historical fact that the Irish employed skillful artificers in gold ornament making. The beautiful Tara brooch, now symbolizing Ireland's ancient civilization, was part of the ordinary dress of the Irish at a time when most of the earth was still barbaric. That such gold ornaments were commonly used in Ireland, although there is no record anywhere of importation of raw gold from abroad, seems a clear indication that the Irish used native gold. And it is a little difficult to understand that such evidence of valuable mineral deposits in Ireland has been passed by for so many years.

In 1796 it is recorded that a gold rush to the Wicklow hills followed the finding of a nugget. In the first six weeks about 800 ounces of gold, mostly dust, but including many nuggets of two and three ounces, one of 22 ounces and another of five ounces, were found. They were sold at about $18 an ounce. The British government exploited the gold bearing streams and took out of them gold worth close on $20,000.

The insurrection of 1798, which centered in Wicklow and Wexford, interrupted the mining operations. No further work was done for three years. Apparently the dust gave out shortly after this, for since then no attempt has been made to promote mining operations.

Since the major part of the gold found has been taken from small tributaries of the Avoca river, it is now thought that alluvial deposits should be available at the point where the river widens out on its course to the sea. It so happens that this point has long been cherished as one of the beauty spots of Ireland, known as the "meeting of the waters."

It is with mixed feelings that the prospect of dredges and of unsightly trappings of a gold mine set in the midst of this natural beauty spot has been received in Ireland. Always a romantic people, it is not at all unlikely that the Irish would prefer the beauty spot to the possibility of mineral wealth. At the same time, however, the promoters of the new venture plan to concentrate on the smaller tributary streams for the present in the hope that placer mining with the quicksilver sluices will pay.

WARD COMMITTEEMEN AS CANDIDATES.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—In theory, ward committeemen represent the party voters in the conduct of party affairs, including selection and promotion of candidates, of platforms, and in the financing of campaigns. They are, in effect, trustees of the party voters for these purposes.

What happens when a ward committeeman promotes himself, and a platform on which he is a candidate, and a fund to elect himself? There is a direct conflict of interest between himself as the ward committeeman and himself as the candidate. He cannot represent the party voters' interests and his own interests at the same time.

The ward committeeman, as such, is the servant or agent of the party voters of the ward in seeing that the party voters' interests are carried out. This involves [1] intelligent, personally detached analysis of the needs of the community to be set forth in a platform; [2] critical, unbiased, and impersonal selection of nominees; [3] promotion and expenditure of a campaign fund that will reflect the party voters' interests in electing the nominees and in establishing the platform; and [4] watching, criticizing, and encouraging, as a liaison between the party voters and the party elected officials, to see that the party voters' interests [which then become the community's interests] are carried out after election day.

The ward committeeman, as a candidate, simply cannot do a decent, responsible job as agent for the party voters. His personal interests are necessarily and inevitably in conflict with his agency or trustee interest at every point. He cannot honestly determine his own platform, his own candidacy, and his own campaign fund and really expect to honestly represent his trust to the party voters at one and the same time. He cannot be both a trustee and a beneficiary, a public servant and a self-auditor, an analyst of community needs and party programs, and a free and intelligent critic of the processes and results which he himself is creating.

This confusion of logical functions, of legal duties, and of moral trusts has happened repeatedly. It exists in many instances now. It is being advocated by various political promotions at this time. It is apparently a result of loose thinking or of no thinking, or of oversight on the part of the party voters. This defense cannot be alleged in aid of many ward committeemen and other party system satellites. Some of them are lawyers; some are said to be "good" lawyers; they certainly cannot defend their crossed wire functions any more than bank officers can justify bank loans to themselves. The same confusions in principle which have wrought havoc in many banks have wrought havoc and are wreaking havoc in local government in Chicago and Cook county today.

THE CANADA CORNERS FLAG RAISING.

Park Ridge, Ill., Jan. 6.—During the year just closed when many TRIBUNE readers were more than usually interested in the work of that paper in heightening and strengthening its tower flag staff the operations created a deal of thrilling comment around a section in the Kane county hills west of St. Charles. Here in the community then known as Canada Corners, now Lily Lake, was erected one of the first and tallest flagpoles planted immediately after Lincoln's first call for defenders of the banner fired on at Fort Sumter.

This staff was of hickory and is said to have been artistically shaved and polished, was 130 feet tall, deeply planted in a rocky foundation. The chief mechanic engaged in the work was Alfred Madison, and another co-worker was Newman Barber, who was in charge of a powerful capstan stoutly staked in prairie soil a hundred feet from the great post hole that had been prepared.

The event took place on a Saturday in June, 1861, in the presence of an immense concourse of loyal northerners and in the face of one of the fiercest windstorms of this windy region of the Fox valley. Black dust, characteristic of the locality, was blown into the faces of the lusty workers of all ages who stuck to their task through the wildest part of the raging gale.

When the tall hickory was safely anchored in its foundations a fine flag that used up sixty yards of bunting sewn by the hands of the women of the region was run up to flap its own applause in the spanking breeze. Then followed a great feast and a wild scramble to enlist.

A few years ago the history of this early war flag raising was written by C. O. Morgan, who had witnessed the ceremony, and who intrusted it into the hands of Mrs. Fern Bell Johnson, Wasco, Ill.

YOUNG WOMEN AT WORK.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Child labor may be relegated to the barbaric past, but exploitation of comparatively young women is everywhere the new evil of present day civilization.

Why do employers use young women as salesgirls of hardware, radio supplies, bottled liquors; as elevator operators; operatives on cigaret and cigar making machines, and as machine hands in factories? Clearly today man and his sons are liabilities and his daughters are assets in the household. The asinine policy of big business to use women whenever possible will doubtless have its effects in lowered moral standards, in increasing divorces, in subsidizing idle people, to say nothing of possible dangers in a massed revolt of the idle against oppression.

PARISIANS RIOT AT CHAMBER IN BOND SCANDAL

Battle Police; Cabinet Fights Overthrow.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Mounted Republican guards, supported by police, for two hours tonight fought off furious Royalist mobs around the chamber of deputies during violent demonstrations against the government over the scandal and tragedy of Serge Alexander Stavisky, founder of the Bayonne municipal pawnshop, which collapsed last week with a possible loss of $61,000,000 to bondholders. All France tonight was in a ferment of excitement.

Time after time horsemen charged the crowds which surged back and forth across the Place de la Concorde and the Boulevard St. Germain in repeated clashes. The mob shouted "Down with the assassins! Down with the thieves!" About 300 persons, some of them women, were arrested.

A student who gave his name as John Klusik, 20, of Uniontown, Pa., was among those arrested. He was one of a handful of those arrested who had not been released late tonight. Klusik was held on a charge of carrying a weapon. He said he was a mere spectator of the riot.

Cabinet Fights for Life.

The demonstration was organized by Royalist party leaders as the chamber of deputies assembled in a routine session to organize its committees in preparation for Thursday's meeting, when the Chautemps cabinet will be on the carpet to explain the dark aspects of the Stavisky scandal.

A parliamentary committee of inquiry to delve into the Stavisky case, it was announced tonight, will be authorized by the government in Thursday's debate.

The cabinet's position tonight, reorganized with a new minister of colonies to replace Albert Dalimier, who resigned yesterday, was said to be stronger following the opportune death of Stavisky at Chamonix early today, but it is not out of the woods yet. People everywhere in France are talking about wholesale reforms being necessary if the republican system of government is to survive. Sober organs, such as the semi-official Temps, tonight said:

"If the political morality does not change soon, it will not be a question of parties in France, but of the republican system of government itself."

Express Doubt as to Suicide.

Paris seethed with commotion during the day, which reached its climax with tonight's rioting before the chamber. Outspoken doubts were voiced about whether Stavisky had met death by his own hand, as the police said he did as they were about to arrest him.

Populaire, organ of the Socialists, on whom Premier Chautemps depends in order to remain in power, said the words, "Don't shoot!" were distinctly heard shouted just before Stavisky was shot. The paper said the police were so anxious to do the job well that Stavisky was left lying wounded on the floor for an hour and a half before he was taken to a hospital.

Opponents of the government tonight are shouting for the arrest of high officials said to be implicated in the scandal. One of those accused is Deputy Bonnaire. One paper, La Liberte, even points an accusing finger at Andre Dubois, private secretary of Premier Chautemps. The Socialists demand the scalp of Prefect of Police Jean Chiappe.

WOMEN IN SOUTH URGE AID OF U. S. TO END LYNCHING

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Aroused by the lynching spirit, a conference of southern white women adopted a resolution today requesting President Roosevelt and their governors and congressmen to work out a cooperative plan between the federal and state governments "in eradicating this evil."

The conference asserted that the state and local authorities and public opinion have failed to bring lynchers to justice.

The resolution also condemned lack of equal educational opportunity for the races, and expressed as the sense of the meeting that the crime of lynching "is a logical result" in a community that arbitrarily segregates a race in unsanitary sections; that exploits and intimidates the weaker element for economic gain and denies an equal voice in control of government "to any fit and proper citizens because of race."

CHICAGO BROKERS SUE KANSAS BANK OVER BOND FORGERY

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 9.—(AP)—As an outgrowth of the Kansas million dollar bogus bond scandal, attorneys for Jackson Brothers, Boesel & Co., former Chicago brokerage firm, filed a civil action in federal district court today to recover $236,895.87 from the National bank at Topeka.

The brokerage firm alleged that from time to time it had received purported bonds from Ronald Finney, bond broker, and alleged principal figure in the bond scandal, who is now under 31 to 635 year penitentiary sentence for forgery, as security for his market transactions.

The firm advanced him $352,761.48, the petition said, but because of the spurious nature of the bonds he now owes $236,895.87.

The National Bank of Topeka, the petition alleged, "knew or should have known" that Finney and his father, W. W. Finney, Emporia banker under sentence for embezzlement "were uttering, selling, pledging and otherwise trafficking in forged, spurious and counterfeit bonds."

SABATH OFFERS BRITTEN SCOTCH IN BOTTLE CASE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—The Britten-Sabath dispute over "who carried the bottle?" was almost ended today—but not quite. Representatives Britten and Sabath of Illinois had an exchange on the house floor a couple of days ago about a bottle of gin Sabath "borrowed" from Britten two years ago.

Sabath said he had not returned it because he didn't want to carry it through the streets until it was legal, and Britten asked "who carried the first bottle?"

Sabath didn't answer, but today, off the house floor, he offered Britten "some good Scotch."

Britten turned it down, saying: "I was only kidding, Adolph, and besides, when people borrow things from me I like to be paid back in kind."

Sabath now is looking for some gin.

REP. FRANK REID QUITS CONGRESS TO PRACTICE LAW

Frank R. Reid of Aurora, congressman representing the 11th Illinois district for the last 11 years, yesterday tendered his resignation as a member of congress and it was accepted. He had previously announced he would not seek reelection in the April primaries, and his action yesterday was said to be due to the fact he is engaged as attorney for Ben Abrams, business agent of the inside dye workers' union, who is now a defendant in the racket trial in the Criminal court. Attornty Reid said he had neglected his law practice because of his membership in congress and now he intends to devote all his time to his law work.

SEIZE MAN WITH PISTOL, KNIFE IN SELFRIDGE HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—A man armed with a pistol and a table knife appeared early today in the smart Carlton House terrace residence of H. Gordon Selfridge, former Chicagoan, now a London merchant.

He had fallen down a light well, according to Selfridge's butler, who, awakened by the crash, found the intruder moaning, "Where am I?" The intruder was badly injured and police have not yet been able to get any information from him.

Selfridge, learning of the intrusion, said: "I can't imagine what he wanted. There is not much in my house that is of value to burglars."

U. S. CAUSED END OF REPARATIONS: FRENCH SENATOR

PARIS, Jan. 9. — (AP) — Senator Damecour, dean of the French senate, blamed the United States for the cessation of German reparations payments today as he made the inaugural address at the opening of the legislative body.

Referring to the Hoover moratorium, he asked why America did not observe its traditional hands off policy in "German payments to the allies."

Discussing French finances, he declared that "confidence has disappeared" and cited the necessity of floating government loans at 5 per cent, double the British and American rates.

LA GUARDIA AND LEHMAN TO MEET TODAY ON FUNDS

Mayor Demands Slash or More Taxes.

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Armed with detailed reports showing a grave condition in the city's finances, Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia will meet Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in Albany at noon tomorrow in an effort to obtain either power to cut the city's expenses or a larger share of state taxes to replenish its empty coffers.

Controller W. Arthur Cunningham reported to the mayor today that the city technically had been in default since last Dec. 14 on about $4,500,000 of its revenue bills due on that date and still unpaid.

Mr. Cunningham said the holders of these securities were pressing for immediate payment. They represent a small fraction of the entire issue, refunded with the consent of the banks, through cash payment of about 14 cents on the dollar and the exchange of new revenue bills due three years hence.

Can't Borrow Any More.

Faced with this condition, the mayor said the city could not borrow any more; that it had no money to satisfy the past due obligations and that the city's bankers were entirely free to terminate at any time the four year financing plan agreed upon several months ago. This agreement provides that the bankers may withdraw as soon as the city defaults on its obligations. The banks, however, have been coöperating with the city in negotiations aimed at the refunding of the $4,500,000 of revenue bills.

At the mayor's request Chairman John H. Delaney of the board of transportation submitted a report showing that the city's subway system could not be completed without the aid of a federal loan. The federal government has promised a loan of $23,000,000, including an outright grant of $6,000,000 for subways, if the city balances its budget by Feb. 1. This offer has played a large part in the mayor's determination to balance the budget, now at $554,000,000, at present exceeding revenue by $40,000,000.

Sees Self Hat in Hand.

"The humble mayor of the City of New York, at the head of a government representing 7,000,000 people, is crawling up with his hat in his hand to the governor to beg him for the right to go to his own legislature for a bill in keeping with the governor's idea of constitutional democracy," the mayor said. "The controller has just been preparing some new figures on city finances and his blotter is all red. There is no danger of a pay roll default, but the controller has other worries today."

The other worries were the city's inability to pay the holders of the $4,500,000 in revenue bills.

The mayor contends that the budget cannot be balanced without reduction of the city pay roll, through furloughs and job eliminations, and this cannot be accomplished without legislative sanction. Salaries of most of the 140,000 city employés are fixed by state legislation.

N. Y. LIQUOR GRAFT QUIZ BRINGS FOUR INDICTMENTS TODAY

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Four indictments, the first to be voted in connection with liquor license graft, were found by the New York county grand jury today and will be handed up tomorrow in General Sessions. No hint was given as to the men named in the indictments.

They were voted after the grand jury heard, among other witnesses, H. V. Neary, secretary of the state alcoholic beverage control board, and Joseph Draponi, a restaurant proprietor.

Draponi was the restaurant proprietor whose complaint led to the arrest of Eric St. John, a Negro filing clerk in the state ABC board's offices, for taking a small sum for delivering Draponi's liquor license by hand instead of sending it through the mail in the ordinary routine way.

A police lieutenant and two detectives were said last week to have been questioned in connection with the alleged Draponi shakedown.

Several other proprietors of licensed liquor stores were among the witnesses today. The indictments are believed to charge acceptance of a gratuity, which is a felony.

START TEST CASE ON JUDGE'S RIGHT TO CUT RED TAPE

High Court to Rule on New Code.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Michael Spans, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Edward Courtney and Ray Brayton, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary; Tony Kulesza, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Harold Watson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge James F. Fardy.

Charles Kelly and William Callopy, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph B. David.

Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court yesterday started a test case on whether a judge has a right to give oral instructions to a jury and comment on the evidence. The case in which two robbers were subsequently convicted will be taken to the Supreme court by agreement of the judge, the state's attorney's office and Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach.

The judge did not go so far as to tell the jury whether or not the evidence in his opinion showed the defendants to be guilty or innocent. However, he cut out all the legal red tape in the instructions and gave what he called a "general summing up of the evidence."

The judge acted under the new court code, which some judges hold does not apply to criminal cases except insofar as it calls for criminal court judges to give written instructions in narrative form.

Charles Kelly and William Callopy were convicted in the case on a charge of robbing Philip Keeler, 30 years old, a private in the 3d field artillery at Fort Sheridan. Keeler had previously complained that on the regular army pay of $17.85 he could not afford to make frequent trips to the Criminal court to prosecute the men who robbed him. The jury disagreed on the case of Oscar Nyquist, the third defendant.

CHARGES WIFE AND MINISTER WITH AFFAIR

Presents Confession in Her Writing.

Oregon, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Otto R. Herzfeldt, blond six foot foreman in a Mount Morris printshop, testified here today that he lent $600 to the Rev. W. Clark Williams, former pastor of a Mount Morris church, then learned from his wife, Ruby, that she had been intimate with the churchman.

Herzfeldt's testimony came during the trial of the divorce suit he filed against his wife, Ruby May, charging adultery. To support his assertions Herzfeldt produced a document in his wife's handwriting which he asserted she wrote last June 11, as a confession of her relationship with the Rev. Williams.

Courtroom Crowded.

He also presented in evidence a letter written to him by his wife on June 22, in which she admitted "spooning" with the minister.

The trial is being held in the Oregon courthouse before Judge Frank Sheehan of Galena, Ill., in a courtroom which is the largest in the 15th judicial circuit. The room today was filled to overflowing with spectators who watched Herzfeldt, his wife, and Mr. Williams, and tittered so much at certain times that the judge finally threatened to clear the room.

The confession which Herzfeldt presented to the court read:

"I am sorry for my sin and confess I was untrue to you as I committed adultery for having intimate relations with W. C. Williams. I will show you I can be a true wife to you and my children. R. M. HERZFELDT."

Eight Mount Morris residents followed Herzfeldt to the stand, all of them telling of occasions upon which Mrs. Herzfeldt and Williams, who now is pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at LaMolle, Ill., were seen together. One of this group, Frank Nally, a carpenter, told of seeing Mrs. Herzfeldt hide behind a lilac bush near his home for ten minutes until Mr. Williams drove up in a car. She jumped in the machine and was driven away, Nally said.

Daughter Attends Trial.

Throughout this testimony, Mrs. Herzfeldt, a slight, dark haired woman of 38 years, sat with her dark coat thrown over her shoulders and her maroon hat pulled down over her eyes. Beside her sat her 19 year old daughter, Opal. Her son, Harlan, 13 years old, was not in court.

The next witness was Mr. Williams, a deep voiced man of 40, with sleek black hair, nattily dressed in a well fitting black suit and a pearl gray waistcoat. His wife accompanied him to court but their six children were left at home.

The minister made a categorical denial of Herzfeldt's charges. He admitted he had purchased a watch and a ring for Mrs. Hertzfeldt in Rockford, but explained that she had given him the money. He denied the lilac bush episode. When cross-examined by Hertzfeldt's lawyer, Frank Kerr, he admitted he had kept the money and charged the jewelry. Part of the bill, he said, is still unpaid.

Mrs. Herzfeldt will be the first witness to take the stand tomorrow.

ALL NEW YORK POLICE TO BE FINGERPRINTED; O'RYAN LEADS THE WAY

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Preparatory to a general order requiring that all members of the police department place their fingerprints on file, Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan, accompanied by First Deputy Commissioner Harold Fowler and Chief Inspector Lewis J. Valentine, went today to the rogues' gallery and had his own prints placed on record.

The commissioner believes most of those in the department will have had their prints taken voluntarily before the order is handed down.

Since 1916 all applicants for police jobs have been fingerprinted, but this file is the property of the civil service commission and is not readily available to headquarters.

In a statement made after the fingerprinting ceremony O'Ryan, who was one of the foremost advocates of wartime fingerprinting, declared that citizens who desire their prints placed on record might arrange this by making written application to the fingerprinting bureau.

$32,500 IS PAID ON INSURANCE OF SCHILDHAUER

When it became known yesterday that three insurance companies had paid $32,500 on the life of Edwin O. Schildhauer, bandmaster of the Austin High school, who was mysteriously murdered more than a year ago, Capt. John Stege declared that he has never ceased his efforts to solve the murder. The delay in paying the money to the widow, Mrs. Frances Schildhauer, was due to his investigation, he said.

Mrs. Schildhauer had filed suit in the Superior court to collect on a major policy of $15,000 that contained a double indemnity clause in the event of death by accident or violence. Yesterday a stipulation was filed before Judge James J. Kelly dismissing this suit and it was reported by Mrs. Schildhauer's attorneys, James M. Burke and George Crane, that the suit was compromised for $27,500. Two additional policies totaling $5,000 brought the payments to the widow to $32,500.

The present residence of the widow was not disclosed. Schildhauer's body was found on a road in Cicero. He was shot through the head. Mrs. Schildhauer said he was kidnaped from in front of their home. No motive for the murder was ever found.

LEAPS OR FALLS TO DEATH INSIDE COURT OF STORE

A. L. Johnson, 66 years old, 1413 Elmdale avenue, fell or leaped from one of the upper floors of the Marshall Field & Co. store yesterday afternoon and landed in the court just inside the Randolph and State street entrance. The body was identified through papers in his pocket. He had been employed in the fur storage department of the department store but voluntarily gave up his position Jan. 5. Miss Alice Johnson, 1362 Greenleaf avenue, a young woman shopper, narrowly missed being struck by the falling body.

CONTINUE QUIZ IN WARSHAWSKY AUTO PLANT FIRE

Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan announced last night, after a day of investigating the fire which started Monday evening in the warehouse and store of the Warshawsky Auto Parts company at 1215 South State street, that he did not believe the fire to have been of incendiary origin. His investigation will continue today, however, he said.

Israel Warshawsky, one of the owners, insisted the fire was accidental. It burned with such rapidity, firemen said, that they were suspicious that gasoline may have been sprinkled about the place.

"I'm in good financial condition and do not stand to profit by the fire," Warshawsky told Mr. Sheehan. "As it is I will lose over $1,000,000, even above the insurance."

Every employe of the place is to be questioned, the fire attorney stated. He said that as the place dealt in second hand automobile parts it was possible some stolen property was in the place and Warshawsky admitted it was possible, as a stolen part might be purchased by an employé without his knowledge. He suggested that the fire attorney examine his books to determine if there was any reason why a fire would be profitable to him.

Shoots Self After Waiting All Night for Burglars

After waiting all night in the hope of trapping burglars who had looted his saloon at 5241 Lexington street of liquor and cigars, George Anderson, 27 years old, accidentally shot himself in the heel of his left foot as he was putting his revolver away yesterday.

FOUR QUALIFY ON JURY IN HACKETT KIDNAP TRIAL

Four jurors were accepted by both sides yesterday in the trial of Gail Swolley and Frank Souder, who are accused of the kidnaping for ransom of James Hackett, Blue Island gambler. They fulfilled the qualification demanded by Assistant State's Attorneys Mal Coghlan and Emmett Moynihan of being willing to inflict the death penalty in a "proper case."

The attorneys spent all day questioning veniremen, Defense Attorneys James M. Burke and T. J. McCormick insisting that those chosen should not have read of the crimes of Souder and Swolley and their leader, Theodore [Handsome Jack] Klutas, who was killed by police last Saturday.

Souder's wife was in court all day during the questioning of men called for jury service. He smiled at her frequently.

Under guard of machine guns and with his limbs heavily shackled, Walter Detrick, suspected member of the Dillinger gang, was returned last night to the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, from which he escaped on Sept. 26. He had been held here since his capture Saturday night in a raid in which police killed Klutas in the hope he would divulge some information about Dillinger.

3 CANADIANS SEE 20 BIRDS BATTLE "SEA MONSTER"

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Three persons, Del Marsh, Victoria pharmacist; his brother, Earl, and J. W. Chilton, a student, today told of having seen a "sea monster" defeated in a battle with a flock of seagulls off Gonzales point Sunday after it had seized and swallowed one of the birds.

"There were about 20 seagulls sitting on the water about 400 yards from shore," Marsh said. "All of a sudden there was a commotion among them and a large head came about three feet out of the water. The seagulls started pecking at it and the serpent grabbed one of them and swallowed it.

"The gulls persisted and the serpent's complexion was suffering so much she had to dive. She came up again and the seagulls followed, so she headed out to sea.

"I should say we watched the serpent for nearly eight minutes. She had a head like a camel. There were coils out of the water. The bumps were smooth and glistened in the sun. I would estimate it was over 30 feet long from the head to the last hump, but we did not see the tail. Its back was not serrated and was a blackish brown in color."

'Flu' Hits 3 High Japanese Officials; 90 Deaths Daily

TOKIO, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Two cabinet members and the commander-in-chief of the Japanese navy's combined fleet today joined War Minister Sadao Araki among those suffering from influenza in an epidemic which newspapers estimate is causing 90 deaths daily. Finance Minister Korekiyo Takahashi, Home Affairs Minister Baron Tatsuo Yamamoto, and Vice Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu were those afflicted.

Mrs. Palmer Again Heads Antiquarians

Art Institute Society Holds Annual Meeting.

BY JUDITH CASS.

At its annual meeting yesterday morning in the Allerton wing of the Art institute the Antiquarian society of the institute reëlected Mrs. Potter Palmer as its president and Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson as its vice president. Mrs. John P. Wilson was chosen secretary and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick was elected treasurer of this distinguished society which since it was started in 1894 has numbered among its membership practically every society woman who has had a deep interest and has worked for the artistic and cultural development of the institute and of the city.

The society was an outgrowth of the Chicago Society of Decorative Arts, which was incorporated on Nov. 13, 1888, but the name was changed to the present one on Nov. 10, six years later, and the society became a part of the Art institute. The names of the women who have served as president in the many years since the society started its function of making gifts to the institute and of sponsoring some of the finest exhibits the institute has had—notably that of the late Mrs. Lewis L. Coburn's collection in the spring of 1932 before Mrs. Coburn's death—are all well known ones in Chicago history and some of them are again represented on the list of officers and directors through younger members of the family.

For instance, Mrs. McCormick's mother-in-law, Mrs. R. Hall McCormick, was the third president of the society, Mrs. J. Young Scammon and Mrs. John N. Jewett having preceded her. After Mrs. McCormick Mrs. Benjamin F. Ayer was president (the mother of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, and Walter Ayer), and then Mrs. Timothy B. Blackstone. Mrs. Watson F. Blair succeeded her and after Mrs. Blair Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson held the office.

Younger Members Carry On Tradition.

Mrs. Palmer Jr., who is the present president, but whose name seldom is written with the junior because Mrs. Palmer Sr. has been dead for a number of years, succeeded Mrs. Ryerson, and then Mrs. Chauncey McCormick became president. But Mrs. Palmer was elected again several years ago and she still holds the office. All of those earlier presidents are gone, in fact; all those who served before Mrs. Ryerson are dead now, but the work of the society still goes on and the tradition of serving and making gifts to the institute is carried on by the younger members.

The directors for the coming year are Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Phillip Miller, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, and Mrs. James Ward Thorne.

The date for the society's annual reception was not set yesterday because there is anticipation of some very choice gifts being received in the near future, and the reception date will be set so that the gifts can be displayed at the same time.

Young Russian on Arts Club Program.

Members of the Arts club and their guests will hear one of the younger and well known Russian composers play some of his own compositions this morning when Alexandre Tcherepnine gives a piano recital, starting at 11:30 o'clock.

M. Tcherepnine, who at 19 was the director of an opera company in Russia and who has composed three piano concertos, two operas and a ballet which was produced by the late Pavlowa in London, comes from an interesting musical family. His father was a well known composer and teacher in St. Petersburg and was the conductor of the Russian Imperial opera in that city for several years.

Young Tcherepnine, who lives in Paris, is on a trip around the world. He and his wife will be given a luncheon after the recital by the president of the club, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed. Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, Mrs. John Clay and Mrs. Pauling Donnelley will be other luncheon hostesses following the recital.

Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter aren't going away until near the end of the month—probably about the 24th—but already going away parties for them are starting. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, who almost always do their entertaining at home and who are a delightful host and hostess, are giving a dinner party for the Carpenters on Friday of this week at their apartment, 1100 Lake Shore drive. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter have taken a villa just outside of Algiers for two months.

Many Box Parties for Opera Tonight.

There will be many socialites in the audience at the Civic Opera house tonight to hear Rosa Raisa re-create her original rôle of the La Scala world première of "Turandot" and numerous dinner parties have been planned to precede the performance.

Let us hope that all the hostesses will be as careful and as insistent upon having their parties in their seats before the curtain goes up as the late Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick used to be, for there is nothing more annoying than to have the first act spoiled for those who arrive on time by late arrivals who talk and laugh as if the performance were not going on.

Some of those who have boxes for tonight are Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, who have taken two main floor boxes; Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield. Mrs. William K. Kenly, Mr. and Mrs. George I. Haight, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings and Mrs. C. Morse Ely, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Arthur Wheeler,

Six Exhibitions Get Attention of Art Critic

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

This is a full week for the art enthusiast. Three exhibitions opened Monday, one yesterday, another opens today, and still a sixth opens tomorrow.

Monday introduced the decorative group of Indian murals which are installed in the Marshall Field galleries on the ninth floor. It also showed us the water colors and drawings of "the ten" Chicago artists, among whom Frances Foy, Jean Crawford Adams, and Emil Armin offer perhaps the most colorful work, installed in the Marshall Field second floor galleries. At the Drake hotel, in the Lord Nelson room, some one hundred photographic studies by Clarence B. Mitchell claim the attention.

Yesterday saw the opening in the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue, of recent portraits by Carol Aus and landscape paintings of the southwest and of the country about Saugatuck, Mich., by Carl Hoerman.

The portraits are most interesting. Many of them are stunning and others exquisitely charming. Carol Aus has established herself so firmly as one of our leading portrait painters that printed appreciation of her work is scarcely necessary. Carl Hoerman, also, has become familiar to a wide audience as a painter of rich landscapes, strong, virile, and decorative.

Today the Carson Pirie Scott galleries are opening a memorial exhibit of paintings by the late Robert Henri, one of the most important of contemporary Americans. A number of brilliant Irish portrait studies are in the group as well as figure paintings from Holland, Spain, and our own southwest. Henri was a forceful painter, vigorous, sincere, and relentless on the trail of good craftsmanship. The exhibit is one of the most brilliant in town this month and should not be missed.

Tomorrow the Junior league is holding its annual art exhibit at the Casino. The hours are from 11 o'clock to 7 o'clock and the only pity is that the one day will conclude the exhibition. There is much talent among the Junior league members and the exhibit bids fair to be amusing and delightful.

Still another exhibit to have opened this week is the one man show of paintings by Fred Biesel in the Chicago Woman's Aid gallery and the last one to which your attention should be called is that of paintings in gouache by V. Hannell in the Robert Breckenridge gallery, 912 North Michigan avenue. It will continue to Jan. 27.

Rogers Park Group.

The Rogers Park Goodwill Service club will have a luncheon and card party at 12:30 today at the Rogers Park hotel, 6805 Sheridan road.

Mrs. Frederic Clay Bartlett Jr. with one of the pictures she will exhibit in the Junior league's annual exhibition of fine arts at the Casino tomorrow. Mrs. Bartlett is one of the league's most talented members and it is pretty certain that the judges, Mrs. Clay Judson (Sylvia Shaw), Ambrose C. Cramer, and David F. Leavitt will find her work deserving of prizes of honorable mention at least. The exhibit is to open at 11 in the morning and to continue until 7 in the evening. At 3 Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer will talk about "A Little Bit of Sweden" after which smorgasbrod and Swedish punch will be served. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Harty, English Conductor, Is Expert Leader

Sir Hamilton Is Guest of Orchestra Here.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One of the important news items about the visit of Sir Hamilton Harty as guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra is that he is not limiting himself to a single appearance. In the time consumed by one concert program yesterday afternoon he disclosed himself as a fine musician, an expert conductor, a talented composer, a fiery interpreter, and a courteous gentleman. Wherefore it is good news that he will appear again tomorrow night and Friday afternoon, though these times with a different program.

Broad shouldered and athletic of appearance, Sir Hamilton has a vigor of manner that entirely belies his crown of whitening hair. The beat of his right arm is photographically clear to orchestra and audience alike, there is enlivening, expressive power in his left hand, his face, his very stance.

And when it was all over, when he had finished a brilliant program and created a personal success such as few conductors ever attain and he was found in his dressing room, a little wilted from his exertions but still vigorous, all he wanted to say was that while he had expected to find just such fine players as are in the Chicago Symphony orchestra, he had been fairly overwhelmed by their charming manners and gracious courtesies extended him.

All of which, one imagines—and, for that matter, confirms by later inquiry—is entirely a measure of the manners and courtesies extended by him to the orchestra.

Sir Hamilton was not only the inspiriting interpreter of the program, he was likewise responsible for part of its music. He is the composer of one new number and the transcriber of another. His own work is called "With the Wild Geese," telling in tone the story of the Irish exiles in France who suffered great losses in the battle of Fontenoy in 1745, and whose dead flew home to Ireland in the night from the field.

He has a pronounced gift for melody, in this case melody with a fine Irish folk flavor, and he knows well how to write for orchestra. His work is less concerned with sorrowing over the death of the exiles than with their reckless gayety in life, their dreams, their exploits. The piece moves, it exults, it has color, and it develops into a grand climax.

His transcription was of Handel, in whose music he is greatly interested. Well he may be, for there is much great music in Handel covered up by outmoded orchestration, and rewarding the uncovering. This work is a concerto in D for orchestra and organ, and it deserves to stand alongside of the "Water Music," Sir Hamilton's earlier transcription.

Elsewhere on the program was the Schubert Tenth Symphony and the Theme and Variations from Tschaikowsky's Third Suite, two works responding wonderfully well to Sir Hamilton's emphatic but always logical and melodious manner of interpretation.

Gounod's "Faust" was added to the Chicago Grand Opera company's repertoire at the Civic Opera house last night. Here Dimitri Onofrei appeared in the name part, Edith Mason as Marguerite, and Chase Baromeo as Mephistopheles, with Henry Weber on the conductor's stand.

It is a privilege to listen to this unfailingly tuneful old opera when the rôles are sung by such experts as sang them last night. This was Mr. Baromeo's first Chicago appearance as Mephistopheles, and he promptly proved his right to sing alongside of Miss Mason and Mr. Onofrei, both of whom have proved many times their triple starred excellence in the opera. And, as with them, Mr. Baromeo's performance became more than a mere singing one, beautifully as the singing was done. It was an impersonation full of vitality and interest, and crackling with enthusiasm.

The evening became a succession of high spots interrupted here and there by hearty applause, for Mr. Baromeo's "Calf of Gold" in one place, for Mr. Onofrei's lyric Cavatina in another, for Miss Mason's delightfully light, finished Jewel song in still another.

The first Chicago performance of Puccini's "Turandot" is bulletined for tonight.

Front Views and Profiles

ONE of the best costumes at the recent Opera ball was Ben Fairbank's Emperor Jones outfit. Mr. Fairbank looked so much like Lawrence Tibbett's Emperor Jones, from his resplendent uniform to his woolly black wig, that it created much comment. The taxi driver he picked up after the ball, however, missed the fine points of the representation and saw only the black face and kinky hair. At least when Mr. Fairbank gave the address the driver asked wearily:

"Front door or back?"

Good Morning!

Worse pictures than "Good-by Love" MAY emerge from Hollywood this year—but I choose to be an optimist and believe it isn't possible.

When a so-called comedy is so constituted that even Charlie Ruggles can't wangle a laugh, it's not worth a paragraph—and here I've given it two.

Tulip Quilt Is Well Adapted to Any Guest Room

Tulip.

BY NANCY CABOT.

All quilt historians proclaim the floral patterns conducive to great expression of individuality. An enterprising young woman designed this Tulip quilt block and made it of light orange and two shades of green, with narrow bands of green separating the blocks. The colors combine beautifully and they are exceptionally attractive for one's guestroom.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service office, One South Dearborn street.

Cut Foundation Garments for Backless Style

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Reckless and revealing backless evening, dinner and dance dresses have caused a lot of extra slicing . . . perfectly good all-togethers have been frantically cut and slashed at the last moment when the dismayed dress collector discovered the pale pink satin of another otherwise well designed corset or corselette spoiling the extremely low decolletage of a new evening creation.

At last the foundation garment designers have rushed to the rescue with some low cut affairs that will obligingly disappear and stay under the lowest of waistline. You can buy them for the slim silhouette made of a new crêpe lastex that is fully guaranteed to stay where you anchor it. For a more curved figure there is a beauty of silk elastic that will hold the most difficult of curves in place. The plump full figure can use a flesh colored batiste made with snug fitted elastic controlled side areas and cut deep below the waistline in back.

There is a copy of a new evening brassiere that is the cleverest trifle anybody ever invented . . . the half is of flesh net and the back straps and fastening are of silver-gold lame. This evening brassiere fastens with a small tailored bow in the back . . . you can wear it with any back revealing evening gown with great success. They will be perfect with a black and lame evening gown or, for that matter, any colored gown that is combined with a lame trim. A famous French coutourier designed the originals to wear with the more daring of backless 1934 models.

Chicago Boys' Clubs to Hold Jamboree Next Friday Night

Chicago's congested districts and the Gold Coast are going to meet in a jamboree Friday night, when representatives of the 11,000 members of the Chicago Boys' club, a philanthropic organization aiding underprivileged boys, stage a program of wrestling, tumbling, acrobatics, music, art, and debate at the Chicago Athletic club, 12 South Michigan avenue.

The four branches of the club are at 1725 Orchard street, 6405 South Hermitage avenue, 2801 South Ridgeway avenue, and 1300 Newberry avenue. Phil Baker, comedian, will be there and opera stars will drop in for the show.

On the program will be the champion boys' club band of the United States, attached to club No. 5, directed by 4 year old Joseph Grill Jr. Eight year old Donald Murys, wizard saxophonist, will play.

Headquarters of the Chicago Boys' club, are at 120 South La Salle street. In spite of financial difficulties due to the depression during the last year the clubs have had the largest increase in membership and activities of any year in the 30 years since its founding. Buildings have been renovated, leisure time activities have been expanded, more volunteers enlisted for leadership, and hundreds of boys taken to camp. W. H. Regnery is president of the clubs, David B. Gann is chairman of the executive committee, and John H. Witter is general superintendent.

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS.

Bruce Pomeroy, brought up in poverty, befriended a Russian, Boris Orleneff. In return Orleneff, before his death, left Pomeroy an invention, which is about to make Pomeroy a millionaire. Orleneff stipulated that his brother's family, whom he considered parasites, were not to get a cent from the invention. While walking through New York's Central park one winter's morning Pomeroy is kidnaped and taken to a small island off the coast of Maine, where he is made a prisoner in a luxurious home, but kept on a starvation diet. His captor is Boris Orleneff, nephew of the inventor. Boris' cousins, Cyril and Olga Norikoff, assisted in the abduction. They want Pomeroy to make a settlement. He refuses. Pomeroy is allowed to join the family circle. He manages to elude his guard. Grateful, but a raging storm makes escape impossible. Olga Norikoff tells Pomeroy they are all starving. That the house was lent to them for the winter. Boris and Cyril hadn't been able to get work. Pomeroy arranges though Grateful to get food supplies from Andy Mason the caretaker. He has fallen in love with Irma Orleneff, Boris' sister. Cyril's mother dies and his father commits suicide. Cyril had left before the tragedy in a leaky boat to get help from the mainland. Meanwhile, in New York, Herbert Schuyler, a witness to Pomeroy's abduction comes forward. He traces the license number of the car that was used. It is owned by two brothers in Maine, of good reputation. Schuyler goes to Maine to see them. Pomeroy has put up a signal of distress on the island, which has been sighted. Schuyler and the Bradleys sail to the rescue.

INSTALLMENT XLV.

SHARED TROUBLES.

Boris ignored Pomeroy's appeal.

"Do you remember what Cyril said the first time we talked to you? God, was it only Tuesday morning? He said if there was a price to pay he would pay it, and he has—by God he has! He has paid and he's out of it. I've got to live on—and go crazy with the memory of it. Or have I got to live on?"

He stopped as if waiting for an answer to the question.

"Of course you have. You'll be right as rain in a day or two. Come along."

Pomeroy caught his arm and drew him forward.

He was seriously disturbed.

Boris broke in quickly on his thoughts, as if desperately changing the subject.

"What about Irma? Anything new there? She hasn't mentioned the matter to me."

"I haven't seen her since yesterday. But she's turning the idea over in her mind—under everything else that's on it. She'll take me in the end."

"Perhaps so."

"She's sure to," the optimist predicted. "I'll stick till she does."

Talk was too difficult, especially talk like this. Both men lapsed into silence. Boris had already forgotten his promise to show the other the island and Pomeroy was glad he had. It was no day for sightseeing, though indeed the storm was a superb spectacle in itself.

They reached the desolate shore and stared out to sea, bracing their feet and clinging to their caps. For a long time they remained there, peering through the whirling curtain that veiled the boiling water. Mountainous breakers crashed on the lonely shore and rolled toward them, spent but hungry. At last Boris drew a quick breath and turned to his silent companion.

"All right," he said, "I can go back now. I'll tell my mother about the new prospects. They ought to brace her up a bit." He added bitterly: "It's a damned long time since we've had any prospects."

"You might add that we'll take her to the best eye surgeon in New York and have her eyes operated on immediately, if they're ready for it."

Orleneff was silent again. Later he said huskily: "That will be great."

He started back to the house as he spoke and Pomeroy kept close to him. Both were now aided by the wind, which was blowing straight from the sea. Bruce told himself Orleneff was justified in his claim that the recent experiences had taught him something. At that, Orleneff had nothing on him. He, too, had learned—much about love, much about courage, something about tolerance. He had also learned to understand something of the nature of this broken male butterfly at his side.

They found Irma alone in the library. Grateful had started the roaring fire of Pomeroy's dreams, and Irma sat before it, red rimmed eyes on the flames, hands folded idly in her lap.

"Mother is asleep," she told them. "It's the sleep of sheer exhaustion. She hasn't had any for two nights."

Boris looked at her, looked around the room, drifted over to the piano, and stood looking down at the expectant keys.

"Play something, dear," Irma suggested. "Play some Bach." She murmured to Pomeroy: "He always goes to the piano when he's in trouble."

But Boris shook his head. For a long time he continued to stand before the instrument, looking down at it. Irma watched him anxiously, and Bruce watched her. He knew that for the moment he did not exist in her world. Boris drifted to the window, looked out for a moment, drifted into the hall, drifted back into the room again, and finally returned to the piano. This time he sat down before it, and in the next moment the room was filled with the exquisite refrain of the Twelfth Chopin Nocturne.

"He's playing it as it should be played," Irma murmured, and added contentedly: "He'll be all right now."

Bruce drew his chair closer to her.

"Have you thought of me since yesterday?" he asked.

She nodded.

"How could I help it. We're all leaning on you, and you're as firm as the Rock of Gibraltar. If you hadn't been here when this happened——" she stopped, and for a black moment looked with dilated eyes into the abyss that opened before them at her words. "I think mother and Boris and I would have gone mad," she ended quietly.

"No, you would all have carried it through. But I want you to remember that your troubles are over—except those love and money can't cure. There will be some of that kind, of course—but we'll bear them together."

"How sure you are," she said thoughtfully.

"I have to be sure. I've set my heart and my whole future on you, Irma. If I'm not going to have you, nothing else will be worth while. But I can't believe that my life is going to end before it has really begun."

"No," she said very gently. "You mustn't believe that."

"I'm not going to worry you about it today. I have all the time there is."

He told her of his offer to Boris and of Boris' acceptance of it, as well as of her brother's consent to an immediate operation on her mother's eyes. Her eyes filled and overflowed.

"But what about you?" she said, when she could speak. "Are you going to get into some difficulties over all this? And how about your promise?"

"I've already solved that question. A bad promise is better broken than kept. And can you believe for a moment that your uncle would want me to leave his family in this pit?"

"No," she agreed. "I feel sure he wouldn't."

"So do I. But what I've got to do, of course, is to put my help in some form your uncle would approve. Your brother must learn to work, and like it. I'll never make him a living allowance unless he becomes incapacitated in some way. That's what your uncle was really driving at, you see. That's the thing that was closest to his heart, next to his clip—to make a man of Boris. Boris is stirred up now, and turned in the right direction. But he could easily slip back into the parasite class. I simply won't let that happen. He has got to work, and work well, for every dollar he spends. I've been thinking a whole lot about what big memorial I could establish for your uncle. Now I know what it's going to be. If it's the last I ever do I'll make a self-supporting man of your brother. And I have no illusion about the size of the job," he ended with a sigh. "Believe me, Irma, it will take some doing!"

"You are wonderful," she said. "I can't help feeling some way that Uncle Boris sent you to us."

Pomeroy grinned irrepressibly.

"Perhaps he thought I needed a jolt, too. If he did, Irma," he added sobering, "I certainly got it."

He repeated her name every time he could drag it in. It brought them closer, and now she took it quite naturally, and added an incredible response.

"Bruce, I ought to marry you right away," she said in a very low voice. "But give me all the time you can."

Dish-washing Mate Needs Extra Training

BY DORIS BLAKE.

They've been married four months and the Big Argument on, is whether husband shouldn't help wash the dishes. He'll help, unwillingly, sometimes, when company is not there, but if any one comes in, he'll not lift a hand. She goes to business, too, turns in half her money, as does he, for the upkeep of the home. The dishwashing job is all she asks of the husband, she being willing to do all the rest of the housework.

And that's one of those domestic situations about which there will ever be differing opinions. Why men think a dishrag in the hand the badge of a henpecked male, is just one of those things. And, if that's the way they think, you can't change them, and there's no earthly use of making an issue of the dishwashing. Give the gentleman a pickaxe, or a shovel, or a plumber's tool, and let him tinker around and look busy, if the injustice of having him read while you wash dishes besets you heavily.

Many of our authorities on family relations see the wisdom of training boys to give a hand at dishwashing time, and at other work heretofore believed to be woman's. And, with the changed status of woman as a breadwinner and contributor to the financial end of the union, the reasoning is sane. A fair division of labor is just as desirable as a fair division of finances. However, we feel that it is going to take a powerful lot of education to get men into a receptive frame of mind. Nor, personally, do we relish the sight of a hearty male waving a dishcloth, indicating that we are not really astride of the new idea in male education.

Mrs. James H. Douglas, the Howard Linns, Mrs. George J. Jaeger, Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Herbst, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mayor and Mrs. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, and the Robert Ringlings.

Parties Sunday for Shepard Vogelgesang.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and "Janet Jr." are inviting a few people to supper Sunday night as a welcome home to Shepard Vogelgesang, who was called home from the orient to resume his work as an architect and color expert with A Century of Progress. Mrs. Edmond Raftery and her son, Howard, are giving a luncheon for Mr. Vogelgesang Sunday in Geneva.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith Sims sent out cards yesterday for an "at home" from 5 until 8 o'clock Sunday. The Sims apartment its at 70 Cedar street.

Dr. and Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell have invited some of their friends to drop in at their apartment at 190 East Chestnut street Saturday afternoon for cocktails and to see the new mural they have hanging over the mantelpiece in their living room. It is a stunning thing, in water colors, and is the work of Mrs. Helen Walker Szukalska.

Marguerite Foster Bride on Jan. 27.

Pleasantly informal invitations were issued yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. George Beers Foster for the wedding reception of their daughter, Miss Marguerite Foster and Leopold Stanton Fetcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Fetcher, at 5 o'clock the afternoon of Jan. 27, at the Fosters' near north side apartment, 1362 Astor street. The ceremony to be read at 4:30 o'clock by the family's old and beloved friend, Dr. Norman Hutton, former rector of St. Chrysostom's church, will be attended only by the immediate families. More than a hundred friends have been asked to the reception, the invitations for which were written in long hand by Mrs. Foster.

Miss Foster set her wedding date to coincide with the visit here of Dr. Hutton who is now serving St. Andrew's parish in Wellesley, Mass. He is coming west to take part in the ceremonies that will mark the 40th birthday of St. Chrysostom's.

Miss Foster is to have her sub-deb sister, Miss Geraldine Foster, for her only wedding attendant. Mr. Fetcher will be served by his brother, Stanton Fetcher, as best man.

Luncheon For C. B. Mitchell.

Many of those who have seen Clarence B. Mitchell's pictorial studies on exhibit in the Lord Nelson room at the Drake hotel are interested in hearing him talk about them at the luncheon the Association of Arts and Industries is having for him and Mrs. Mitchell at 12:30 today in the Drake lantern room.

William Nelson Pelouze, president of the association, will introduce Mr. Mitchell. Others who are to have places at the speakers' table include Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Ernst S. Detterer, Mrs. George B. Woodruff, James L. Donnelley, George Henry High, Alfonzo Iannelli, the mural painter; Thomas C. Dennehy Jr., Victor R. Haveman, Miss Elizabeth Browning, Lorado Taft, and Mrs. Irene Sidley.

Christ Church Guild Will Meet Today.

Mrs. Norman MacLeish will read some of the poetry of her brother-in-law, Archibald MacLeish, at the annual meeting of the Christ Church guild and auxiliary at 10 o'clock this morning in the parish house. During the program the guild members will sew. At a short business session the annual reports will be given and new officers elected. Mrs. Hobart Young is chairman of the nominating committee, assisted by Mrs. Ernest Ballard and Mrs. John N. Vander Vries.

For the first time in four years Mrs. MacLeish's mother, Mrs. Joseph B. McCall, is coming from Philadelphia to visit at the MacLeish home in Glencoe. Mrs. MacLeish is expected the middle of February.

Suede jerkins, heavy boots, and breeches packed in their suitcases, the Lester Armours and the James C. Hutchinses are leaving today for several weeks at the Noxubee club in Mississippi to hunt quail.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour are leaving Chicago for the same destination. Mr. and Mrs. Armour are taking Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews along as their guests.

Louis Manierre, president of the Noxubee club, returned yesterday from a week of hunting and reported "excellent weather and grand shooting." Mrs. Manierre meantime has been having a holiday in Aiken. She is expected home today.

John E. Hughes to Hunt Big Game.

Several weeks of hunting big game in Africa is the thrilling adventure that lies ahead of John E. Hughes. On Sunday evening Mr. Hughes sailed on the Europa for England from where he will go by plane to Nairobi, Africa. Mr. Hughes' trip is to continue on around the world through India and the orient. He will return to this country the beginning of May.

Olean, N. Y., is the present address of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Welbourne III. The former Kathryn Evans and her young husband went east a day or two ago because Mr. Welbourne's business transferred him to an eastern office.

They had been living with Mrs. Welbourne's mother, Mrs. Thomas E. Evans, since their marriage last July, and now that the young people have gone away Mrs. Evans is closing her Lake Shore drive apartment in order to motor south with her sister, Mrs. Matthew P. McCulloch of Wausau, Wis. Mr. McCulloch and Miss Ruth McCulloch are going south also, and they will all have a house in Miami Beach for the next two or three months. Mrs. Evans and the McCullochs are leaving in two weeks.

Home's Fortieth Anniversary

The fortieth anniversary of the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial was celebrated last night at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. The celebration honored the founder of what was known in 1893 as the Woman's Model Lodging House association on Ewing street near Hull house.

Dr. Stevenson, a prominent Chicago woman physician, and at the time president of the Chicago Woman's club, noted that many women at the close of the Columbian Exposition in 1893 were destitute. It was through her efforts that money was subscribed from various clubs to build the refuge which has grown into the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial building at 2412 Prairie avenue.

Among those at the anniversary dinner were Miss Jane Addams of Hull house, who spoke on her observations of the "Early Days" when she was a contemporary of Dr. Stevenson, and Miss Harriet E. Vittum of the Northwestern University settlement, who discussed her conception of Dr. Stevenson's vision which made the woman's shelter possible.

Daytime Dress Is Adapted to Young or Mature Figure

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Isn't this a lovely all-day dress? It is smart for young women and will also have a slenderizing effect on the woman with an average full figure. The neckline is particularly charming, with its tied bow. Plain or printed silk crêpe, wool crêpe, and crêpe marocain are suggestions.

The pattern, No. 3299, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

A Prospective Mother Needs Medical Care

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Here are the suggestions made to women by the New York Academy of Medicine in its report on the causes of maternal mortality:

The prospective mother must have impressed upon her the importance of pre-natal care. She must be made to realize the following things:

(a) That it is essential to obtain care just as soon as she thinks she is pregnant.

(b) That it is vitally important that she return regularly to her doctor or maternity center for observation.

(c) That she should understand the need of a thorough physical examination, of blood pressure determination, of urinalysis, and measurement of her pelvis.

(d) She must be made to realize that symptoms which seem mild should be treated as a prevention of later trouble.

And—here we quote word for word—"The medical profession is obligated to inform the lay public that operative delivery undertaken merely to alleviate pain or shorten labor involves increased risk for both mother and baby." The italics are mine. The report goes on to state that there is too much operative interference where it is not necessary.

"The relative delivery of safety at home should be emphasized. Effort should be made to induce women who cannot obtain adequate medical or hospital care to avail themselves of the services of qualified midwives under the supervision of physicians." Qualified midwives means licensed midwives.

We have two leaflets of interest to the prospective mother. One contains excellent reading references, and the other, advice on medical and nursing care for those residing in New York and Chicago. Both will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

No more CAKE TROUBLE!

Cake-making is not wizardry—just common sense dashed with a bit of science, says Mary Meade's preface to her new 64-page book, "Baking the Perfect Cake." Its recipes and simple, easy-to-follow instructions reveal successful methods for making more than three dozen different kinds of cakes. Price, 20c; by mail, 23c. BY MARY MEADE.

One of life's minor tragedies: A shiny waffle iron perched upon the top shelf where its beauty is hidden. Perhaps it comes down once a month to do a little work, sometimes not that often.

But let's not confine such a useful article to baking waffles alone. There are so many, many more foods to which it may impart a crusty deliciousness. Here are several:

BAKING POWDER BISCUITS.
(Baked in a Waffle Iron.)
2 cups bread flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
½ cup water
½ cup evaporated milk

Sift the dry ingredients together. Cut the shortening into the dry ingredients and add liquids to make a soft dough. Pour a spoonful on each section of a pre-heated waffle iron. Serve hot with butter and honey.

BUTTERSCOTCH REFRIGERATOR COOKIES
(Baked in a Waffle Iron.)
2 cups brown sugar
1½ cups shortening
3 eggs
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup chopped almonds
5 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
Pinch of salt

Cream together the shortening and sugar. Add the well beaten eggs and the flour, cinnamon, soda, and salt, which have been sifted together. Combine with the almonds, form into rolls, wrap in waxed paper, and let stand overnight in the refrigerator. Cut the cookies one-quarter inch thick and bake on a pre-heated waffle iron until brown.

BACON CORN BREAD.
(Baked in a Waffle Iron.)
1½ cups corn meal
¾ cup bread flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chopped bacon
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup water and
¾ cup evaporated milk to which
4 teaspoons vinegar has been added
2 eggs
½ teaspoon soda
2 tablespoons bacon fat

Fry the bacon crisp and chop. Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Combine with bacon, liquids, and fat. Pour one-third cup on the preheated waffle iron and bake three minutes

Paris Peps Up Wool Frocks with Bright Lame Bibs

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—All is not gold that glitters around the neck of the smart midwinter frock in Paris—often it's silver. Gold, or silver, the favorite bright touch applied to sober woolen dresses is in metal cloth—lamé. If you have a dress that is slightly stale, put it on the gold or silver standard by adding a collar, fichu, or bib of lamé, and give it a new start. Your lamé may have the alloy of silk, or even wool in it, and when you put it on a practical dress this alloy is better than the pure metal cloth.

For a dressy frock you use your silver pure or your gold without baser threads. The novel tie-on arrangement at the top of our sketch is appropriate for this kind of dress. It is made of silver cloth and is easy to do. A narrow band of the silver lamé is tied closely around the neck with rabbit ear ends at the back. Sewed to this in front are two rather wide, bias-cut bands of the silver lamé. They are gathered at the lower edge of the neck band and sewed together on the inside part way down, then pulled around to the right and left of the waistline, crossed in back and brought back and tied in front with rabbit ear ends.

In the middle is a small kerchief bib of gold lamé that is easy to adjust to the neckline of any simple frock. It's a half-hanky. The lower sketch shows a silver cloth collar, cut square, with a silver scarf draped around the neck, also easy to add to any simple daytime dress.

Chevalier Back in U. S. to Make Another Movie

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Maurice Chevalier, arriving from Europe today, said he preferred "picture to picture" instead of making a long term contract. Under long contracts, he said, he was forced to appear in several pictures in which he was "not quite happy." After completing a movie in this country, Chevalier will go to England to make a picture.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE SKELETON IN THE CLOSET.

"Go on," said Prof. Fordney to Charles Winslow. "It's too bad, though, that in your difficulty you didn't seek professional help."

"Well, I'll tell you why," Winslow replied. "Practically every family has a skeleton or two in its closet and mine is no exception.

"The first blackmailing letter received, signed only by 'Knows All,' I paid no attention to, but when 'Knows All' sent the third letter demanding I meet him at a designated spot on the heath at 2 o'clock yesterday with £1,000, I arranged to do so. He stated that was his price of silence concerning information regarding my niece. Rather than have her name sullied, rightfully or wrongfully, I was willing to pay and until I definitely learned his information was true I did not want to call in the police.

"I was at the appointed place 20 minutes before time and, finding a large bush not 25 feet away, I hid behind it. Before I saw the man I saw his shadow directed toward the sun, then, parting the leaves, I saw him. His back was turned, however, so I didn't see his face. He must have heard me or been aware of my presence because suddenly turning and pulling a gun from his pocket he cried: 'Come out of there or I'll shoot' and as I reached for my own pistol he fired. Then I jumped from behind the bush and shot at him. My aim was good as he fell to the ground and in a few minutes was dead."

WHY DID PROF. FORDNEY TELL WINSLOW HE KNEW HE WAS LYING?

Amazing Report of Chicago Man Brings New Hope of Relief to Thousands of Stomach Sufferers

Charles F. Blaine

"I HAVE suffered with stomach distress for the past twenty-five years," says Mr. Charles F. Blaine of 901 N. State St., Chicago. "I got so I could not even hold milk or water on my stomach. I have taken every patent medicine that I ever heard of. I have spent thousands of dollars in the past twenty-five years and have had a great many x-ray pictures taken.

"I had just about given up hope of getting relief, when a good friend of mine sent me some of Willard's Tablets. After using four tablets I began to eat and sleep like I had never done in years. I have been using Willard's Tablets now for three weeks and I have gained eleven pounds and feel like a new man.

"I will be pleased to write letters to anyone and tell them what they have done for me. I want to thank the makers of Willard's Tablets for the first happy days I have had in twenty-five years."

June Brewster Gets Proposal; It Is the 137th

New York Broker Discloses the Count in Wire.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—June Brewster received a telegram from her New York broker-admirer last week. It read: "For the 137th time, will you marry me?" She says the chief reason she doesn't is that his family will think she is after his money. "As a boy friend he's splendid."

William Woodruff Jr. is the wealthy broker who sends her telegrams and phones her marriage proposals from the east.

Merian Cooper, production executive at Radio-RKO studio, is back in Hollywood after an extended illness, with his bride of a year, Dorothy Jordan, actress. Cooper is shortly to withdraw as production executive in chief in order to take personal charge of the Whitney All-Color Films that are to be made at Radio. He says: "Radio studio has eliminated class B motion pictures, meaning indifferent or cheaply done ones; there have been too many of these anyway. What we are making now cost more, but the people deserve them. We are after catchy titles featuring nationally known stars, with meritorious plot and story."

The Coopers expect a child in the spring.

Irene Franklin gets a wedding ring every year from her husband, Jerry Jarnigan. She now has eight of them.

The next Wheeler-Woolsey comedy will be called "Fratheads," and will feature the comics as two carnival men arriving in a college town where they are mistaken for receivers for the college.

Helen Twelvetrees got her big rôle in Fox's "All Men Are Enemies," with Mona Barrie of Australia and Hugh Williams of England, in unusual fashion. Al Rockett, producer, who is Miss Twelvetrees' friend, wanted some one with a stylish diction to "throw" lines to Williams, late over from London, with high traces of British accent.

He asked Helen, as a favor, to "feed" Williams in a screen test. Only the back of Helen's head showed, but her voice in the little that she had to say so impressed the studio they ordered more tests, with Helen's face showing, and signed her.

Funny thing, Miss Twelvetrees was first imported to Hollywood from New York by Fox in the silent days, but at that time the studio allowed her contract to die and it remained for the actress to make her hit at Radio.

Joan Marsh has lost so many pounds—going down from 128 to 97—that she wasn't recognized when she showed up at Paramount after more than a year off the screen, to assume her new contract. Dieting did it, and it made her nervous, but the Marsh girl is a blonde, vivacious, in her new silhouette, and proved what the studio needed for a lead in "Murder at the Vanities" with the European importation, Carl Brisson.

Ex-Princess Elizabeth of Greece Is Bride of German Nobleman

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—Royalty assembled near Munich today for the wedding of former Princess Elizabeth of Greece, daughter of former Prince Nidholas of Greece, with Count Theodore Toerring, nephew of Belgian Queen Elizabeth and descendant of one of the oldest German families whose records go back to 1158.

The wedding was celebrated at the ancestral castle of Seefeld on the Pilsen See. The guests included King Carol of Rumania, former King George of Greece, former Crown Princess Cecile of Germany, Crown Prince Umberto and Crown Princess Marie-José of Italy, Prince Paul of Jugo-Slavia and his wife, and all their retinues.

The Nazi governor of Bavaria, Gen. Franz Ritter von Epp, called formally on former King George of Greece.

Cleanliness, Good Care, Guarantee a Fine Complexion

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There's no question but that you young girls would like to hear about what rouges to wear, or what color lipsticks, than to be asked to listen to a talk on complexion blemishes. But blackheads and small and large skin eruptions continue on as a condition of youth that causes unhappiness and embarrassment. So, they have to be talked about.

I think if young girls in the 'teens realize what blackheads and the subsequent pimples come from careless habits, if not downright dirty ones, they'd not be party to their accumulation. I don't mean that they are always due to uncleanliness—but in easily ninety per cent of cases, it's careless washing or not frequent enough washing and unclean intestines.

I heard of a young miss the other day, fifteen, who tells her school companions they should not use water to wash the face. She doesn't. Her mother doesn't, either. Well, the mother may have that extremely fine skin that is best cared for with cream for cleansing, or oils. But even though the girl's were fine, her complexion will be better for a once a day soap and water wash. At her age, or anywhere in the 'teens, a good soap and water cleansing is better than the best cream or cleansing oil.

But it's more what the young girl eats that I would speak of today in connection with her complexion. This is the age when sweets are gobbled and vegetables at table are ignored. When milk is spurned as baby food and orange juice is looked upon as medicine. Yet, I cannot argue anything better for the young skin than milk and orange juice and fruits and vegetables. And lots of water drinking in between meals.

Up to ten or thereabout the water drinking need is answered fairly well. Then there comes a period when girls are actually too lazy to get a glass of water or they think they're too busy or something. Anyway, they do not get enough liquid into their systems to keep the intestines clean. The regular morning evacuation habit mother insisted on when you were younger is needed now more than ever for a clear complexion.

JAPAN TELLS WHY HENRY PU-YI IS TO BE EMPEROR

Sees Act as Guaranteeing Manchukuo's Sovereignty

TOKIO, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The coronation on March 1 of young Henry Pu-Yi as emperor of Manchukuo was described today as a move to emphasize the separation of that Japanese sponsored state from China, of which it was a part until the Nipponese occupation two years ago.

Reports circulating in China to the effect that Pu-Yi's elevation to the throne is intended as a rallying call to the Chinese subjects he ruled as a boy on the dragon throne were branded as "entirely false" by a foreign office spokesman.

"On the contrary," he said, "it will stress the separation of Manchukuo from China, and Manchukuo's complete freedom from the intrigues, civil wars, and sorrows of China below the great wall, and will assist in the establishment of peace and security along all the frontiers of Manchukuo."

Ceremony in Hsinking.

The coronation of Pu-Yi will take place, it is understood, in Hsinking [Changchun], the capital, with the pomp and ceremony Pu-Yi knew before 1912 as the Manchu ruler of China. He is now the chief executive of Manchukuo, the state set up after the Japanese offensive in Manchuria.

"From Japan's viewpoint there are four outstanding justifications for the prospective enthronement," the foreign office official said in the first statement giving Tokio's attitude regarding the restration to Pu-Yi of imperial dignities.

"First, it will satisfy the earnest desires of the Manchurian people.

"Second, it will define the territorial limits and place beyond doubt the sovereignty of Manchukuo, thereby reassuring the Chinese that an extension of Manchukuo by annexation of Chinese territories is in no way contemplated.

Will Aid Peace.

"Third, it will enhance the power and prestige of Pu-Yi's government in Manchuria and facilitate the restoration of real peace and order and the establishment of good government.

"Fourth, it will be a pledge to the world that Japan has no intention of annexing Manchukuo."

Tokio newspapers partly broke through the enforced silence surrounding the project and printed dispatches from Hsinking describing a flood of petitions from all parts of Manchukuo urging Pu-Yi to heed the desires of Manchukuo's 30,000,000 people to become their emperor.

CAPITAL OF CHINESE REBELS SURROUNDED BY NANKING TROOPS

HONG KONG, China, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Heavy casualties were inflicted today as Nationalist troops, behind deadly bombardments, moved steadily toward Foochow, center of a bitter anti-Nationalist revolutionary movement.

Nanking military leaders claimed their forces had advanced to within 25 miles of Foochow, capital of Fukien province, and were ready for a final, crushing thrust at the rebels.

The Fukien insurgents were reported, however, to be holding tenaciously to Kutien City, about 50 miles northwest of Foochow. Shuikow, however, fell before the invaders and apparently the capital was almost ringed by Nationalists.

Crippled communication lines cut Foochow itself off from the outside world. To islands near it large numbers of foreigners, including at least 144 Americans, were said to have flocked for safety. The American destroyer Fulton was in Foochow harbor.

ORDERS TRIAL OF POLICEMAN AS CARELESS DRIVER

Charges of drunken and reckless driving against Policeman Michael Sheehan yesterday were reinstated in the Traffic court at the motion of the state and continued to Jan. 13. The action was taken when Lieut. Charles Egan appeared in court and offered to testify that Sheehan was intoxicated when arrested at the scene of an accident in which two women were seriously injured last October. Previously the case had been dismissed for want of prosecution, the state's witnesses charging that the trial date had been fixed without giving them notice. Sheehan, who was attached to the Maxwell street station, has been suspended and is scheduled for a hearing before the police trial board Jan. 17.

DEATH FROM FALL HELD ACCIDENT.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental in the death of John Sugrue, 50 years old, 2858 North Mansfield avenue, who died Monday at the Washington Boulevard hospital of injuries received in a fall in his home Oct. 10.

PUBLIC SERVICE WITNESS TALKS OF HIGHER RATES

Intimation that the customers of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois could expect an increase in electricity rates rather than any decrease which the Illinois commerce commission is seeking to justify was made at a hearing yesterday by S. B. Cushing, chief statistician of the utility.

The Public Service company has been submitting testimony to combat the commission's contention that its rates are too high.

"The company has not sought to increase its rates, but increases in taxes and higher cost of capital may make it necessary," Mr. Cushing declared on the witness stand before Assistant Charles E. Byrne.

Attorney Harry R. Booth, counsel for the commission, who has been cross-examining the utility witnesses declared that the electric companies throughout the country are generally reducing rates far below the present rates of the Public Service company.

BATTLE 8 HOURS IN VAIN TO SAVE ENTOMBED MINER

Ottawa, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Death won today in race waged by Sheriff E. J. Welter and a crew of miners to free Anton Udot, 47, Ottawa mine operator who was entombed by a cave-in at La Salle canon.

Udot went to the mine to remove some tools this morning. Two hundred and twenty-five feet back in the mine he was struck by a ton of rock and pinned face downward. Mike Harcharik, who went to the mine with Udot, summoned the sheriff. The sheriff rushed to the mine and directed efforts of miners and conservation corps workmen to free the entombed man. The state mine rescue crew was then called. After eight hours Udot's body was recovered.

A large crowd of spectators had gathered to watch the rescue work.

NOTRE DAME DEFEATS MARQUETTE; 21 IN ROW

FIVE MEMBERS OF YALE BOARD VOTE FOR KIPKE

Two Oppose Hiring Michigan Coach.

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Developments today pointed strongly toward the engagement of Harry G. Kipke of Michigan, 1922 all-American half back and present head coach of the Wolverines, as the next head coach of the Yale gridiron squad, despite strong administrative feeling that T. A. D. Jones should be recalled to take charge.

HARRY KIPKE.

Kipke and his entire Michigan staff will be the choice in a precedent shattering shakeup at New Haven if the university's executive authorities accept the majority wishes of the specially selected football committee now conferring with Malcolm Farmer, director of athletics, in New York.

Hold Secret Sessions.

The sessions of this committee of eight members, including Farmer, have been held in secret so far, but it was learned authoritatively today that it stood 6 to 2 against the reëngagement of Jones and in favor of a complete break with tradition by engaging a conspicuously well equipped "outsider."

Five of the six proponents of a "clean house," it was said, favored the selection of Kipke while the other suggested Ossie Solem, now head coach at the University of Iowa.

Meanwhile, at New Haven, official confirmation of negotiations with Ivan Williamson, captain and star end of the 1932 Michigan team, led observers to believe that this prospective engagement as freshman coach for 1934 at Yale would be the forerunner of the hiring of Michigan's entire coaching staff.

No Decision Made.

Pending another meeting of the football committee here tonight or tomorrow, Yale men understood no definite commitments had been made as to the next head coach, although it was certain that Reginald D. Root, the youthful graduate who had charge of the 1933 squad, will not be reëngaged.

Athletic Director Farmer, it was said, held steadfastly to a belief that a Yale man, preferably Jones, should be picked. In this he was reported to share the view of James Rowland Angell, the university president, and reflect the opinions of a number of the most influential and wealthy alumni, notably Edward S. Harkness.

Despite such influences, as well as the weight of tradition, a majority of Old Eli graduates appear definitely to have swung over to the conviction that a complete "new deal" effective this year is essential to recouping Yale's sagging football fortunes.

Former Stars Favor Kipke.

Five former Yale football stars on the special committee, all represented as strongly in favor of engaging the new coach from outside Yale ranks, with Kipke preferred, are Clinton R. [Cupid] Black, 1916 captain and all-America guard; Walter Levering, star full back of the 1932 team, the last to beat Harvard; Jesse Spalding, 1912 captain; J. Ralph Bloomer, all-America tackle in 1900, and Eddie Bench, quarter back on the 1924 team.

Other members of the committee are Farmer, John Field and Emerson Tuttle, the latter an executive of the Harkness "college plan."

KIPKE ADDS DENIAL

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 9.—[Special.] In the face of rumors to the contrary, Harry Kipke, head football coach at the University of Michigan, issued a denial today that he is to go to Yale to serve in the same capacity. In South Bend, to address a meeting of a University of Michigan club, Kipke gave denial to the current reports in emphatic language.

Far from entering into a contract or agreement with Yale, he said, he has not even been in communication concerning an offer with any one holding an official connection with Yale, including Malcolm Farmer, chairman of athletics.

Works Under Verbal Agreement.

At the same time Kipke revealed that he has no contract at Michigan that would prevent him from accepting a post elsewhere if he had the opportunity to better himself. During his five year tenure at Ann Arbor, he stated, he has worked under a verbal agreement that was in no way ironclad, and the recent renewal of this understanding, with an increase in salary, he declared, does not bind him to remain at Michigan.

"I have not talked with Malcolm Farmer about going to Yale," said Kipke. "Contrary to reports, I did not even see him in Chicago during the recent coaches' convention, for I left there the day before he arrived.

"When I was in New York in December to fulfill a radio contract Mr. Farmer dropped in to see me at my hotel. He was on the way to the railroad station and he stopped by for a brief chat, which did not last more than three minutes. Mr. Farmer wanted me to know that he had nothing to do with talk that was going around about my going to Yale."

MATA HARI 15-1 DERBY FAVORITE IN WINTER BOOK

Filly Outranks Cavalcade and Singing Wood.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The first robin of spring fluttered into the loop yesterday in the shape of the opening future book odds on the Kentucky Derby.

A little booklet bound in robin's egg blue compiled by Tom Kearney of St. Louis, who has been proprietor of the big store in Derby future book speculation for the last half dozen years, contained the betting prices.

On the front page was inscribed Mr. Kearney's none too original greeting "Come up and see me sometime."

What horse do you suppose Tom made the favorite to win the Derby?

Not Singing Wood, the winner of the Futurity, richest of all stake races run in America last year.

It Wasn't Far Star.

It wasn't Far Star, the winner of the exciting Arlington Futurity last summer, nor Chicstraw, which was the most sensational 2 year old in the east during the racing in Maryland late last fall. Nor was it Cavalcade, winner of the Hyde Park stakes at Arlington.

Mata Hari, a filly—only one of her sex has ever won the Derby—was the favorite in Kearney's book. The odds he is willing to lay against her chances of victory are 15 to 1 to win, 10 to 1 to place and 5 to 1 to show.

Mr. Kearney doesn't intend to be any too philanthropic with the money he will pass out on the night of May 5 after the Derby has been run.

He picks out five of the other leaders in the 3 year old division and makes them equal second choices.

They are Singing Wood, Cavalcade, Chicstraw, Bazaar, and Sir Thomas.

You Can Get 20 to 1.

He offers to lay 20 to 1 to win, 10 to 1 to place, and 5 to 1 to show on their chances of grabbing any part of the Derby prize.

His next group at 30 to 1 includes ten 3 year old colts. They are High Quest, First Minstrel, Discovery, Jabot, Soon Over, Elylee, High Glee, Hadagal, Spy Hill, and Roustabout.

On any of the others, including what seems to be the winter track 3 year old champion, Tatanne, anybody who cares to speculate a bit with Mr. Kearney may just about write his own ticket.

Kearney did become a bit big at heart when he announced the first Derby odds. Entries for the Derby do not close until next month. Right now if you happen to fancy a 3 year old to win the race and it so develops that this 3 year old isn't nominated for the race Mr. Kearney will return your money.

At least that's what the little book bound in robin's egg blue which he is sending out to the suckers, state.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE LETTER BOX.

DEAR WAKE: The Cubs are out to win the 1934 National league pennant and I'm for them, so let's help. Since the White Sox wisely decided to change the dimensions of their park, I suggest that the Cubs do the same.

Wrigley field often is spoken of as a little field, but figures prove the contrary. Distance to left field is longer than any left field in the American league and exceeded only by Pittsburgh and Brooklyn in the National. But height of the Cubs' left field wall also is a factor. Again, strong north and northwest winds frequently blow off Lake Michigan with no stands or bleachers as barriers to prevent those winds from tossing "real" homers back into the field for easy outs. Hartnett, Jurges, Babe Herman are handicapped.

So, why not extend the left center field bleachers over to the left field line as far as the right field bleachers extend to the right field line? More bleacher fans also could be accommodated. Price of admission still means much to many patrons.

About that supposedly short right field fence? Nine other major league parks out of fifteen have shorter right field boundaries. Yours for the Cubs, Clayton Cook.

Helper E. L. Tucker recently stated in extolling Pacific coast football (that was before the Columbia-Stanford affair) that the single state of California furnished eight major elevens while it took the entire middle west for the Big Ten.

I don't know his eighth major team, but suppose the seven he included were Southern California, U. C. L. A., Loyola, California, Stanford, St. Mary's, and Santa Clara. Who taught the supposed coast prodigies their gridiron lore?

Coaches of the seven named, in order, are Howard Jones, once at Iowa; Bill Spaulding, once at Minnesota; Tom Lieb of Notre Dame; Bill Ingram, once at Indiana; Tiny Thornhill of Pittsburgh, Slip Madigan of Notre Dame, and Clipper Smith of Notre Dame. Not a coach of Pacific coast origin in the lot, which does not include Jimmy Phelan of Washington and A. A. Stagg of College of the Pacific.
Still Big Ten.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Local revival of the Duncan sisters' pretty play with its catchy music reminds of when Harriet Beecher Stowe first put "Uncle Tom's Cabin" on the market. A candy store on Canal street in New York displayed in the window a replica of the cabin about 18 inches long, 12 inches high, and 14 inches deep. Uncle Tom sat in a chair with his banjo with Topsy and Eva at his knee. It was all made in candy. When it was lighted in the evening such crowds congregated one could not get near the window. H. S.

HTW: Not so long ago Dubuque had an NRA parade, and incidentally WHAT a parade. Levinsky Bout Off; Stadium Refuses Cash

Nate Lewis, matchmaker for Chicago Stadium, announced early this morning that negotiations for the 15 round bout between Max Schmeling and King Levinsky, proposed for Feb. 16, were off. Until a late hour last night Mr. Lewis and other Stadium officials were hopeful the match would be arranged.

Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, remained in the loop all day after missing a train he expected to take to Philadelphia Monday night. He finally agreed to accept 35 per cent of the gate instead of 40 per cent, as he originally had demanded.

Lena Finally Weakens.

This left 25 per cent for Levinsky, as the Stadium insisted it would pay only 60 per cent for the windup match. Mrs. Lena Levy, sister manager of Levinsky, held out for 30 per cent, but at midnight weakened and agreed to send the King into the ring for 25 per cent provided the Stadium would advance her $2,500 as guarantee that the bout would be held.

Jacobs has made two or three matches for Schmeling in the last few weeks and they have fallen through one by one," Lena said. "I have some doubt whether he can produce Schmeling."

Bidwill Refuses Demand.

Charles Bidwill, president of the Stadium Operating company, refused to meet Mrs. Levy's cash demands, so the conference, which had been in session at Mr. Lewis' offices in the Stadium for several hours, broke up at 1 o'clock this morning.

"That's the last straw as far as we are concerned," said Lena.

"That's all there is," said Mr. Lewis.

"There isn't any more," said Joe Foley, manager of the Stadium company.

Mr. Jacobs had departed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon for Philadelphia, where he expects to sign today for a match with Steve Hamas.

MAKE PAIRINGS FOR THREE C. Y. O. BOUTS ON COAST

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Three of the sixteen bouts that will pair off Chicago boxers against California entries in the Catholic Youths' organization intersectional matches here Friday night were announced today.

In the 112 pound class Frankie Schultz, Chicago, will meet Manual Fueste, San Francisco, in the 135 pound class. Bob Lamonte, Chicago, will square off against Andy Bozzano, San Francisco, at 147 pounds. Charles Wozniak, Chicago, will meet Fred Apostole, San Francisco.

DIVORCEE

MRS. LENA LEVY.

Mrs. Lena Levy, 36 years old, the sister manager of King Levinsky, got a divorce yesterday, but most of her testimony centered around the punching ability of her brother. Between boasts about his prowess she asserted that her husband, Daniel, a motorcycle policeman on the county highway force, had deserted her on Sept. 30, 1932, because she had no money when he demanded a sum.

"My brother, the personality kid, wasn't making any money at that time, you see," she informed Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort, before whom the case was heard.

"Do you think the King will ever get a chance to fight Max Schmeling?" demanded the judge, falling into the spirit of the thing.

"O, I don't know. I don't think Hitler will let him fight a Jew boy," Lena replied.

"Could the King lick him if they did fight?"

"If my brother ever hit that lug, Hitler back in Berlin would feel it," Leaping Lena snorted as a parting shot.

Repeal Boosts Revenue of N. Y. Athletic Club

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Repeal will have a salutary effect on the activities of athletic clubs, it was indicated today at the annual meeting of the New York Athletic club. In the first month of repeal the New York A. C. has shown a $25,000 revenue increase over the month of December, 1932, according to William A. Dalton, who was reëlected president.

Silver Skate Entrants May Use Coliseum

Here's good news for all skaters who have entered the annual Silver Skates Derbies. Emil Iverson, president of the Chicago Amateur Hockey association, has offered the facilities of the indoor rink at the Coliseum to Silver Skates contestants for training purposes. Admission will be free at all times.

Mr. Iverson's offer becomes effective today. A list of entries for the seventeenth annual Silver Skates Derbies will be given to the Coliseum officials by Harry Berz, president of the Illinois-Western Skating association. If your name is on this list you may train at the Coliseum until such time as the Silver Skates races are held.

Flood Park Areas.

"Chicago's boys and girls have been handicapped by lack of ice on the park lagoons," Mr. Iverson said yesterday. "In order to do their best in the races for THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Skates they need practice and we of the Coliseum are glad to offer our facilities."

It was apparent yesterday that the races cannot be held this week-end at the Garfield park lagoon. However, this does not mean that the races cannot be held. If the thermometer drops a few more degrees the flooded areas at the various parks will afford skating in a day or so. Workmen yesterday were again flooding the rinks in the Lincoln park system.

May Shift Location.

Possibly the Silver Skates races may be shifted to another location. If such a move is decided upon announcement will be made immediately in THE TRIBUNE. All contestants should be ready to start their preliminary tests Saturday or Sunday. According to the schedule, the trials in the boys' midget, boys' juvenile, and boys' junior classes will be held Saturday afternoon. All other trials and the finals in the seven championships will be contested Sunday afternoon.

RANGERS DEFEAT DETROIT, 2 TO 1; TIE FOR SECOND

Wings' Loss Keeps Hawks in Division Lead.

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The New York Rangers fought their way into a tie with Detroit for second place in the American division of the National Hockey league tonight by beating the Redwings, 2 to 1, before 10,000. Detroit's defeat enabled the Chicago Blackhawks to retain their one point lead in the American division.

Two exceptional passing plays brought the Rangers their goals, then they put in a bad third period holding off the furious Detroit assaults. Murray Murdoch drove home the first score on a play in which five Ranger forwards took part in the first period. In the second period Earl Seibert and Frank Boucher fed a pass to Bill Cook for the second score.

Detroit's goal came in the third period, following a Ranger penalty. Johnny Sorrell caught the Rangers let down and hammered a shot through Seibert's legs into a corner of the net. The lineup:

VOEGELE SCORES IN LAST MINUTE TO WIN, 30 TO 28

Victory Ties Irish All-Time Record.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 9.—Notre Dame now has won 21 consecutive basketball games, a mark which ties the best record ever achieved by the Irish.

ED KRAUSE.

But Marquette provided many a thrill before it finally succumbed tonight, 30 to 28. Six thousand five hundred, a packed house, watched the battle in which the score was tied four times and Marquette held a lead on as many occasions.

Two great teams fought tonight. Except for the irrefutable argument that Notre Dame finished with more points, one might say the quintets were equal. Certainly the Marquette players could do everything well. Led by the long distance shooting of Bill Rubado, who scored three goals in the first half, and the one hand tosses of Adolph Gorychka and Ray Morstadt, Marquette, kept in the scrap all the way.

Voegele' Shot Wins.

With less than two minutes left to play, the teams were tied with 28 points each. The mental pressure on the players, particularly on Notre Dame which was fighting to tie the university record for victories, was terrific.

Again and again the players, apparently showing no effect from the strenuous pace, raced down the court. Then came a quick underhand throw by Joe Voegele, Notre Dame forward, from his foul circle. The ball banked through the hoop and the stands broke forth in a torrent of cheers which reverberated from the vaulted ceiling of the fieldhouse. For a fourth time the Irish led, but the victory was by no means assured.

Marquette took time out with 12 seconds left to play and so certain was its attack, which before tonight had only been stopped by Wisconsin at Wisconsin, that Marquette had two excellent shots after putting the ball in play from the end court. A fraction of a second after the final gun Marquette scored, but too late to give it the reprieve of an overtime period.

Krause Is Star.

A review of Notre Dame's success must start with Big Ed Krause, the hub of all offensive plays and the most powerful man in many mêlées under Marquette's backboard. Krause not only scored five field goals and one free throw in two attempts to lead the players of both quintets, but without him tonight Notre Dame would have been only mediocre. Krause was the only member of his squad who played the full 40 minutes.

Voegele trailed Krause with nine points, three field goals, and as many free throws, but despite his winning basket he was erratic on attack. Many of his shots missed, and in the closing drive he lost possession several times by traveling. Johnny Jordan, who substituted for Marty Peters when the big sophomore faltered in the man to man defense, was Krause's No. 1 assistant. Jordan played heady ball, took advantage of Notre Dame's lead, and his coolness was invaluable in bringing back a semblance of order when it seemed as if the machine would fall apart.

When Peters came back for Johnny in the final minute, Coach Keogan wishing to secure more height, Jordan was saluted with the greatest salvo of cheers of the night.

Foul Breaks Tie.

Marquette scored on its first attempt, a long throw by Rubado, but Notre Dame rallied to lead 7 to 3 at the end of five minutes. Seven minutes later Marquette went to the front, 8 to 7, and continued its smashing drive to lead 12 to 7, the best margin either team held during the game. The first deadlock ensued at 14 all and after Marquette's two field goals Notre Dame tied again at 18 on field goals by Krause and Jordan.

Morstadt's foul as the gun ended the half gave Krause a penalty shot which sent Notre Dame to the front, 19 to 18, at the intermission.

Voegele's field goal increased the Irish lead to three points in the first minute of the second half. Gorychka and Morstadt wiped this out, but Krause tied the score for the third time at 23 all. Again Notre Dame led, 26 to 23, this time on Jordan's free throw and Krause's one handed goal from the pivot. But Marquette pulled within a point on two free throws.

Don Allen, substituting for Leo Crowe, scored from far out to give Notre Dame a 28 to 25 lead, but a fourth tie at 28 to 28 was produced on Kukla's free throw, scored on Krause's third personal, and Gorychka's one hand throw from the corner, thus setting the stage for Voegele's winning goal.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

SALMON O. LEVINSON, who has been an enthusiastic follower of professional baseball for half a century, writes in to inquire what can be done about working out a rule that would penalize or in some way restrict a pitcher from giving a base on balls to the leading batters of the major leagues. . . . He points out that in football star ball carriers are not allowed a distance of, say five yards, in order to avoid a longer gain. . . . Mr. Levinson proposes that where in the opinion of the umpire a base on balls is purposely given, everybody on base should move up. . . . Baseball people have been giving consideration to the intentional pass for some time. . . . Leslie M. O'Connor, secretary to Commissioner K. M. Landis, suggests that when the pitcher has given four balls whoever is on base should be permitted to advance a base, the pitcher to be required to continue delivering the ball to the same batter, who shall be entitled to three strikes. . . . If this process clears the bases, all well and good. . . .

Allowing one point for first place and half a point for a first place tie, the Western conference basketball teams would have the following rating for the period from 1920 to 1934: Purdue, 4½; Michigan, 2½; Wisconsin, 2; Northwestern, 1½; Ohio State, 1½; Chicago, 1½; Iowa, 1; Indiana, 1; Illinois, ½; Minnesota, 0. . . . Pete Reilly, one of the co-owners of King Levinsky, was a professional baseball player in his youth. . . . The richest Kentucky Derby ever run was won by Mrs. John Hertz' Reigh Count six years ago. . . . It was worth $55,375. . . . Charley Barrett, scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, is a better listener than a talker and you never hear him in a monologue about "the players I have found." . . .

Dr. Richard F. Lifvendal of Chicago, guard on Illinois' championship football team in 1919, has seen only one game since leaving Champaign. . . . Ritchie Mitchell of Milwaukee, former lightweight contender, has been invited to teach boxing in Sydney, Australia, but there is a chance he may be appointed to the Wisconsin boxing commission. . . . Evar Swanson, White Sox outfielder, is keeping in trim by refereeing basketball games at Galesburg, Ill. . . . Two of the leading sophomore basketball players in this section are William Rubado of Marquette and George Ireland of Notre Dame. . . . Both are from Madison, Wis. . . . The Rev. John P. Markoe, S. J., who played end with the Army eleven against Notre Dame in the first game between the two teams 20 years ago, is on the faculty of St. Louis University High school and not at Creighton university, as was reported in this column several weeks ago. . . . He is the only West Point man who ever became a Jesuit. . . .

George Levis, formerly of the University of Wisconsin athletic department, is now making Milwaukee his headquarters. . . . He is a glass salesman. . . . Jack Dempsey's oil well holdings in Texas were displayed to him in maps and charts while he was in the loop last week. . . . The reason the boxing show scheduled for the Stadium Jan. 19 was cancelled was Teddy Yarosz's refusal to accept a guarantee of $1,350 for a ten round bout with Frank Battaglia. . . . Harry Kipke can't get away from championship football. . . . Central High school of Lansing, Mich., claimed the national prep title in 1918 when Harry was its star. . . . Emil Iverson, president of the Chicago Amateur Hockey league, reports that there were 250 skaters from Lane High school waiting for the Coliseum doors to open at 5:30 Friday morning so that they could work out on the ice for the Silver Skates races scheduled for this week-end. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Purdue's basketball team defeated Ohio State, 24 to 23. . . . Gen. John V. Clinnin again was named referee of the Silver Skates Derby. . . . Karl Pojello, Lithuanian wrestling champion, and Bill Demetral went an hour and a half to a draw. . . . H. Chandler Egan of Exmoor won the Pacific coast golf championship. . . . Assemblyman Henry O. Kahan of New York urged 50-50 purses in all New York bouts. . . . W. L. [Young] Stribling signed to box Jim Delaney at Omaha Jan. 22. . . .

Risko Easy Winner Over Jimmy Maloney

Miami, Fla., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Johnny Risko, the Cleveland baker boy, pounded out an easy 10 round decision tonight over Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, in the first major fight of the winter season here. One of the judges and the referee awarded all ten rounds to Risko, while the other judge gave one to Maloney.

SKEET SHOOTING PROVIDES NEW TARGET THRILLS

Marksmen Get Chance to Improve Skill.

BY BOB BECKER.

The form of trapshooting known as skeet is gaining popularity among duck and upland game hunters in Chicagoland. Since the close of the bird season a large number of the hunters reluctant to lay aside their guns have been frequenting the skeet traps to bombard clay pigeons. A check up of the number of places where a sportsman may try his hand at skeet shooting on the north shore shows how the sport has increased.

Not far from Evanston on the Milwaukee road the Northwest Gun club is a mecca for marksmen. The club welcomes visits from gunners who want to learn to break clay pigeons from many difficult angles. Among the other places north and northwest of the loop which have skeet installations are the Glen View, the Onwentsia, and the Knollwood Country clubs. Phil Armour at Lake Bluff is so keen about this form of trap shooting that he has installed an outfit on his estate.

It's a Tough Game.

We tried our luck at skeet for the first time this week at Knollwood and waved our 20 gauge gun around trying to follow those little black clay discs. This one whirl at the game was enough to make us enthusiastic. The game has none of the monotonous routine of regular trap shooting, but it gives the gunner so many targets at different angles that it is excellent training for field shooting.

With two traps set opposite each other and the shooter taking his position at different points in the arc between them, the clay pigeons go tearing through the air at all angles. Then there are doubles calling for fast and accurate shooting because one of the two pigeons has to be broken just a few yards from you as it comes straight in.

Among the north shore water fowl and upland game hunters who were skeeting with us were Dayton Keith, Winthrop H. Smith, Ed Morris, Van G. Kirk, Dr. Clifford P. McCullough, Cushman Bissell, Bill Wyman, and Jack Wheeler. Dr. McCullough won the cup competed for each week-end, scoring an average of about 15 x 25.

12 Gauge Guns Popular.

Most of the marksmen used 12 gauge guns. In fact, ours was the only 20 gauge gun on the firing line. We were using a light, easy swinging model 21-20 gauge with a 28 inch barrel and a selective single trigger. This little gun eased us into skeet by giving us a 12 x 25 in the first frame and a 16 x 25 in the second and last frame, a scoring which will make any field shot very reticent about his ability. When we left the firing line Van Kirk was just swinging into action with his .410 gauge repeater taking the 3 inch shells. A number of skeet shooters are using this fine little gun.

Barney Ross Goes to Work Today for Petrolle Battle

Barney Ross, world's lightweight and junior welterweight champion, will return this morning from Excelsior Springs, Mo., where he rested for 10 days. He will be accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Rosofsky, and Art Winch, co-manager with Sam Pian.

The champion will start training this afternoon at Trafton's gymnasium for a 10 round nontile contest with Billy Petrolle the Fargo Express at New York Jan. 24.

King Levinsky has had the five stitches removed from a cut over his right eye, sustained in the third round of his contest with Don McCorkindale at the Stadium last Dec. 29.

Johnny Phagan, 152 pound boxer, yesterday agreed to tonline the show Friday at Rainbo Fronton. Johnny Coulon is seeking an opponent. Tod Kelly and Art Mitchell, lightweights, are paired in the five round semi-final. Joey Bozak and John Mirabal, featherweights, meet in a rematch at four rounds. Lenny Cohen, bantamweight, will appear in one of three other encounters.

Johnny Pena, New York featherweight, worked out at a loop gymnasium yesterday. . . Mique Malloy is attempting to sign Solly Dukelsky to meet Karl Ogren and Kid Leonard to face Henry Firpo for an eight round contest Jan. 17 at Arcadia gardens. . . . An amateur card will be presented Jan. 19 at St. Alphonsus gymnasium, Wellington and Southport. Al Oddo, Stan Retzke, Floyd Walker, and Jim Desciano will appear on the program.

The amateur bill at C. Y. O. center tomorrow night is as follows:

Frank De Michaels vs. Ben Dudzinski, 128.
Jackie Sullivan vs. Joe Minnieci, 118.
Dick Denz vs. Albert Bull, 160.
Bob Crowley vs. Vince Satkoff, 147.
Ed Jackson vs. Al Soukup, 126.
Jim Poulos vs. Adam Wichetech, 112.
Lorenzo Lovings vs. Harold Samson, 133.
Harry Frederickson vs. Richard Size, 160.

Lou Talaber, former middleweight wrestling champion, and Zack Malkov will meet in a light heavyweight bout tonight at Prudential hall, Halsted and North avenues. Jack Gallanis and Al Williams collide in the semi-windup match. The supporting bouts are:

Pete Holtz and Al Wosnica.
Fred Kohler and Rudy Kay.
George Schwab and Jack Zeravich.

Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis featherweight, began training yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for an eight round scrap with Leo Rodak at Midway arena Monday night. Sharkey lost a decision to Freddy Miller, featherweight champion, in a title contest at Cincinnati Jan. 1. In the event that he beats Rodak he may face Frank Klick, junior lightweight champion, at Cincinnati on Jan. 29.

Equipoise to Come Back in Quest of Mark

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 9.—(AP)—It was announced here tonight that Equipoise champion handicap horse, will return to the races this year with the purpose of breaking the money winning record of Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau.

Equipoise has been enjoying a life of ease since his retirement last fall, but Thomas J. Healey, his trainer, said he would be prepared for the spring and summer campaigns.

The C. V. Whitney chestnut has won $322,970. Sun Beau's money winning record is $376,744. Equipoise raced only a few times as a three year old.

Now six years old, Equipoise may have competition this year in the race for the money winning record. A. C. Bostwick's Mate, also a six year old and with a money winning record not for behind Equipoise, is in England training for some rich stakes there.

Foot Is Cured.

Trainer Healey and Maj. Louis A. Beard, manager of the Whitney thoroughbred interests, are of the opinion that the baffling foot ailment that put Equipoise out on the eve of the 1931 Kentucky Derby and bothered him occasionally last year and the year before has been cured.

From Lexington Equipoise probably will be sent to Maryland. There he will be groomed for the Harford handicap at Havre de Grace, an event Equipoise won in 1932. If Equipoise wins the Harford again it will put him approximately $10,000 nearer to Sun Beau's mark.

Coming to Chicago.

From Maryland Equipoise will be taken to New York and from there will be sent to Chicago, where he will be given a chance in the Stars and Stripes handicap and other big handicaps at Arlington Park, and in the Hawthorne Gold Cup at Hawthorne.

All these plans, of course, depend upon whether the little chestnut stands up under training early this spring. He will not be used as a stallion unless his foot again gives way.

FIRST HOME RUN KING DIES; HIT 45 BACK IN 1895

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 9.—(AP)—The man who made home run history before Babe Ruth was born died here today.

He was Perry Wheritt Werden the Moose to old time fans and players. Werden, 68 years old, died of heart disease.

Back in 1895, after a turn or two in the big time playing with such former greats as John McGraw, Willie Keeler, Hughey Jennings, Wilbert Robinson, Hans Wagner, Fred Clark, and Tommy Leach, Werden hit 45 home runs in one season. He never received full credit for his feat since records were not kept then.

During his season-long slugging spree Werden established other marks. One was a string of four home runs and a single, a total of 17 bases, in one game. He was playing first base for Minneapolis in the old Western league when he established his unofficial home run record.

Kalteux Gives His Reply to Kritter Charge

Frank M. Kalteux, president of the Amateur Skating Union of America, replied yesterday to charges made by William Kritter of Milwaukee, who resigned recently as president of the Wisconsin Skating association.

Kritter had announced Monday that he would start action for the removal of Kalteux from the presidency on three counts—interference with the affairs of the Wisconsin association, appointment of too many Chicago officials for the North American championship races which are to be held at Oconomowoc Jan. 27 and 28, and the appointment of an employé of a skate manufacturing company as an honorary official.

In a statement issued yesterday Kalteux answered the first count by saying that it was necessary for him to suggest the appointment of a commissioner of skating for Wisconsin because of Kritter's failure to cooperate with the association in arrangements for the championship races at Oconomowoc. He also said that Kritter had failed to bring order to the chaotic conditions in Wisconsin amateur skating circles.

In reply to the last two counts Kalteux stated:

"Mr. Kritter charges that I selected the officials. This is untrue as he well knows that Judge Newton Evans of Oconomowoc made the selections with his committee and requested that the Amateur Skating union pass on the active list, which our officers did. There is no rule in our skating body which prohibits a skate manufacturer from being appointed an honorary official."

CHANGE SITES OF 2 DIVISIONS IN K. C. LEAGUE

Two changes in playing floors will be made Sunday in the Knights of Columbus Basketball league. The south division will stage its contests at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue, while the south end division will occupy White City, heretofore the home of the south section. The west division will stage its games as before at the Community clubhouse, 4711 Madison street.

A new playoff plan for the championship round also will be inaugurated this year, according to present indications. Five teams from the south division, five from the west and three from the south end will qualify for the title round under the new plan.

Sunday's schedule:

SOUTH END DIVISION [White City]—Fort Dearborn vs. Santa Maria, Quig

CRANE ROLLS UP 23-22 WIN IN PREP OPENING

Tuley Five Loses Thriller; Lindblom Triumphs.

The lightweight basketball teams of the City High School league started their quest for the championship yesterday afternoon in all sections of the city.

Among the five new entrants in the city league, Farragut of the central section was the only quintet that was able to turn in a victory and that was against Tilden, 41 to 14.

Crane Wins Thriller.

Crane Tech's one point victory over Tuley, 23 to 22, in the north section was the outstanding game in the league. Rated as strong teams, they battled on even terms up to the final minute and then Valentino tossed a free throw to win the game. Waller defeated Sullivan, 37 to 9, and Roosevelt beat Lake View, 39 to 19, in other north section tilts.

In the central section Lindblom trimmed Manley, 31 to 26, Harrison handed Kelly a 31 to 16 setback and Farragut beat Tilden, 41 to 14.

Marshall Beats McKinley.

Marshall nosed out McKinley, 34 to 30, Austin defeated Foreman, 33 to 22, and Kelvyn Park succumbed to Schurz, 36 to 13, in the west division.

Morgan Park beat Bowen, 34 to 29, and Calumet defeated Hirsch, 24 to 18, in south section tilts.

3 Canadian Teams Reopen Shore Hearing

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Opposition to the reinstatement of Eddie Shore, Boston Bruins defense star, without some financial compensation for the Toronto Maple Leafs and the injured Irvin [Ace] Bailey today crystallized into a demand by three Canadian clubs of the National Hockey league for a review of the case by the entire board of governors.

Shore was reinstated by Managing Director Frank Patrick effective Jan. 28 or for a total suspension of 16 games since Dec. 12 when he collided with Bailey during a game at Boston and knocked the Toronto wing to the ice. Bailey received a fractured skull which may mean his retirement from major league hockey.

Maroons, Senators Join.

Conn Smythe, manager of the Toronto team, protested against the reinstatement and secured the aid of the Montreal Maroons and the Ottawa Senators in appealing the case to the board of governors. Under league rules a meeting is mandatory when demanded by three clubs.

Frank Calder, league president, said he would call the governors together "as soon as possible." The next regular meeting is scheduled for early February.

Club Spends $2,500.

The Boston club held a benefit game for Bailey while he was still in a critical condition, realizing some $6,000. Smythe said this was not sufficient compensation if Bailey was not able to play hockey again. He also pointed out that Toronto had suffered a severe financial blow by the loss of Bailey's services and in addition already had spent more than $2,500 on hospital and doctor bills for him.

Bailey is recovering from his injuries in a Boston hospital after two delicate brain operations.

RIVERSIDE WINS TWO

Riverside lightweights climbed to the top of the West Suburban Basketball league last night by defeating Maine, 30 to 18, on their own floor. Tied for first place before last night's tilt, Riverside displayed its superiority by jumping into an early lead which it maintained throughout the contest.

Riverside heavies also advanced on the idle Glenbard quintet by trouncing Maine, 21 to 18. Price, Riverside's center scored eleven points. In the other league games Downers Grove split with West Chicago. The West Chicago lights won, 28 to 18, and the Grove heavies, 34 to 18. York and Hinsdale also divided. The York lights won, 24 to 12, and the Hinsdale heavies triumphed, 26 to 18. Heavyweight lineups:

Vines to Make Debut Tonight Against Tilden

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Big Bill Tilden had more worries today as a promoter than as the "old tennis master," in which rôle he will oppose Ellsworth Vines tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden in the young Californian's professional debut.

"Why, I can't even buy good seats for friends who are demanding them, let alone take care of all those who think they should get in free," remarked Tilden, as he emerged from the headquarters of his business associate, Bill O'Brien. "Tickets for seats along the side lines are sold out."

O'Brien added: "There's good prospect of a capacity house and gate receipts of more than $35,000, making this the top for any single tennis event, amateur or pro, in the United States."

Tilden Picked to Win.

Tilden has been using up plenty of energy on the business end of his biggest professional venture so far, but the veteran's backers still feel he is a 2 to 1 favorite to beat the 22 year old Vines in their first match. Big Bill himself was pleased with his latest form in practice but admitted his doubts as to how successfully he can handle the Californian's speed. Vines has been increasingly impressive in his workouts.

"Vines has nothing to lose against me this time," said Tilden. "Naturally he will put everything he can on the ball for this match and I hope my experience and legs will carry me through the blast. I firmly believe tennis followers will see in Ellsworth an entirely different player from the boy whose game temporarily collapsed on amateur courts last season. He has undoubtedly regained confidence. I said a year ago this match was a 'natural' and I still think so—from every angle."

Plan Cross-Country Tour.

The match, best three of five sets, inaugurates a rapid trans-continental tour for Vines and Tilden, as well as their professional teammates, Vincent Richards and Bruce Barnes. Their schedule follows:

Jan. 12, Philadelphia; Jan. 13, Washington; Jan. 15, Boston; Jan. 16, Providence; Jan. 18, Cleveland; Jan. 20, Chicago; Jan. 23, Denver; Jan. 26, San Francisco; Jan. 27, Oakland; Jan. 29, Los Angeles; Jan. 30, Pasadena.

They will return east in time to prepare for an international series with the French pair, Henri Cochet and Martin Plaa early in February.

GIANTS MAIL 35 CONTRACTS; THEY CARRY GOOD NEWS

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Salary contracts for 1934 had been mailed to 35 members of the world champion New York Giants today. The news they carry will, in the main, be good, says Secretary Jim Tierney.

"Those who contributed most to our success last year have been remembered," Tierney explained. "We probably will have a few differences of opinion, but on the whole I think the Giants will appreciate they are not participating in a downward revision."

Manager Bill Terry signed a five year contract shortly after the victory over the Washington Senators in the world series.

Wilson, Sophomore Back, Named McKendree Captain

Lebanon, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Kenneth [Spike] Wilson, sophomore half back, has been elected football captain of the 1934 McKendree Bearcats. Woody Fulkerson, quarter back, was chosen the team's most valuable player by the lettermen.

Blue Ribbons Beat Indians at Lacrosse

The Chicago Blue Ribbons beat the Buffalo Indians, 14 to 11, last night at the Arcadia Gardens and held first place in the National Lacrosse league.

Piper Bain of Chicago scored the first goal of the game, and Baldwin immediately made it 2 to 0, but the quarter ended in a four-all tie. The second quarter opened with a rush and ended with a rush, also in an 8 to 8 tie. Deerfoot was granted a two minute respite to ponder over the inadvisability of wrapping his cross around a Chicago player's neck, and later on Baldwin was excused for actions unbecoming a little gentleman.

Fireworks in Third.

The real fireworks came in the third period. Both teams were coasting along in fine shape, tying the score every so often, when Running Deer of Buffalo made the mistake of checking Bain and then stepping on Bain's neck several times after Bain was down. The lanky Scot leaped to his feet and went for the Indian. In a moment the fans were on their feet, and both teams were required to separate the young rascals.

When peace was restored Bain went back to his regular place, and found that he was facing Running Deer again. Something was said in a low tone, whereupon Piper lifted a right that came all the way from his heels. Running Deer ducked, and the fight was on again in full swing. This time both were sent off the floor for five minutes.

Fourth Straight at Home.

When Chicago was playing two men short in the fourth period, due to penalties, Bob Stephenson charged out on the floor, smashed through the entire Mohawk tribe and flew right into the net, crashing between the legs of the astonished Little Elk, Buffalo goalie. It was perhaps the most decisive goal of the game. The last drive of the Mohawks splintered against Billy McArthur, Chicago goalie, and when the whistle blew, it marked the fourth game in a row the Blue Ribbons have taken on their home floor. Score by periods:

Blue Ribbons	4	4	2	4	—14
Buffalo Indians	4	4	1	2	—11

Scoring: Blue Ribbons—Kingdon, White [3], Stephenson, Bain [4], Barron, Baldwin [2].

Buffalo—Mount Pleasant, Longboat, Silver Heels [4], Running Deer, Young Deer [2], Deerfoot, Big Elk.

CROSSLEY, ZACH TAKE MILWAUKEE BIKE RACE LEAD

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 9.—(AP)—After trailing in second place for nearly 24 hours, Al Crossley and Freddie Zach, the American Swiss team, gained a lap on Piet Van Kempen and Jules Audy tonight and went into the lead in the six day bike race.

Each of the two teams had traveled 1,978.9 miles in 122 hours, but Crossley and Zach held the advantage on points, 401 to 392. The seven teams remaining in the race were closely bunched in the mileage table, giving any of them a chance to finish in first place when the race ends tomorrow at midnight.

BUTTERFINGERS WIN, 4-2, FROM BLUE RIBBONS

Smith to Risk Chicago Record with Sonnenberg

Jack Smith, Chicago heavyweight, who will meet Gus Sonnenberg in the main match of a wrestling show at the Arcadia Gardens Friday night, never has lost a match in Chicago.

Since he was introduced to local fandom for the first time three years ago, Smith has kept his shoulders off the mat, winning 18 matches and drawing in 3. One of the deadlocks occurred two weeks ago, when he and Sonnenberg finished all square after both were injured diving out of the ring.

Smith bases his chances of victory on the fact that he completely smothered the former champion's flying tackle attack.

Women's Cue Champ Wins Two Matches

Mrs. Gertrude McEvoy of New York yesterday furnished proof that it will be almost impossible to dethrone her as national women's pocket billiard champion when she opened the 1934 tournament with two victories at the 131 South Wabash Recreation.

In the afternoon she routed Mrs. Irene Hummel of New York, 35 to 13 in 17 innings and in the evening she took the measure of Miss Georgia Veatch of Chicago, western champion, 35 to 33, in 28 innings.

The day was not a total loss for Miss Veatch, for she won from Mrs. Hummel, 35 to 21 in 27 innings.

The McEvoy-Veatch match was close throughout. In the 27th inning Miss Veatch ran five to assume the lead, 33 to 31, but in the next frame the Chicago school marm missed a long shot that left the national champion a chance to run out.

Today's schedule:
2 p. m.—Miss Veatch vs. Mrs. Hummel;
3 p. m., Mrs. McEvoy vs. Mrs. Hummel;
8 p. m., Mrs. McEvoy vs. Miss Veatch.

BLACKHAWKS TRY NEW LINEUP FOR BRUIN ENCOUNTER

Manager Tommy Gorman mixed his forward lines more than he has done in any previous practice this season yesterday at the Stadium in an effort to decide just what forward lines would be best offensively and defensively to combat the Boston Bruins tomorrow night in what the Blackhawks boss thinks is the most important game of the January schedule.

Should the Bruins win the game, it will pull them up so close to the leaders in the American division that practically a game or a game and a fraction would separate the first and fourth teams in the section. It is the closest race ever known in the National Hockey league. A victory for the Hawks would go a long way toward priming them for the final half of the 1933-34 drive which starts for the Hawks after their game with the New York Americans Sunday night.

Decide on Changes Today.

One of Gorman's real puzzles is to find the proper spot for little Mush March who, with his dazzling speed, is a too valuable hockey adjunct to be floundering in the worst slump he has known since joining the Hawks five years ago. March showed well on two new combinations in Tuesday's drill.

Manager Gorman stated after the two hour workout that he would withhold his decision as to what changes he would make for tomorrow's Blackhawks-Boston flash until after today's practice.

May Wear Headgear.

Chicago hockey fans are likely to witness Manager Art Ross' headgear innovation tomorrow night. The Bruins may wear light leather helmets to protect their heads from injuries.

AUTOPSY SHOWS ZANGARA'S BRAIN QUITE 'NORMAL'

Term Slayer 'Nut,' but Not Insane.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Giuseppe Zangara, the assassin who killed Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago when he fired upon President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt in Bayfront park at Miami last Feb. 15, had "a normal brain."

Such was the finding, after many months of study and observation of Zangara's brain, by Dr. Adolph Meyer, of Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, one of the country's foremost brain experts.

Dr. Ralph N. Greene of Jacksonville, psychiatrist who was present at the execution of Zangara at the state prison farm at Raiford last March 20, made public today the findings of Dr. Meyer. Dr. Greene conceded Zangara was "a type of nut."

No Disorganization.

"Microscopic examination of the brain indicated a condition such as is encountered in patients who have suffered from prolonged fevers or intoxicating states," Dr. Meyer reported to Dr. Greene.

"There was no evidence of any disorganizing process going on at the time of Zangara's death.

"In general, the prolonged study of the brain of Zangara did not reveal information which would bring about any correlation between the deed of homicide and the type of brain."

Dr. Greene characterized Zangara's brain as "perfectly normal," in structure. There is no way, he added, of being able to determine the degree of a man's mentality by study of the structure of his brain.

Explains Stomach Ache.

At the autopsy, performed in the prison hospital that stormy morning Zangara was executed, Dr. Greene and his associates did find the slayer's gall bladder bound with adhesions. His appendix previously had been removed.

"This may have been the cause of his statement," Dr. Greene added, "that he was suffering from stomach pains."

That was one reason Zangara said he fired upon the President elect, that he had "beeg pains" in the stomach.

OCTAVE THANET, AUTHOR, DEAD IN IOWA HOME

Early Foe of Equal Suffrage.

Davenport, Ia., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Miss Alice French [Octave Thanet], the first woman citizen of Davenport who won national reputation for her novels and short stories. They were published years ago. Miss French died early this morning at her home in Davenport. She was in her 84th year.

Critically ill for about ten days, she died in the presence of relatives, her doctor, two nurses and her personal maid. Death was due to infirmities of age. She had successive operations for cataract of the eye and other maladies.

She is survived by two brothers, Col. G. Watson French of Davenport and Morton French of Beverly Hills, Cal., and several nieces and nephews.

Her Principal Works.

The best known works of Octave Thanet were:

"The Man of the Hour," published in 1905, though her "Knitters in the Sun" was published in 1887.

"And the Captain Answered" and "Best Letters of Lady Montague," published in 1917.

Though she was born March 19, 1850, in Andover, Mass., and educated in the east, several of her novels, particularly "Stories of a Western Town," published in 1893, had prairie country and towns as a background.

Opposed Women's Voting.

Miss French never married. She was active in social work and served as first president of the Iowa State Women's Anti-Suffrage league. After adoption of the 19th amendment she was busy with women's political affairs.

One of her activities in recent years was to load an automobile with food and clothing and distribute it to the poor families of Davenport. She had been known to take entire families to the local stores and equip them with winter clothing.

She also was enthusiastic in Americanization work, and established classes in Davenport where foreigners contemplating citizenship were prepared for those tests. After their admittance as citizens of the United States, Miss French, as head of the Davenport Society of Colonial Dames of America, prepared an entertainment for them.

RITES TOMORROW FOR J. B. WOOTAN, MAGAZINE EDITOR

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for James Blythe Wootan, editor of the Public Service magazine and a leader in the Presbyterian church, who died Monday night in the Presbyterian hospital after a two months illness. Mr. Wootan, who was 60 years old, lived at 1340 Birchwood avenue.

After serving an apprenticeship on the staffs of country weekly and daily newspapers, Mr. Wootan became city editor of the Omaha Bee, where he worked from 1901 to 1914. His connection with the Public Service magazine, dealing with the public utilities field, began in 1915. He left in 1918, but returned to the magazine in 1922.

In 1918 Mr. Wootan founded the department of publicity for the Presbyterian church in the United States, an activity he directed for two years. He was editor of the New Era magazine for several years and a leader in the "new era" movement in the church following the war. He also was president of the board of directors of the Presbyterian College of Christian Education. He lectured on religious subjects, two years ago giving a series about the famous Chalice of Antioch, which was brought to the World's Fair.

Services will be held at the Edgewater Presbyterian church by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Asa J. Ferry, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Henry Hepburn and Dr. R. A. Sawyer, president of the church college.

FRANCE GRANTS 'CONCESSION' TO U. S. FRUIT MEN

PARIS, Jan. 9.—The French government today informed Henry C. MacLean, commercial attaché of the American embassy, that special arrangements have been made to enable importers of American fruit to obtain transfer to France of shipments of fruit now en route from the United States to other countries.

This action represents a gesture from the French in connection with the recent agreement concluded between the French and American governments whereby the French agreed to admit 200,000 metric quintals [44,092,000 pounds or about 918,000 bushels] of American apples and pears in exchange for the United States doubling the French wine quota for the first quarter of 1934.

American fruit importers here, when informed of the French government's action, were not greatly impressed. They would have preferred to hear of some modification of the prohibitive import taxes which France has placed on the American fruit it has consented to admit in return for the doubling of its wine quota by the United States. These import taxes, it is recalled, amount to 125 francs per metric quintal [about $1.70 per bushel] for apples and 175 francs [$2.37 per bushel] for pears and are regarded by fruit importers as rendering the Franco-American agreement on fruit as altogether illusory as far as benefit to American trade is concerned.

THIEVES FREE WOMAN STOLEN WITH AN AUTO

Hannibal, Mo., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Roy Carpenter, 40, was released unharmed near Monroe City tonight by four armed automobile thieves who had abducted her several hours earlier, apparently to shield them from bullets of pursuing officers.

Police, sheriffs' deputies and civilians had joined in the search for the four men, described by police as well dressed and "looking like college boys." When word of Mrs. Carpenter's release was received the quartet still was clear of the trap.

The thieves' automobile had run out of gas near the Carpenter home. Mrs. Carpenter, coming from a nearby field, was forced to enter her coupe in which they escaped after a gun fight with police nearby. Another fight followed within a short distance and the four thieves escaped. Mrs. Carpenter was in the car all that time.

FIRST NATIONAL STOCK SALE TO RFC SANCTIONED

Traylor Doubts U. S. Will Seek Control.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Stockholders of the First National Bank of Chicago ratified the sale of $25,000,000 of preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation and reduced the board of directors of the bank from 44 to 25 members.

The management's proposal to sell preferred stock to the RFC was approved overwhelmingly. Questioned by stockholders, President Melvin A. Traylor said that he was not concerned over the possibility that the sale of the stock would mean RFC dictation of the bank's management.

"If the RFC elected to do so, at the next annual meeting," he said, "it could control the selection of officers of the bank. If I had any fear that we would lose control, provided we conduct the bank properly, I would be concerned. If they are satisfied with our management they will be content to let us run the bank."

Woman Stockholder Fears Control.

Among the stockholders who questioned Mr. Traylor about the possibility of the RFC taking control of the bank through the preferred stock was Mrs. Ethel G. Phillips, 985 Hill road, Winnetka. She pointed out that selling $25,000,000 worth of stock to the RFC would in practice give the government bureau control, as it would own as much stock as all other shareholders combined.

"In presenting my views," Mrs. Phillips said, "I want to make it plain I do not believe it unpatriotic to criticize the centralization of government. There has been too much tendency to brand every criticism as unpatriotic."

In reply to her argument Mr. Traylor said that the banking act of 1933 had so effectively placed the banks under the control of the controller of currency and the federal reserve board that the granting of additional control to the RFC made no practical difference. He said that he understood a bill will be introduced at this session of congress requiring a capital deposit ratio of 1 to 8, which would make an increase of the First National's capital essential.

Board Reduced Under Law.

The reduction in the board of directors from 44 to 25 members was made in accordance with the terms of the banking act passed last year. All the new directors elected were members of the old board. They are:

Philip D. Block	Potter Palmer
Edward E. Brown	George A. Ranney
Ralph Budd	Edward G. Seubert
Augustus A. Carpenter	Silas H. Strawn
Richard J. Collins	R. Douglas Stuart
Mark W. Cressap	Bernard E. Sunny
Charles K. Foster	George G. Thorp
Bentley G. McCloud	Melvin A. Traylor
Charles A. McCulloch	Albert H. Wetten
Harold F. McCormick	Harry A. Wheeler
Ira N. Morris	C. J. Whipple
James Norris	John P. Wilson
John P. Oleson

Retiring directors are:

William R. Abbott	Col. R. R. McCormick
Carl R. Gray	Charles S. Pearce
James B. Forgan	George Pick
John H. Hardin	Frederick H. Prince
Craig B. Hazlewood	Frederick H. Rawson
Marvin Hughitt Jr.	Guy A. Richardson
John Hertz	Charles R. Walgreen
Walter J. Kohler	Daniel Willard
Albert D. Lasker	Thomas E. Wilson
Chauncey McCormick

All the retiring directors asked to be relieved of their duties, Mr. Traylor explained. Several expressed a desire to retire during the last twelve months, but were prevailed upon to finish their terms, he said.

Stockholders May Waive Rights.

Stockholders will have prior right to subscribe to the new preferred stock, but it is expected that all of the stock, which will pay 5 per cent cumulative dividends, will be taken by the government agency.

In explaining the stock sale to shareholders Mr. Traylor emphasized that $15,000,000 of the $25,000,000 preferred issue is callable at the option of the bank at any time, providing the controller of the currency did not object, and that the remaining $10,000,000 may be retired at any time unconditionally.

The new stock will boost the capital of the bank to $50,000,000, equally divided between common and preferred stock. In addition the bank will have surplus of $10,000,000, undivided profits of about $1,000,000, and special reserves of $5,000,000 under the new setup. After putting into effect the changes the common stock will have a book value of $140 a share, Mr. Traylor stated.

During the course of his remarks to stockholders Mr. Traylor revealed that the bank had paid out $165,000,000 to depositors without resort to borrowing in the period from Feb. 14 to March 3 last year immediately preceding the bank moratorium.

Mr. Traylor said he was unwilling to predict when dividends would be resumed, but added that if conditions improve the bank will be in a favorable position to profit.

After the stockholders' meeting the directors met and reëlected all present officers of the bank. J. T. Kockelson was made an assistant secretary.

WALTER J. CUMMINGS.

Utilities Made Reputation of Cummings

The business career of Walter J. Cummings has been confined chiefly to the local transportation industry. For many years Cummings, who is 54 years old, has been a prominent figure both as an operator of electrical street railways and as a manufacturer of electrical railway equipment.

However, apart from his recent connection with the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, he has had banking experience in Chicago, having served in a minor position with the old Illinois Trust and Savings bank under the late John J. Mitchell.

In recent years Cummings won for himself a reputation as a "doctor" for sick transportation companies. He has taken over one company after another, mostly in smaller middle western cities, and placed them on a profitable basis.

Harris Backing Given.

A few weeks ago he was considered as a candidate for the head of the new unified traction system in Chicago. His backing came principally from Albert W. Harris, chairman of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, who as representative of the surface lines bondholders is the most influential figure in the local traction situation.

Cummings withdrew his name as a candidate for the job after some of the other groups participating in the negotiations for a settlement refused their backing.

Born in Springfield, Ill., in June 1879, Mr. Cummings was educated in the public schools of Chicago. In 1904 he gave up his brief career with the Illinois Trust to become a partner with his brother in a new venture—the McGuire-Cummings Manufacturing company in Chicago.

Becomes National Figure.

He became a national figure when he was named by his friend William H. Woodin, former secretary of the treasury, to supervise the reopening of the nation's banks following the banking holiday declared by President Roosevelt last March. In fact one of his Chicago friends asserts that Mr. Woodin made his acceptance of the treasury secretaryship contingent on his getting Cummings to help him.

Mr. Woodin became acquainted with Cummings through the affiliation of the Cummings Car and Coach company, incorporated in 1920 as a successor to the old company, with the J. G. Brill company in Philadelphia in 1930. The Brill company is controlled by the American Car and Foundry company which was formerly headed by William H. Woodin.

Woodin as a result of the association which developed came to have a high regard for Cummings and as time went on leaned on him more heavily.

When the bank reopening situation was cleared, Cummings was assigned to the task of preparing the way for the federal deposit insurance plan which went into effect on Jan. 1. In this job he had to pass on the applications of 14,000 banks seeking to participate in the plan.

Fenton Lauds Performance.

Howard W. Fenton, president of the Harris Trust & Savings bank, credits him with having performed one of the best jobs so far under the Roosevelt administration in his handling of banking affairs. He said:

"His work in Washington in organizing the banks was a stupendous task, handled in a capable, efficient manner, and in a minimum of time. His latest work demonstrates his ability and great credit should be given him for it."

Cummings first attracted general attention in the business world in 1929 when he purchased the Des Moines Street Railway company at public auction for $1,856,000. When he took over the property there were many complaints against the service and the company's relations with the public were poor. Cummings soon changed the public's attitude and put the company back on its feet, his friends assert.

The Des Moines purchase made Cummings an important national figure in the local transportation industry. Already he was principal owner and president of the Chicago and West Towns Railways company, which operates the street railway lines in Chicago's western suburbs. He added to his traction holdings again in 1932 when he purchased the Gary [Indiana] Railways company from the Midland Utilities company—an Insull enterprise.

Other interests include the Des Moines Foundry and Machine com

BIG N. Y. BANK REBUFFS RFC ON STOCK SALE

First National Also Weighs Guaranty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 9.—Formal and brief announcement that the First National Bank of New York, built up by the late George F. Baker, had refused to sell a block of preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation was made at the annual meeting late this afternoon.

Jackson E. Reynolds, president of the bank, merely stated that the bank "had not sold and did not contemplate selling" any stock to the RFC. No further details of the bank's attitude were made public, except the brief explanation that "the bank had no need for additional funds."

Mr. Reynolds said the directors had come to no decision as to participation in the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, but that refusal to join under the present laws would require leaving the national banking system and relinquishing the name of the bank.

Mr. Reynolds said earnings for the last year, at the lowest possible figure, were $10,795,000, or $107.95 a share. In its last report the First National reported total assets of $489,312,628.

Stockholders Quiz Bankers.

Stockholders of the National City bank to the number of nearly 600 appeared at the bank at the annual meeting today and questioned the management closely on the sale of $50,000,000 preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

It was the best attended meeting the bank has ever had. More than 75 per cent of the stock of the bank was represented in person or by proxy.

A stockholder asked James H. Perkins, the bank's executive head, whether the government had made the sale of the stock to the RFC a condition to continued operation of the bank. Mr. Perkins replied with an emphatic denial. Another asked whether there was any danger of undesirable control over the bank's affairs by the RFC. Mr. Perkins said there was no danger; that in the negotiations over the senior stock he had been assured that the RFC had no desire to control the bank.

Questions Stock Sale to RFC.

Still another stockholder said he had been advised by counsel that the question of voting on the preferred stock and capital changes was not in proper form and that delay should be afforded for those reasons. However, the vote by which the stockholders approved the issue of preferred stock was 4,647,348 shares for and 2,722 shares against.

Mr. Perkins in his annual report delved into each item of the bank's balance sheet and discussed the affairs not only of the bank, but of its affiliates. In view of the vicissitudes of the last several years Mr. Perkins found several optimistic developments, among them the rise in the institution's deposits in the last half of 1933 and the satisfactory earnings reported before chargeoffs. Net earnings were $12,511,208, or slightly more than $2 a shares. Assets as of Oct. 25, the last statemetn issued, totaled $1,448,449,844.

SENATORS WILL RENEW MICHIGAN INQUIRY TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—Investigation of the Michigan bank collapse will be resumed by the senate committee on banking and currency tomorrow morning, when it is expected that the names of judges, referees in bankruptcy, and other persons more or less prominent in Michigan affairs to whom it has been testified that "large" loans were made will be disclosed.

The charge that bad loans made by units of the Guardian Detroit Union group of banks included loans to persons in political life was made by a committee of bank directors who made an investigation of the affairs of one of the Detroit units a short time prior to the collapse. The committee did not identify the persons to whom reference was made and committee investigators have been busy isolating them from the "bad loan" group.

Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the committee, hopes to conclude the Michigan angle of the inquiry within two weeks. Then he will take up the Cleveland situation, after which the investigation of the New York Stock exchange will begin.

Chrysler Output in 1933 of 448,697 Units Above '29

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Chrysler Motor corporation in 1933 produced 448,697 units, passing its 1929 production peak, says a preliminary report on last year's activity. Total output was 448,697 units, compared with 448,255 in 1929, the previous high. Volume last year was more than double that of 1932.

Chase May Sue Former Heads; Hire Elihu Root

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 9.—A special committee of directors of the Chase National bank, largest bank in the country, with Elihu Root Jr. as counsel, has been formed to investigate disclosures concerning the bank made before the senate banking and currency committee with a view to instituting claims against former officials of the institution.

This was announced today by Winthrop W. Aldrich, executive head of the bank, at the annual meeting of shareholders.

The announcement created a sensation and brought from the floor the suggestion that Samuel Seabury be retained by the bank to conduct the investigation, or that a committee of prominent persons not connected with the bank in any way take up the task.

May Call in Seabury.

In reply to these proposals Mr. Aldrich revealed that directors had considered retaining Mr. Seabury but had decided in favor of Mr. Root because of the latter's experience in financial matters. He agreed, however, to have directors consider the matter again and declared it was "conceivable" that directors might decide to retain Mr. Seabury.

Mr. Aldrich described at length to shareholders the details of the bank's proposed recapitalization and sale of preferred stock to the RFC. He said that stockholders would be asked to vote upon the question at a meeting to be called for Feb. 27.

It was suggested by a shareholder that the bank's officials had been placed in a difficult position due to the insistence of the President upon sale of preferred stock to the RFC. This shareholder proposed to the stockholders present that they should consider relieving the offices of this predicament by failing to ratify the proposed sale of preferred stock when it comes up.

Advantages Are Mutual.

In response Mr. Aldrich explained that the advantage was not all on the side of the government. He pointed out that if business revives it will be possible to use the additional capital profitably and that without the capital to be supplied by the RFC it would have been impossible to make the write-downs contemplated without reducing the surplus of the bank and thus jeopardizing the common stock dividends.

Mr. Aldrich said the RFC, through cumulative voting of its preferred shares, would be in a position to elect six of the twenty-five directors of the bank, but stated that he did not anticipate the government had changed its original position which was not to interfere with the managements of the banks.

Writedown $78,696,971.

Among the other important items of information disclosed by Mr. Aldrich were:

Net earnings of the Chase for 1933, after taxes but before allowance for reserve and charge-offs, were $25,298,094, of which $13,328,094 was employed for charge-offs and additions to reserves and $11,470,050 distributed as dividends. Total charge-offs made by the bank in the last year amounted to $78,696,971. Total assets as of Dec. 30 were $1,715,185,000.

In accordance with the provisions of the banking act of 1933, shareholders voted to reduce the membership of the board of directors from 36 to 25. In making this change, the shareholders elected two new directors, but dropped from the board twelve of the old directors.

DOLLAR EASES IN IRREGULAR EXCHANGE TRADE

New York, Jan. 9.—The dollar lost ground slightly in dealings in foreign exchange markets today, closing with a gold value based on the French franc of 64.20 cents, a loss of 8 points.

There was no change in the gold purchase price of the Reconstruction Finance corporation of $34.06 an ounce, which has been maintained for 16 business days. Sterling opened in London at $5.08½. At this level, bar gold was worth $32.22 an ounce.

Movements in foreign exchange were irregular. The pound sterling opened here at $5.10¼ and closed at $5.08¼, a net loss of three-quarters of 1 cent on the day. On the other hand, the French franc opened at 6.13 and closed at 6.10¼, a gain of ¾ point on the day.

Slight gains were made in German marks, lira, the guilder, the Swiss franc, and the Canadian dollar, while equally slight losses were recorded in most other currencies.

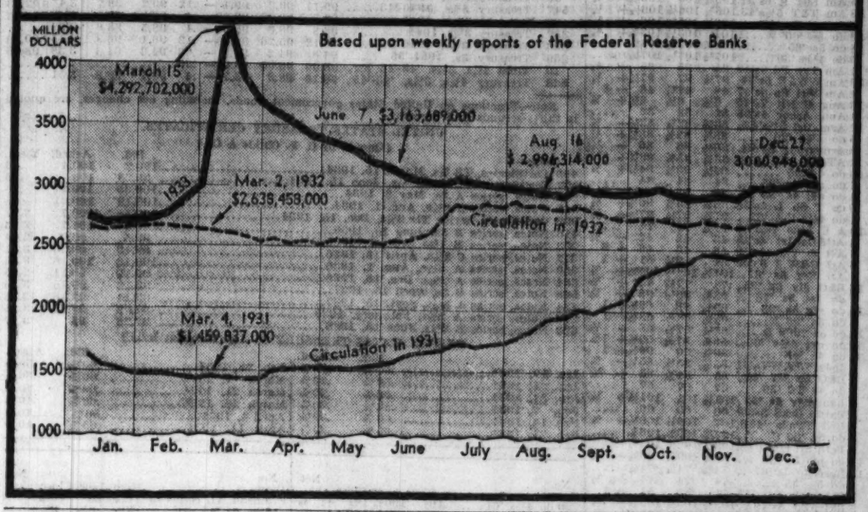
FEDERAL RESERVE NOTES IN CIRCULATION



Chicago Bank Stockholders Vote Few Changes in Officials

Stockholders and directors of many Chicago and suburban banks met yesterday to elect new members of official staffs or to confirm the old ones in their offices. Reports received on the results of the various elections and appointments indicate there will be few important changes in Chicago banking personnel as 1934 gets under way.

Directors of the Northern Trust company yesterday elevated Thomas S. Estrem from second vice president to vice president. John M. Meikle was advanced from auditor to vice president and auditor, and Sheldon A. Weaver was promoted from assistant secretary to second vice president. The following were made assistant secretaries: Earl Goodwine Jr., Reginald J. Wood, Randolph W. Colwell, and George Schaefer. All other officers were reëlected.

Haffner Made Director.

Stockholders of the City National Bank and Trust company yesterday elected Charles C. Haffner Jr., former executive vice president, a director, to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears Roebuck & Co.

Rawleigh Warner and E. E. Sheridan resigned from the board of the First National Bank and Trust company of Evanston and their places were not filled.

C. W. Ross was succeeded on the board of the First National bank in East Chicago by W. L. Spencer. Stockholders abolished the office of chairman and elected Col. Walter J. Riley, former incumbent, president. C. A. Westberg was named executive vice president. Col. Riley and Mr. Westberg were appointed to the same offices with the Union National Bank of Indiana Harbor, whose directorate is identical with the East Chicago institution.

Livestock National Action.

William J. O'Connor, assistant general manager of the Union Stockyards and Transit company, was elected a director of the Livestock National bank while A. S. Bagnell, assistant cashier, was named vice president to succeed H. I. Taffany, who resigned to become vice president of the District National bank, now being organized.

Other changes were the promotion of Paul Winegarden from assistant cashier to assistant vice president and of James Burgess from paying teller to assistant cashier.

Stockholders of the National Security Bank of Chicago elected Dr. George H. Schroeder to the board.

Four new members were elected to the directorate of the Citizens National bank of Chicago Heights. They are Joseph Orr, W. H. Donovan, Charles Fahlstrom and B. J. Schwoeffermann, which increases the board from five to seven. W. D. Fudleston and N. Seifer resigned.

Directors decided to discard the managerial type of direction and elected Joseph Orr president. Fahlstrom and Schwoeffermann were named vice presidents and C. F. Meyer was retained as cashier.

Many Make No Changes.

No change in either directors or officials occurred at stockholders and directors' meetings of the following institutions: American National Bank and Trust company, Drovers National bank, Drovers Trust and Savings bank, Broadway Trust and Savings bank, First National bank of Blue Island, South Chicago Savings bank, Lake View Trust and Savings bank, National Builders bank, Sixty-third and Halsted State Savings bank, Riverside State bank, First National Bank of Dolton, Halstern Exchange National bank, and the First National Bank of Englewood.

Stockholders of the Hamilton State bank reëlected all except one director—Byron V. Kanaley—who was succeeded by his brother, James L. Kanaley. All directors of the University State and Lawndale National banks were reëlected but officers will not be named until the board of the first named convenes next Monday, and the latter tonight.

Annual meeting of stockholders of the Edison Park State bank, scheduled yesterday, was postponed until Jan. 23.

Cut Capital in Half.

Pan-American Foreign corporation declared initial dividends of $2 a share on the class A and class B stocks. Directors of American Smelting company declared $2.50 a share on the 7 per cent first preferred stock.

FILLING STATION GROUP LAUNCHES ATTACK ON CODE

Representatives of the independent retail gasoline filling stations launched a campaign here yesterday to improve their position under the petroleum code. The group, acting through the National Association of Gasoline Retailers, at meetings at the Hotel La Salle, outlined corrections which they say are imperative if their business is to survive.

Dr. John W. Frey, an official of the petroleum administration board at Washington, and Congressmen Thomas J. O'Malley of Wisconsin and J. V. Brown of Kentucky addressed the gasoline men at a dinner last evening.

Dr. Frey promised the retailers that the petroleum administrator would listen to their grievances with an open mind. The two congressmen promised their influence in advancing the cause of the gasoline men.

The National Association of Gasoline Retailers insist that they have not been given a square deal under the NRA, asserting that while they are asked to take on more help their profits have been reduced. Some of the reforms which they demand are: elimination of price cutting, putting an end to unjustified discounts to customers and limitation of gasoline filling stations through the imposition of quotas which would be based on the number of automobiles in a community.

M. K. Tillman of Highland Park was elected permanent president of the association. Other officers elected were: Wilmer R. Schuh, Milwaukee, first vice president; H. S. Sparr, New York, second vice president; H. M. Boutin, Lake Forest, treasurer. A. C. Mickelson of Chicago was reëlected secretary.

RFC REPORTS ON 6 BILLION LOANS; ASKS MORE CASH

Vast Scope of Its Operations Shown.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—The tremendous scope of the activities of the Reconstruction Finance corporation were pictured in a review of activities from its establishment on Feb. 2, 1932, to Dec. 31, 1933, sent to congress today, placing at about 6 billion dollars the total of disbursements and of authorizations made but not yet disbursed. This great total includes amounts authorized and commitments outstanding of $4,959,826 and additional disbursements of $991,891,921 under special allocations ordered by congress.

The total of funds actually disbursed for all purposes was $4,064,574,581 and repayments were $1,031,688,579, of which $710,659,693 was from banks and trust companies which had received loan disbursements of $1,429,580,716. Thus, the banks have repaid 49.7 per cent of the amounts they received, and several other borrowers had a repayment record as good or better. Of all loans disbursed the repayments totaled 37.4 per cent.

Gets Still More Funds.

The RFC has conducted its operation by the renewed use of these repayments, 500 million dollars in capital stock subscribed by the treasury department; 2 billion 350 millions obtained by the sale of RFC notes to the treasury and other smaller sums received from miscellaneous sources, bringing the total of funds received to $4,074,249,099. Dividends on preferred stock held in banks had totaled $448,451.

At the end of the year the corporation had a cash balance as between disbursements and receipts of $9,674,518. Its profits in earnings, above interest it paid on notes sold to the treasury and expenses was $39,015,366.

The corporation's report showed that it had notes outstanding on Dec. 31 for which it had accepted gold in payment in the amount of $78,726,187. Approximately $60,050,000 of the total represented purchases abroad up to that time.

Railroads Get 394 Millions.

The survey showed that loans to railroads actually disbursed amounted to $394,094,258, and that repayments had been made of $57,014,636, leaving $337,079,621 outstanding against which collateral of an aggregate market or appraised value of $523,995,965 was held. However, in the case of fourteen railroads the value of the collateral put up had shrunk in the present market so that in these instances the total deficiency was estimated at $30,000,000. The report called attention to the fact that the interstate commerce commission had passed upon collateral before all railroad loans were made.

Five railroads, the report stated, had made full repayment of loans advanced. These companies are: Pennsylvania, $28,900,000; Cincinnati Union Terminal, $8,300,000; Great Northern, $6,000,000; Gulf, Mobile and Northern, $520,000; Central of New Jersey, $500,000.

Record of Repayments.

As to loans in general, the report showed an unusually good record in the percentage of repayments. Some of these records were:

Banks and trust companies, including loans for dividend distribution to depositors in closed banks, 49.7 per cent.

Building and loan associations, 40.6 per cent.

Insurance companies, 29.1 per cent.

Mortgage loan companies, 17 per cent.

Railroads, 14 per cent.

Federal intermediate credit banks, 100 per cent.

Livestock credit corporations, 79 per cent.

Regional agricultural credit corporations, 80.2 per cent.

Other agricultural credit corporations, 66.2 per cent.

The report showed that actual disbursements for purchase of perferred stock and capital notes in banks, authorizations for which now approximate $876,000,000, had totaled $249,988,116 on Dec. 31. No limitation has been placed upon the extent to which the RFC could obtain money from the treasury for such purchases. Otherwise its authority to borrow from the treasury was limited in the RFC act to $2,900,000,000.

RFC Asks More Money.

In presenting its report the RFC asked congress for a longer life and still greater lending power.

From one to three years' additional time for making loans to the account of returning prosperity and from half a billion to a billion more dollars to do it with, was the proposition laid before congress. Without new legisla-

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 9.—A further sinking spell in prices of United States government bonds contrasted with generally higher quotations for domestic corporation issues and leading foreign loans today.

Long term treasury issues were driven down 2-32d to 23-32d points on transactions aggregating $5,765,200, compared with the turnover of $16,213,200 for the listed bond market as a whole. New treasury 4¼-3¼s established a new low since issuance at 98 3-32, with other issues touching new lows on the movement.

Other Sections Advance.

As national obligations dropped the secondary rails, utilities, industrials, and the majority of foreign bonds recorded their best improvement in some days. Impetus to the recovery in the domestic section was attributed partly to the firmness of stocks and to continued optimistic reports concerning business and industry generally.

In the foreign group, German bonds which had been bid up sharply the previous day lost part of these gains as buying from German sources tapered off. Considerable strength was manifest by many Scandinavian issues, Austrian government loans and by French government and municipal issues. Latin American loans closed irregular.

Many Rails Improve.

Rails, up 1 to 2 or more points, included some liens of Alleghany corporation, Baltimore and Ohio, Canadian Pacific, St. Paul, Rock Island, Erie, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Southern Pacific, Southern and Wabash. Issues of Union Pacific, Santa Fé, Chesapeake and Ohio, and similar roads were steady, but not in unusual demand.

Curb bonds were active and strong in both the domestic and foreign groups. Principal gains in the former amounted to 1 to 5 points and in the latter 1 to 6. In the over the counter market federal land bank issues turned reactionary, losing half a point to 2¾, and Home Owners' Loan corporation 4s lost 1½ points.

HOLC BONDS.

Bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation were quoted yesterday at 91½ bid, 92½ asked.

American Chain.

Investors' Guide: Please send me a report on American Chain 6 per cent bonds, 1938—G. A.

Answer: Sales of tire chains were formerly an important source of income to American Chain Company, Inc., but change in consumer buying habits has lessened its importance. Wire rope, the sale of which depends primarily on new building, is the second most important division. The company is the largest manufacturer of chains in the world. Volume generally depends on rate of business activity.

Drastic economies enabled the company to finish the first half of 1933 with a loss of $706,000, against loss of $1,823,000 for the corresponding 1932 period.

Loss in 1932 was $2,006,000, against loss of $2,058,000 in 1931. The company has failed to report a profit before interest since 1930. In that year interest was earned 6.55 times, against 9.07 times in 1929.

On April 1, 1933, the company was unable to meet the $3,843,500 debenture bond maturity. It offered to exchange the bonds for new three year first mortgage and collateral trust 6s, in the ratio of $125 new bonds for each $100 old bond.

Giving effect to this exchange current assets on June 30, 1933, including cash assets of about $1,500,000, totaled $7,765,000 and current liabilities were $775,000. Funded debt was $4,804,000.

The bonds are speculative.

Park Utah Consolidated Mines.

Investors' Guide: Kindly send me information on Park Utah Consolidated Mines.—A. C. C.

Answer: Park Utah Consolidated Mines company is a lead and zinc producer with mines in Utah. Its ore contains small quantities of copper, gold, and silver. Low metal prices made operations unprofitable and in April, 1932, the company suspended all work except that which was necessary to keep the mines in condition.

The company reported no ore sales in the first half of 1933. Net loss before depletion was $38,000, against loss of $154,000 in the corresponding 1932 period. Loss before depletion was $136,000 in 1932, $473,000 in 1931, and $142,000 in 1930. In 1929 net profit before depletion was $468,000, or 22 cents per share, against $913,000.

On June 30, 1933, cash, federal land bank bonds, and municipal bonds aggregated $1,140,000. Total current liabilities were $42,000.

There are 2,090,346 shares of $1 par capital stock on which no dividend has been paid since 1929. Inasmuch as the company found it unprofitable to operate on the basis of metal prices in 1930, it appears that prices would have to rise considerably before profit able operation could be resumed. The stock is purely speculative.

TOBACCO SHARES LEAD QUIET RALLY IN STOCK MARKET

Advance in Cigaret Price Induces Buying.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 9.—Tobacco shares provided the key to today's dull and generally stronger dealings on the New York stock exchange. Less than 900,000 shares changed hands all told. Outside of the tobacco group price changes were mainly fractional but the majority were on the plus side.

Traders were still awaiting further developments from Washington on the one hand and a more definite trend in the course of business. They have been in this waiting mood since the first of the year and brokers expressed the opinion that the market may be expected to continue in its present calm until something worthwhile happens. Floor professionals have provided the bulk of what little business occurred.

Tobacco Issues Soar.

Buying of the tobaccos was prompted by a markup in cigaret prices by some of the leading producers of the industry. Liggett & Myers rose 5½, American Tobacco B and preferred jumped more than 3 points each in fairly brisk trading, and Reynolds B and Lorillard hopped up a point or so each.

The price rise on cigarets had been anticipated for weeks but there have been so many false alarms about the date of its probable announcement that the news caught the street somewhat by surprise today.

The rush to buy in the share group stirred up a flurry of trading in other sections of the list, but the display was short lived.

Communication shares furnished a mild exception, Western Union and American Telephone advancing a couple of points each on further talk of the favorable outlook for congressional action on the administration's wire merger proposal.

Liquor Issues Advance.

Liquor issues were a bit stronger in quiet trading. U. S. Industrial Alcohol was favored, and among the satellites of the group Crown Cork and Seal was able to better its rating.

Three or four railroad shares were inclined to do better as the first of the weekly reports of individual roads on the improvement of freight revealed a rather unexpected lift by comparison with the preceding week.

In the gold stock group Homestake dropped ten points on one sale and had recovered only 3 by the close. Other metals did little.

Motors recovered from their recent profit taking, but were content to loll along.

Two individual stocks to step out were Hat Corporation preferred and Bon Ami A, the first named rising 8½ points and the other soaring nearly 5 points to the best price since 1929.

GRAINS HIGHER; TRADE IN MORE CHEERFUL MOOD

Wheat and Corn Advance Nearly a Cent.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A much better undertone prevailed in the grain markets yesterday than lately with removal of hedges against shipping sales of cash grain having effect on all pits. There was no material pressure. Wheat advanced 1⅛ to 1¼ cents and corn ⅞ to 1 cent over Monday's finish before the upturn was checked.

Despite profit taking the close was well toward the top. Wheat showed gains of ⅝ to ⅞ cent, corn was up ⅝ to ⅞ cent, oats ⅛ to ¼ cent, rye 1 cent, and barley 1¼ cents for the day. May wheat finished at 85 to 85⅛ cents; corn, 52⅝ to 52⅛ cents; oats, 37⅜ cents; rye, 58⅝ cents; and barley, 52½ cents. Winnipeg wheat was ⅛ to ¼ cent higher, while Liverpool gained ⅛ to ⅜ cent.

Traders Oppose Upturn.

Traders were inclined to oppose the upturn in both wheat and corn, while cash houses were persistent buyers in small lots, and there was also scattered buying by commission houses. Outside trade, however, showed little disposition to broaden.

Continued lack of soaking rains in the southwestern winter wheat belt, where there has been a lack of subsoil moisture for several years, is becoming a market influence. In some quarters the belief prevails that were the monetary policy of the administration to be defined there would be a marked change in the character of trade comment, and supply and demand factors would become the dominating influences.

The dry subsoil condition, which is said to extend from the Texas panhandle north into central Saskatchewan, has not been materially altered so far this winter.

Millers and Shippers Active.

A revival in the milling and general shipping demand for cash wheat and corn was a factor in helping along the advance in both grains yesterday. Kansas City reported 500,000 bushels of cash wheat sold overnight, and around 130,000 bushels were sold to mills and the Federal Relief corporation by Chicago handlers, including 100,000 bushels sold in store Monday. Shipping sales of corn here aggregated close to 200,000 bushels, and the limited country offerings to arrive as well as the small receipts led some observers to look for another reduction in the visible supply next Monday.

Increasing complaints of inability of feeders to buy corn in the country at less than 45 cents a bushel, which is the government loan figure, are being received from a considerable area. It is estimated over 100,000,000 bushels of cash corn have been sealed in cribs so far as security for government loans, or around 40 per cent of the total amount which arrived at all terminal markets during the 1932-'33 crop year.

Miscellaneous.

IT TAKES A GOOD MAN TO DO THIS JOB, BUT GOOD MEN GET GOOD PAY!

There are not many places where you can exchange energy, hours, intelligent effort for $40.00, $50.00, or $65.00 a week, and get on that basis inside a few weeks, from $100.00 to $175.00 first month. Men do it here if they are of the right calibre. They must be white men, in good health, with character references. Not "go-getters," but go-men. Not wishers or dreamers, but doers and workers. We will match that kind of value with the biggest thing in its field on earth, on the basis of volume of business and increase in volume for the past four or more years!

When you have acquired more knowl-edge of this business you can make more money. We have men in this work na-tionally making many hundreds monthly as a regular thing. They didn't just stumble into that income, but developed it to equal the standard of this opportu-nity itself. With diligence you can do the same thing. This is permanent, se-cure, desirable—but actual work and not make-believe.

We do not wish forgotten men, float-ers or tideover seekers, but men who desire to connect with a future—cashing in also on present efforts. Just a few men, you understand—not of any type or experience, but men we can work with and to shoot at—home connections to chal-lenge them to their best. Personal in-terview from 9:30 a. m. to 1:00 p. m., Wed., Jan. 10. Room 430, at 1525 E. 53d-st.
